HOOVER PROPOSES MORATORIUM OF ONE YEAR ON INTERNATIONAL WAR DEBTS AND REPARATIONS

THREE OFFICIALS SEEK POWER TO REDISTRICT STATE

TRIBUNAL REJECTED PROPOSAL IN 1921

However, Membership Has Changed Since Then Although Democrats Still Control, 4 to 3.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 20.—A move to re-establish the former power of the Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney-General to redistrict the 34 State Senatorial Districts of Missouri, when the Legislature fails—as the 1931 Legislature failed—to reapportion the districts after a decennial census, will be undertaken in a few days, Attorney-General Stratton Shartel announced this afternoon.

The procedure will be for the three State officials to promulgate a reapportionment of the Senatorial Districts before July 15, Shartel said, to be followed by a court test in which an attempt will be made to persuade the Missouri Supreme Court to overturn its 1921 ruling which deprived the three State officers of their power to redistrict, after failure of the Legislature to pass redistricting bills.

The Supreme Court in December, 1921, by a four to three vote, held the initiative and referendum amendment to the State Constitution, adopted in 1908, superseded and prevailed over a constitutional section which gave the three officers the redistricting power in the event the Legislature did not perform its constitutional duty to redistrict.

Situation in 1921.

Four Democratic Judges concurred in the 1921 ruling and the three Republican Judges dissented. The ruling knocked out a Senatorial reapportionment by Governor A. M. Hyde, Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett and Secretary of State Charles U. Becker, all Republicans. The ruling retained in force the so-called Democratic "gerrymander" which has been in effect since 1901, and which created districts grossly unequal even then. The State Senate of the 1931 Legislature comprised 19 Democrats and 15 Republicans. The reapportionment knocked out by the 1921 decision would have made 20 of the districts safely Republican.

The entire membership of the Supreme Court has changed since the 1921 decision. Judges Graves, Woodson and Walker have died and Judge James T. Blair, the fourth Democratic Judge at the time, is in private practice. Of the Republicans, Judge Higbee is dead and Judges Elder and David E. Blair are in private practice.

The court now, as in 1921, is made up of four Democrats and three Republicans. The Democrats are Chief Justice Ragland, J. T. White, Ernest S. Gantt and G. R. Ellison. The Republicans are F. E. Atwood, William F. Frank and Berryman Henwood.

Shartel said it was hoped that the present court might be persuaded to overturn the former ruling which Republican lawyers have declared is not good law and revive the power of the three officials to revise the Senatorial Districts, when the Legislature neglects to do so.

Governor Caulfield is in St. Louis and Becker is on a fishing trip in the Ozarks. Shartel said work on a redistricting plan would be started in a few days.

30-Day Provision.

Section seven, of article four of the constitution, which the Supreme Court held was superseded, so far as the three state officers were concerned, by the initiative and referendum amendment, provides that when the Legislature fails to reapportion the Senatorial Districts after a decennial census, the Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney-General shall make a reapportionment within 30 days after adjournment of the Legislature. The section provided that when the reapportionment was completed within the 30 days, it was to be filed with the Secretary of State, and upon proclamation of the Governor would become effective and as binding as if passed by the Legislatuer.

The 1931 Legislature adjourned on June 15 and the redistricting now proposed as a test would have to be completed by July 15.

The last Legislature, as has been told, failed to pass a senatorial redistricting bill. It did pass a

CONFESSES MURDER OF COLORADO TEACHER

Youth Arrested in California Tells of Killing Enid Marriott at Wiggins, Colo.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKTON, Cal., June 20.—Because she "gossiped" about him, John Schopflin, 21 years old, confessed today to police he killed Miss Enid Marriott, a school teacher at Wiggins, Colo., whose murder last Nov. 15 baffled the authorities. Her body was found last Jan. 19, frozen in the ice of an irrigation ditch. Schopflin was one of the suspects questioned at the time by Colorado officers but was released by them.

Schopflin was arrested here last night after a stolen automobile in which he was riding was wrecked. He was identified by Mrs. Catherine Witt as the youth who picked her up in a motor car here April 3 and assaulted her. Schopflin denied Mrs. Witt's accusation. After several hours of questioning he turned suddenly on the detectives.

"Remember the woman that was killed and thrown in the creek last November in Colorado?" he asked, "well, I did it."

On further questioning he gave the details of the crime. He described Enid Marriott as a woman that "always wanted to be doing something and saying something." He said she was "always bustin' into things, telling on bootleggers and talking a lot. She talked about my going with a married lady. She talked too much, so I stopped her.

"I met her on the night of Nov. 15 as she got off the train at Wiggins and took her in my car. We drove about 10 miles from town and stopped on the bridge. We got out of the car. I told her about talking about me. Then I told her I was going to kill her and pulled a gun. She said, 'Oh, God, don't.' I shot her, firing all of the five cartridges in my revolver. Her body fell into the irrigation ditch and I threw her books in after her."

ALTON YOUTH DROWNED WADING IN DRAINAGE CANAL

Leonard L. Adams, 18 years old, of Alton, who could not swim, was drowned yesterday at 2 p. m. when he stepped into deep water in a drainage canal nine miles south of Alton. He resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Adams, at 118 Indiana avenue, Alton.

The body was recovered an hour and a half later. With two companions Adams waded into the canal and disappeared suddenly, apparently encountering a step-off. One of his companions was swimming about 10 feet away, but was unable to reach him in time. The canal is between Mitchell and Wood River, Ill.

MELLON IN ANCIENT HOTEL

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, England, June 29.—Andrew W. Mellon, United States Secretary of the Treasury, one of the world's wealthiest men, is lodged over the week-end in a small hotel of middle sixteenth century construction, in which Samuel Pepys once stayed.

There is no bathroom, but running cold water of which the hostelry is exceedingly proud, is available. Mellon spent the day with his son looking around Cambridge, and to all appearances he was just another happy father, of whom there were many about

WHAT VARIOUS NATIONS PAY IN WAR DEBTS AND DRAW FROM GERMANY

Great Britain pays the United States approximately $165,000,000 a year in principal and interest. Allied war debt payments to Great Britain total $88,750,000 in 1931 and 1932, and $91,250,000 a year thereafter.

Germany pays Great Britain $80,000,000 a year in reparations annuities, and thus Great Britain collects from her creditors enough to cover her annual debt payment to the United States.

France pays the United States increasing amounts each year, installments of principal rising from about $31,000,000 in 1926 to $115,000,000 in 1987. Interest did not begin until last year, and until 1940 will be at the rate of only one per cent.

Italy pays the United States about $15,000,000 a year, increasing to about $80,000,000 in 1987.

Germany this year owes $425,000,000 in reparations.

STOCKS MOUNT $2 TO $11 A SHARE ON HOOVER'S PLAN

Securities in New York and Berlin Markets Bound Upward at News.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The world of finance saw a rift in the clouds today following President Hoover's move to relieve Germany's financial stress. Securities in the New York and Berlin markets bounded upward, markets in London and Paris were closed, but nervous tension was relieved.

On the New York stock market, which had been drifting lower for a fortnight in a state of stagnation reaching extremes not experienced in five years, advances ranged from $2 to more than $10 a share. Such issues as United States Steel, American Can and American Telephone gained $6 and $7 a share, Union Pacific and Santa Fe railroads gained $10 and $11. The turnover for the two-hour session, 1,500,000 shares was larger than for any of the preceding five-hour sessions of the week, and was the largest for a Saturday since March 28.

German obligations led the advance in the New York bond market, the Young plan issue pushing up $50.25 per bond of $1000 par value.

BERLIN, June 20.—Under the influence of the news from America of President Hoover's move for German relief industrial shares jumped as high as 15 points. Demand for foreign currencies continued in such alarming volume that the Reichsbank directors ordered a suspension of the private discount rate quotation on the Boerse and announced that in the future drafts must be presented direct to the Reichsbank.

DO-X AFTER SEVEN MONTHS REACHES RIO DE JANEIRO

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 20.—Riding in the quiet waters of Botafogo Harbor tonight, the German seaplane DO-X at last had reached the goal for which she set out seven and one-half months ago from Altenrheim, Switzerland.

She came down from the north, circled the city, while thousands watched, and alighted just after noon with Commander Friedrich Christiansen at the controls.

The crowd jammed the waterfront and cheered as the world's biggest airplane came down. High Government officials were on hand to extend the city's welcome and two Brazilian army planes darted about as an escort.

It was last Nov. 5 the DO-X left Switzerland. On the way over a series of misfortunes dogged the flight, the most serious of which occurred at Lisbon, Portugal, when a fire destroyed one of her wings. On May 30 she got to the Cape Verde Islands and on June 4 crossed the 1400 miles of water to Brazil

NAUTILUS, IN TOW AGAIN, TO REACH LAND TOMORROW

CREW PRACTICALLY ISOLATED 36 HOURS

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
(Copyright, 1931.)

ABOARD THE SUBMARINE NAUTILUS AT SEA, June 20. (By Radio via Portis Head and London)—Once more we are moving, again having been taken in tow by the U. S. S. Wyoming. We are making about five knots and have 221 knots to go. We expect to reach the Queenstown lightship about noon Monday.

Unless out engines do better than they have been doing we will remain fast to the battleship until we sight the lightship. By then our batteries should be charged enough to enable us to move under our own power again, but for the sake of safety we will arrange through the courtesy of the Harbor Master of Cork for a tug to come alongside at the lightship and berth us at the Shannon Scheme Wharf. There our battery unit must be fully charged, hurriedly discharged, and charged again for its own protection. It has served nobly and we cannot afford to abuse it any further.

Since we stopped early yesterday it was impossible to launch a boat until this morning when a boat from the Wyoming came alongside bringing an emergency towing gear and line.

Wreckage Cleared Away.

The wreckage of our bridge and lifelines was cleared away, leaving our decks practically stripped as they would be for ice work. The tow line was made fast again to the eye in the bow where the clevice was carried away the other day. By noon we were under way again.

The last 36 hours we have been practically isolated, with heavy seas sweeping fore and aft, making it dangerous to try to get out on deck—dangerous in the day time and absolutely impossible at night.

Communication was absolutely cut off, even from the battleship, we snuggled like rats in a dark eerie hole, with nearly every light turned out, saving our energy. Only low powered deep blue night lights in the sleeping quarters gave the sleepers a deathly hue.

Crew's Health Improves.

Some of us kept working all night long on the auxiliary engine. We were rewarded by a continuous run of eight hours, putting juice into our batteries, so a few lights are now available.

The health of the members of the Nautilus' crew was greatly improved, in spite of the close confinement. All are eating again, and so we were piling up scraps in the kitchen which made a ghastly mess until the hatches were opened again this morning.

Canned oysters, beans, ham, salmon, tomatoes, and haddock, all cold, were the dishes served mostly to stop our appetites and we washed it down with cold water stained with red lead from the tanks.

This morning's boat from the Wyoming brought us fresh bread and apples, and these with the sunshine and the chance to move about a little, put new life into all of us.

Text of President's Offer to Suspend War Debts

WASHINGTON, June 20.

FOLLOWING is the text of President Hoover's statement proposing a one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts:

THE American Government proposes the postponement during one year of all payments on inter-governmental debts, reparations and relief debts, both principal and interest, of course not including obligations of Governments held by private parties. Subject to confirmation by Congress, the American Government will postpone all payments upon the debts of foreign Governments to the American Government payable during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, conditional on a like postponement for one year of all payments on intergovernmental debts owing the important creditor powers.

This course of action has been approved by the following Senators: Henry F. Ashurst, Hiram Bingham, William E. Borah, James F. Byrnes, Arthur Capper, Simeon D. Fess, Duncan U. Fletcher, Carter Glass, William J. Harris, Pat Harrison, Cordell Hull, William H. King, Dwight W. Morrow, George H. Moses, David A. Reed, Claude A. Swanson, Arthur Vandenberg, Robert F. Wagner, David I. Walsh, Thomas J. Walsh, James E. Watson, and by the following Representatives: Isaac Bacharach, Joseph W. Bryns, Carl R. Chindblom, Frank Crowther, James W. Collier, Charles R. Crisp, Thomas H. Cullen, George P. Darrow, Harry A. Estep, Willis C. Hawley, Carl E. Mapes, J. C. McLaughlin, Earl C. Michener, C. William Ramseyer, Bertrand H. Snell, John Q. Tilson, Allen T. Treadway and William R. Wood. It has been approved by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and by Mr. Owen D. Young.

The purpose of this action is to give the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world and to help free the recuperative forces already in motion in the United States from retarding influences from abroad.

The world wide depression has affected the countries of Europe more severely than our own. Some of these countries are feeling to a serious extent the drain of this depression on national economy. The fabric of intergovernmental debts, supportable in normal times, weighs heavily in the midst of this depression.

From a variety of causes arising out of the depression such as the fall in the prices of foreign commodities and the lack of confidence in economic and political stability abroad there is an abnormal movement of gold into the United States which is lowering the credit stability of many foreign countries. These and the other difficulties abroad diminish buying power for our exports and in a measure are the cause of our continued unemployment and continued lower prices to our farmers.

Wise and timely action should contribute to relieve the pressure of these adverse forces in foreign countries and should assist in the reestablishment of confidence, thus forwarding political peace and economic stability in the world.

Authority of the President to deal with his problem is limited as this action must be supported by Congress. The President has been assured the cordial support of leading members of both parties in the Senate and the House. The essence of this proposition is to give time to permit debtor governments to recover their national prosperity. I am suggesting to the American people that they be wise creditors in their own interest and be good neighbors.

I wish to take this occasion also to frankly state my views upon our relations to German reparations and the debts owed to us by the Allied Governments of Europe. Our Government has not been a party to, or exerted any voice in determination of reparation obligations. We purposely did not participate in either general reparations or the division of colonies or property. The repayment of debts due to us from the Allies for the advance for war and reconstruction were settled upon a basis not contingent upon German reparations or related thereto. Therefore reparations is necessarily wholly a European problem with which we have no relation.

I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to us. World confidence would not be enhanced by such action. None of our debtor nations has ever suggested it. But as the basis of the settlement of these debts was the capacity under normal conditions of the debtor to pay we should be consistent with out own policies and principles if we take into account the abnormal situation now existing in the world. I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay and it is our view that broad vision requires that our government should recognize the situation as it exists.

This course of action is entirely consistent with the policy which we have hitherto pursued. We are not involved in the discussion of strictly European problems, of which the payment of German reparations is one. It represents our willingness to make a contribution to the early restoration of world prosperity in which our own people have so deep an interest.

I wish further to add that while this action has no bearing on the conference for limitation of land armaments to be held next February, inasmuch as the burden of competitive armaments has contributed to bring about this depression, we trust that by this evidence of our desire to assist we shall have contributed to the good will which is so necessary in the solution of this major question.

GERMAN MAKES FIRST ROUND TRIP OVER CHANNEL IN GLIDER

Robert Kronfeld Wins $5000 Prize; Canadian Made First Single Crossing Friday.

By the Associated Press.

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, France, June 20.—Robert Kronfeld, a German, today made the first round-trip crossing of the English channel in a motorless airplane, winning the $5000 prize posted by the London Daily Mail for the first man to make the trip across and back in the same day.

It took him two hours to fly from an airdrome near Calais, France, to the Swingate airdrome near Dover. He stayed in England only an hour or so, then hitched his glider to an airplane which pulled him off the ground.

Out across the water he cast off the tow-line and continued on his own. The plane turned back, and he finished his flight at about 10:30 p. m., flying through the night most of the way.

Only yesterday Lieutenant Lissant Beardmore, a Canadian, made the first channel crossing by glider. He sailed from England to France, but went back today by airplane. Another German glider tried the crossing this evening. But had considerable difficulty getting into the air. Once he had taken off he abandoned the effort and landed his plane.

EX-SECRETARY FALL ENTERS HOSPITAL FOR EXAMINATION

Doctor's Decision, on His Physical Fitness to Serve Jail Term to Be Given Out at Capital.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., June 20.—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, left his home here late today to enter the William Beaumont Government Hospital to be examined by Army doctors who will determine whether he is physically able to serve the sentence of a year in jail imposed for bribe-taking.

Earlier today Mrs. Fall said her husband had been "almost prostrated" by the heat and she did not know when he could enter the hospital.

It was announced orders had been received to give out no information at the hospital relative to the progress of the examination but that the result would be made public in Washington.

TWO CRASH TO DEATH IN FOG

Army Officer's Landing Gear Snags on Tension Wires.

By the Associated Press.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., June 20.—Trapped in a heavy fog along the coast near Avila, Cal., Lieut. Philip A. Horner, 25, of Medford, Ore., attached to the United States Army Air Corps Reserve here, and Edward Tipton, Covina, crashed to their deaths in an army biplane today.

Officers at March Field, where Lieut. Horner was stationed, said information indicated the crash occurred as the pilot attempted to get below the fog or make a landing. The landing gear snagged high tension wires, and the plane burned when it struck the ground. Army authorities said Lieut. Horner was flying alone when he left March Field en route to Paso Robles.

HOOVER ARRIVES AT RAPIDAN, MILLS MAKES TRIP WITH HIM

Mrs. Hoover and Allan Motor to Virginia Camp; She Drives Part of Way.

By the Associated Press.

ORANGE, Va., June 20.—President Hoover and a small party, including Under-Secretary Mills of the Treasury, arrived by automobile late tonight at the Chief Executive's Rapidan camp.

Mills has been with the President much of the time since the recent intensive conferences preceding the announcement of the proposed one-year moratorium of inter-government debts. Two of the President's secretaries, Lawrence Richey and Theodore Joslin, made the trip.

Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by their son, Allan, and Secret Service men, drove her own car much of the way to the camp. A few other guests were expected to join the party tomorrow.

NEW AUSTRIAN CHANCELLOR

Dr. Karl Buresch Forms Cabinet After Split Over Bank.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, June 20.—Dr. Karl Buresch, who has served as Governor of Lower Austria, today succeeded in forming a new cabinet to replace that of Chancellor Otto Ender. Ender's cabinet resigned as a result of disagreement with the Parliament over measures for support of the Creditanstalt, Austria's largest bank, which is in financial difficulties.

Prof. Josef Redlich, who at one time was a lecturer at Harvard University, is Minister of Finance in the new cabinet. Johann Schober is Foreign Minister.

WORLD-WIDE LET-UP ON COLLECTIONS IS U. S. IDEA

Would Allow Suspension of Payments to This Country If France, England and Italy Postpone Those Due From Germany Beginning July 1.

NOT IN FAVOR OF CANCELLATION

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Hoover tonight electrified the capitals of the world by proposing that payments on all inter-Governmental debts, including reparations and relief debts, be suspended for one year. He pointed out that the proposal could not become effective unless and until it was confirmed by Congress and accepted by all the Governments involved, but he announced that leading members of both political parties in Congress had approved it.

The President's statement, which was given to newspaper men at a special press conference at the White House, produced a sensation in Washington. Less than two months ago, on the eve of the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce here, the White House formally declared that the United States Government had not deviated from its position, that there was no relation between reparations and inter-allied debts, and that nothing said at the meeting would alter that position.

However, in the statement issued tonight, the President suggested that the United States forego for one year the collection of payments due from the allied Powers during the year beginning next July 1, on condition that they likewise postpone the collection of reparations from Germany.

Danger of Economic Collapse.

This new attitude on the part of the administration apparently resulted from recent authoritative information from Europe, indicating that Germany has reached a point where it can no longer pay, and that further attempts to collect reparations might result in the complete economic collapse of Central Europe.

During the war the allies borrowed from the United States Government approximately $10,000,000,000. Repeatedly since the war the allied governments have attempted to condition the repayment of this debt upon the amount of reparations received from Germany. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Presidents Coolidge and Hoover were adamant in insisting that there could be no connection between the two forms of obligation.

A week ago, however, Secretary Mellon arrived in England, ostensibly to attend the graduation of his son by Cambridge University. Last Tuesday he called upon Prime Min-

LONDON EXPECTS WORLD PARLEY ON AID TO GERMANY

England Looks on Hoover's Move as Having Much of Significance of Entry of U. S. Into War.

MELLON ACTIVE; IT IS REPORTED

Secretary of Treasury Said to Have Cabled President Information on Which He Acted.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 20.—President Hoover's announcement that America was prepared to give a helping hand to Europe in her economic extremity was looked upon by England tonight as having much of the significance of the entry of the United States into the World War.

Uncertainty abroad concerning the contribution of the United States to the world's economic relief was put at rest by President Hoover's proposal for a one-year moratorium of all intergovernmental debts and reparations, both principal and interest.

The President's preliminary announcement that he had taken the initiative in consulting congressional leaders regarding their attitude toward relief measures was hailed in Europe as perhaps the most important international development since the war. Mr. Hoover's proposal for a moratorium was calculated to create new confidence among the debtor nations.

On the strength of the president's first announcement the Berlin Boerse reacted sharply, some stocks going up 15 points.

Although much of this gain was lost because of heavy demands for foreign currency causing restrictive measures by the Reichsbank. The German cabinet gave its attention to the Washington reports, but maintained complete reserve and no communique was issued after the meeting.

Official reaction was lacking in London.

In Paris the president's position was interpreted as meaning a possible change in American policy on war debts and reparations.

Parley of Powers Expected.

Since not only the United States, Great Britain and Germany are concerned but also France, Italy, Belgium and other nations, it was expected here that an international conference of some sort would be held to work out the problem.

Meanwhile, Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, who despite his insistence that his visit to Europe is of a private nature is generally assumed to have cabled Mr. Hoover the information on which the President acted, spent the week-end with his son at a hotel in Cambridge. His rooms were reserved until Monday evening but it was hinted that he would depart tomorrow to confer further with Prime Minister MacDonald at nearby Chequers.

Mellon Reported Active.

Mellon's part in his conversations here is understood thus far to have been that of a good listener. He is reported to have reminded those with whom he talked—Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Secretary Henderson and Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England—that America's situation also was the most difficult.

But he is assumed to have cabled back to Mr. Hoover reports of what the British Government is authoritatively said to consider Germany's desperate plight and its inevitable effect on the economic structure of Europe and the world.

In view of the developments this week, the forthcoming visit to London of Secretary of State Stimson and the visit of MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson to Berlin July 17 are looked upon as affording still further opportunity to straighten out the muddle in which post-war Europe finds itself.

FEDERAL TREASURY DEFICIT DECLINES TO $908,103,047

Officials Estimate Receipts May Reduce This by $50,000,000 More by June 30.

WASHINGTON, June 20.— The Federal deficit today dropped to $908,103,047. Its steady decline led officials to believe the year-end figure would be nearer $850,000,000 than previous administration estimates of $950,000,000.

Federal expenditures continued to mount slowly, bringing the total for the fiscal year to $4,100,516,278. However, in some of the special accounts, including the Federal Farm Board, unexpended funds were returned to the Treasury.

The total revenue for the fiscal year to the close of business June 18 was $3,192,413,231 at the corresponding time last year it was ond time, the second quarter's payments had reached an aggregate of $1,778,256,766 against $2,293,706,424 in 1930.

Income tax payments tabulated for June 18 totaled $47,819,906, causing the deficit to decline $37,853,000 from the preceding day's figure. It was the third successive decline as second quarter installment payments on last year's incomes were received. For the second time, the scoend quarter's payments exceeded receipts on the corresponding first quarter day in March.

Amelia Earhart Leaving St. Louis in Autogyro

MISS EARHART VISITS ST. LOUIS IN AUTOGYRO

Amelia Earhart, flying an autogyro, an airplane with a stubby, tip-tilted lower wing and four large rotating vanes, supplanting the upper wing, spent a half hour at the Municipal Airport yesterday afternoon en route to Indianapolis from Tulsa.

It was the first time that an autogyro had been demonstrated in St. Louis, although the same plane made a hasty stop at the airport last week while a pilot was ferrying it to Abilene, Texas, where Miss Earhart cracked up in another autogyro while taking off.

The strange, flapping, creaking ship descended almost vertically and ran only a few feet after reaching the ground. Miss Earhart explained that a flyer who "runs more than three lengths after touching the ground, just naturally came into the field too fast."

The plane took off at 2:45 p. m., after a run of 150 feet. Miss Earhart planned to stop at St. Elmo, Ill., and Terre Haute, Ind., inasmuch as her plane cruises at 80 miles an hour and carries only two hours' gas. Most planes have large storage tanks in the wings, but this method is not possible with the autogyro.

Flying from Tulsa, Miss Earhart stopped at Springfield and St. James, Mo., for gasoline. At St. James she said, "They didn't have any gas. I had to wait on hour for them to get it, and then they couldn't change a $20 bill."

At Springfield she reprimanded a reporter who called her Mrs. Putnam—she recently married George Putnam, a New York publisher—saying, "I've flown as Amelia Earhart for ten years and I intend to keep on doing so."

She expressed surprise at a press dispatch from Washington, saying she had been reprimanded for the crash at Abilene, where her plane struck a floodlight and turned over, on the ground that she showed carelessness and bad judgment.

"I've been in touch with Department of Commerce inspectors all along and have queried the department at Washington without learning anything about it," she said. "It seems strange that they have published the affair without consulting the pilot as to details of the accident."

Flying alone for the first time, Miss Earhart let her mechanic go home by train yesterday because he was "tired and worn out. I offered to send him by plane," she said, "but he wouldn't ride in anything but an autogyro."

Miss Earhart is finishing a four weeks' tour of the country to demonstrate the autogyro and advertise a nationally known brand of chewing gum and food products.

Amelia Earhart Putnam Reaches Indianapolis in Autogyro.

RUSSIA COMPLETES SOWING OF 93 PER CENT OF CROPS

Authorities Report Increase of Grain Area by 22,000,000 Acres on June 15.

MOSCOW, June 20.—Russia has virtually completed its grain-sowing campaign, reports stating that last year's acreage has been surpassed by more than 22,000,000 acres. The Agricultural Commissariat announced that 93 per cent of all crops had been sowed on June 15.

Commissar Nikyonn addressing the conference of the All-Union Wheat Producers said the Government expected "a good harvest of grains this year." He added that the harvest campaign would be linked closely with the continued eradication of the kulaks, or wealthy peasant class, and looking toward the predominance of the collective and state farms.

WHY POINT OF VIEW HAS CHANGED ON REPARATIONS

Linked With War Debts Like Family Budget and Family Salary—So Far Germany Has Paid Both.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.— President Hoover's move for war debt and reparations relief comes at a time when the world's financial indigestion has caused a reduction in original estimates of both, although the debts have been fixed since the commission appointed to negotiate them ended its work in 1927.

Since then, however, the Young Plan has succeeded the Dawes Plan for German reparations payments. The United States was represented unofficially but the agreement took its name from one of the American delegates. Owen D. Young, J. P. Morgan, T. W. Lamont and T. N. Perkins took a leading part in formulating the plan.

The Dawes Plan, perfected in 1924, left the period of reparations payments indefinite. They rose under a sliding scale to more than half a billion dollars in 1929-30. By comparison the Young Plan substantially reduced the sum due yearly from Germany for the first years of the arrangement. It fixed the definite period of 58 years for payments and lowered the estimated total from $32,000,000,000 to about $27,000,000,000.

Germany's economic difficulties have become alarming since. In addition to the reparations burden, Germany has borrowed heavily from foreign countries. Mostly in short term loans.

The total private investment of foreigners in Germany has been estimated at $5,000,000,000. German investments abroad are small by comparison. Germany has millions of unemployed. Another gloomy factor is the decline in commodity values and the corresponding rise in the value of money.

Same Probable Result.

Germany's recent cry that the burden was intolerable resulted in several conferences and President Hoover announced that steps were under way to help her.

In Germany and elsewhere abroad that arouses the hope or fear, as the case may be, that there will be another scaling down of reparations. Immediately war debts take their place in the scope of speculation. They are linked in the same way as the family budget and the family salary.

As the case stands now, reparations are paying war debts and leaving a surplus. If Germany should default as in 1923, the former allies would have to dig into their own pockets to pay their war debts to the United States. Informed observers agree that the demands for a scaling down of war debts would be demanded by the former allies.

Some of the war debt settlements were negotiated with little trouble, for example that of Great Britain, which wanted to wipe out both debts and reparations. France and the United States opposed this vigorously.

Britain then said she desired only enough from reparations and money due from her former allies to pay her debts to the United States. There has been no official announcement of a change in this policy.

War Debt Settlements.

The United States got no action out of the majority of its debtors until it dunned them sharply in May, 1925. Italy, Belgium Rumania and other Balkan countries responded promptly but the final approval of the settlement with France did not come until 1929. France is to pay over a 62-year period, $4,025,000,000; Great Britain, $4,600,000,000, and Italy, $1,647,869,197. Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Estonia, Finland, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania and Jugo Slavia bring the total to about $12,000,000,000, Although some estimates have placed it as high as $20,000,000,000 due to a decline in commodity values and other factors.

The United States, has received approximately $2,391,000,000 from foreign Governments on the debts and Germany has paid in reparations $5,000,000,000.

In the background is the disarmament conference of 1932. The Hoover administration feels that burdensome armaments are one reason the world is finding it hard to make ends meet. Debts, reparations and armament expenditures may be linked together at Geneva. France, however, has made it known that she wishes her security assured before she changes to other channels the stream of gold she is pouring into armament.

NEGOTIATIONS NOT EVEN BEGUN WITH ITALY, SAYS POPE

"Odious Spying, Persecutions, Accusations and Continual Menaces" Have Not Stopped, He Declares

By the Associated Press.

ROME, June 20.—A declaration by the Pope that no accord is in sight with Premier Mussolini's government made a dark picture today of what the Government yesterday described as a fairly optimistic situation.

The Pope said that "odious" spying, persecutions, accusations and "continual menaces" have been reported by the Bishops of Italy. He gave a much different view of his negotiations with the Government than the one coming from Government sources.

The Pope resumed his policy of saying blunt words about Mussolini's "persecution" of him, of the church and of Catholic youth. To a group of seminarians he declared that not only Catholics but nearly the whole world was "with and behind the Pope" in his "bitter sorrow."

Negotiations Not Started.

As for the negotiations with the Government, he declared they are not even really started. To this Government officials replied only that the exchange of notes was proceeding normally.

Semi-official estimates are that 15,000 of the 25,000 Catholic clubs in Italy were closed by Mussolini's order. These average 40 members to the club and so the activities of 600,000 youths, whom the Pope described as "the most exquisite part of the Church," were halted.

These "dissolved" clubs, his Holiness said, are not allowed to meet silently and there is espionage and "continued menaces."

Referring to the Fascists without naming them, the Pope declared they "appear to be trying to have it believed, especially abroad, that things are not so very grave, that the incidents have been insignificant and sporadic, that all is passed and tranquillity restored.

"Exactly Contrary True."

"Exactly the contrary is true—the truth lies in the contrary of all that they seek to have believed even in their country. We are not on the way to an accord and the negotiations are not even begun. Not only have we not entered a state of tranquility but everything possible has been done to maintain the menacing horizon."

"This is a day of bitter sorrow that the height of God tempers with consolation," in the visit of the faithful and messages from all over the world, said the Pontiff. "The whole Catholic world, and not only the Catholic world but a good part of the remainder is with the Pope and behind the Pope," he said.

He told his hearers he realized they hoped to hear something regarding this moment, but the things we should say are too bitter. And may be summed in a word:

"It is not only in Mexico, not only in what we call 'Bolshevik Russia,' that there is persecution of the church, a persecution that is said not be intended against the church."

Hoover Proposes War Debt Moratorium

ister Ramsay MacDonald, and on the following day visited Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England. President Hoover returned to Washington from the Middle West last Thursday. The following morning he had breakfast with Senator David Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, who is recognized as Secretary Mellon's most intimate friend and principal spokesman.

In the capital it is presumed, first, that MacDonald and Norman succeeded in convincing Mellon that Germany had reached the limit of her ability to pay, that efforts at compulsion would only result in Germany's economic and political collapse and that any movement toward a suspension of payments should come from the United States, which is in the position of being the ultimate creditor nation; and, second, that Mellon communicated this information to President Hoover or Senator Reed, or both.

Germany's Working Capital.

The present working capital of Germany consists largely of approximately $2,000,000,000, advanced by private bankers in the United States, Great Britain and other countries. Information which has reached Washington recently indicated that Germany could not continue reparations payments on the present scale, but feared that the declaration of a moratorium would result in withdrawal of these short term credits. As a matter of fact, discussion of a possible moratorium during the present month has caused the withdrawal of more than $250,000,000 in such credits.

President Hoover, in effect, has now declared to the world that Germany should be permitted to suspend reparations payments for a year without suffering impairment of her credit position. Indeed, it is possible the President's statement will be interpreted as meaning that bankers in the United States and elsewhere should allow Germany's short term credits to be converted into long term credits in anticipation of a moratorium on reparations.

Not for Cancellation.

Although President Hoover insisted that cancellation of war debts to the United States is not contemplated, and that the proposed postponement is simply a contribution to "the early restoration of world prosperity," it is admitted here that his statement is calculated to give much comfort to those who have advocated cancellation.

Reiterating his familiar contention that the economic condition of the United States is due to world-wide depression, the President argued that postponement of intergovernmental debts would have a tendency to improve conditions in this country. Alluding to the unstable condition of credit in Europe, he said:

"These and other difficulties abroad diminish buying power for our exports, and in a measure are the cause of our continued unemployment and continued lower prices to our farmers." In other words, he would regard the suspension of reparations payments by Germany as a measure of farm relief for the United States.

Moreover, it was his opinion that "this evidence of our desire to assist" might contribute to the good will which is necessary to a reduction of land armaments in Europe. In that connection he mentioned the arms limitation conference scheduled to be held next February in Geneva.

Scene in Hoover's Office.

The President's statement was issued less than two hours after the White House had announced that an emergency press conference would be held at 6 o'clock. The rarity of such occasions indicated something extraordinary. Dozens of correspondents were assembled in the lobby of the White House executive offices, and when the signal came at 6:20 there was a rush to the President's private office.

Mr. Hoover smiled as he noticed the tension among the reporters, and told them that, since his statement was to be released only for the regular Sunday morning papers, they could afford to relax. He stood behind his great desk. Secretary of State Stimson stood at his right, and Under-Secretary of the Treasury Mills at his left. He read the statement in calm tones, and appeared to take a deep satisfaction in it.

Members of Both Parties Approve.

The President laid particular emphasis on the fact that Democratic and insurgent members of Congress had approved his course, as well as leaders of the Republican old guard. Although their names were not included in his list, it was learned that Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the Senate, and Senator Couzens, Progressive Republican, of Michigan. were in accord with the proposal.

The President named 21 Senators and 18 Representatives he said had approved the proposal.

The fact that Congress must ratify it before it can become effective, together with the fact that the President has said he will not call a special session, make it apparent that he is relying largely upon the psychological effect of his announcement. Congress does not meet in regular session until December.

Robinson Links Armament Cut With Any War Debt Readjustment.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 20.—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Senate Democratic leader, expressed the opinion here today that Congress would be slow to act upon any modification of war debt settlements "unless simultaneous arrangements are assured for the readjustment of reparations and the reduction of armaments."

His statement, issued after President Hoover had communicated with him regarding German financial relief made no reference, however, to a proposal for a moratorium on reparations or war debts.

Senator Robinson said he would probably not go to Washington in the immediate future but would hold himself in readiness to renew discussions with President Hoover and would confer with his colleagues in the Senate. He said he was not prepared to express an opinion as to the conditions upon which the Government "may find itself justified in consenting to a modification of the war debt settlement. The threatened breakdown of the credit of the German Government is but one of the important features of the problem of stabilizing general conditions."

Dawes Calls Plan an Augury of Improved Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes tonight issued the following statement on President Hoover's plan for a one-year's suspension of all intergovernmental debts: "President Hoover's proposal, made as it was in consultation with leaders of both political parties, represents a United American position. It is an augury of improved conditions here and abroad. I deem it wise and helpful in every way."

Couzens Tells Why He Favors Proposal to Relieve Germany.

DETROIT, Mich., June 20.—Senator James Couzens tonight announced that he had given his approval to President Hoover's plan for a one year's suspension of all inter-Governmental debts. A statement by the Michigan Senator follows:

"President Hoover called me by telephone Friday night and discussed the suspension of inter-Governmental debts; I promised to support him in it at that time. The primary object of the measure as I understood it to aid Germany's recovery by relieving her of the huge burden she carries in reparations. These and the fact that such action would greatly relieve the deplorable conditions of the South American countries led to my approval of the plan."

Baker Doesn't Believe Rest of World Wants Germany to Pay.

CLEVELAND, O., June 20.—By imposing a heavy war debt on Germany, Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet, told delegates to the Zonta International tonight, the Allies forced that country into position where it was compelled either to pay all its cash on hand or to sell its goods outside. The latter course, Baker said, would drive Germany into keen competition with the rest of the world. President Hoover, he said, faced the necessity of making a decision on Germany's debt.

"I do not believe that Germany can or will pay its war debts or that the rest of the world wants it to pay," Baker said.

Although Davis denied the charges, his attorneys acquiesced o the appointment of receivers by ircuit Judge Hartmann on June 0, on the ground that collections ere slow and that the business in ts present state could best be adstered by a receiver. A secsuit was filed at Clayton June , the day after Mrs. Albers' suit n Circuit Court here, by Robert F. mbs of Belleville, Ill., who said he ad invested $1000.

Investigation of the books of the ompanies showed that about 525 t. Louisans had invested $892,776 n three Davis syndicates and other nterprises, in the hope of realizng substantial profits through ome site developments.

Mrs. Albers charged that the E. Davis Realty Co. had withdrawn more than $100,000 in excess of 7½ per cent and used it for commissions and expenses, which Davis denied. Davis said at the time of filing of the suit his concerns had promoted 26 subdivisions sucessfully, and that there was no ground for a receivership.

Walter Beck, German citizen, and Charles Hyman Marcus, British subject, entered pleas of guilty in Federal Court yesterday to charges of illegal entry into the United States after having previously been deported, and were sentenced to two years each in the penitentiary and immediately paroled, so that they could be shipped at noon with other aliens to the Atlantic seaboard for deportation.

On pleas of guilty Federal Judge Faris also sentenced Joseph Sakalic to two years in the penitentiary for violation of the Mann act; Allen Saunders to two years for the robbery of a country mail box, and Edward Tood to two years, and George Wilson to four years for interstate transportation of stolen automobiles.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST CONCERN TAKEN UP

Prosecutor Says Other Meetings Are Likely to Be Held as the Inquiry Progresses.

An investigation of the transactions of the E. Davis Realty & Mortgage Co., and its eight allied concerns, now in receivership, was begun yesterday by the Circuit Attorneys' office, after a conference with the receivers and a representative of the Better Business Bureau.

Those who attended the meeting at Circuit Attorney Miller's office were the Circuit Attorney and his first assistant, Forrest G. Ferris, the receivers, John B. Edwards, an attorney, and Sheriff George W. Strodtman; Dwight Holmes of the Better Business Bureau, and Frank E. Williams, attroney for the receivers.

Takes Specific Complaints.

The Circuit Attorney at the close of the conference said its purpose had been to take up specific complaints against the Davis companies, and to study the law in regard to specific cases which were offered. He said there was a possibility of other such meetings as investigation progressed.

The nine companies, all of which have offices at 1101 Locust street, and have operated principally in St. Louis County subdivisions, are the E. Davis Realty & Mortgage Co., E. Davis Realty Co., D. V. Mrs. Albers, who said that she was a holder of two subscription contracts totaling $16,000 in one of the Davis syndicates, charged the officers had improperly diverted more than $400,000 of the assets of the companies. In addition, she alleged that they had overdrawn their salaries and had converted to their own usese money and assets in excess of $100,000.

Although Davis denied the charges, his attorneys acquiesced to the appointment of receivers by Circuit Judge Hartmann on June 10, on the ground that collections were slow and that the business in its present state could best be administered by a receiver. A second suit was filed at Clayton June 9, the day after Mrs. Albers' suit in Circuit Court here, by Robert F. Imbs of Belleville, Ill., who said he had invested $1000.

Investigation of the books of the companies showed that about 525 St. Louisans had invested $892,776 in three Davis syndicates and other enterprises, in the hope of realizing substantial profits through home site developments.

Acted as Operating Companies.

In the organization of the corporations, the E. Davis Realty & Mortgage Co. and the E. Davis Realty Co. managed the real estate properties of all as operating companies. THREE OFFICIALS SEEK POWER TO REDISTRICT STATE bill establishing 13 new congressional districts in conformity with the reapportionment by Congress which reduced the Missouri representation in the House of Congress from 16 to 13 members. Gov. Caulfield vetoed the bill on the ground it was not a fair measure. It created eight districts that could be carried by Democrats, two of them close on normal votes and five Republican districts.

Might Call Special Session.

Gov. Caulfield in a special message to the Legislature had indicated he might approvie a bill providing seven Democratic and six Republican districts. The Democrats controlled both Houses and this was in the nature of a compromise.

The Governor has indicated he might call a special session of the Legislature next fall, for consideration only of redistricting legislation if he could obtain the assurance of legislative leaders that a definite plan with a fair apportionment, would be passed. He has indicated the plan would have to be a satisfactory one with substantial backing assured for it.

It is not considered probable that Democratic leaders will agree on a plan that would be satisfactory to the Republicans, and the prospects of a special session being called are uncertain.

There is no provision in the constitution relating to congressional redistricting in event the Legislature does not pass a bill that is approved by the Governor, such as that on Senatorial redistricting, now sought to be revised.

WRITES 'NO PLACE FOR A POOR OLD MAN;' SHOOTS HIMSELF

August Hammer of Springfield, Mo., Ends Life While Insurance Is in Force.

August Hammer, 52-year-old retired farmer of Springfield, Mo., wrote a note in which he said he had "found there is no place in the world for a poor old man," and shot himself to death in his second-floor room at the Terminal Hotel late yesterday afternoon.

Most of a lengthy note addressed to a nephew, Fred W. Astroth, 5204 Palm street, was written last Tuesday and a post-script was dated 7 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been dead for several hours.

The letter related that a premium payment had become due a month ago on a $10,000 insurance policy, "and the 30-day period of grace will expire tomorrow." Other insurance which he listed, totalled about $7000.

TWO OLD MONROE, MO., BANK ROBBERS GET 15 YEARS

George Koelling, a former saloon keeper, and George Turnbull, an unemployed cook, both of St. Charles, pleaded guilty of the $2200 robbery of the Bank of Old Monroe, June 12, and were sentenced to 15-year penitentiary terms yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge Edgar B. Woolfolk at Troy, Mo.

They will be held in jail at Troy to testify in the trial of George Tucker, charged with receiving stolen property in the same case, which is set for July 11. All but $750 of the money taken from the bank was recovered at Koelling's home and near a stolen truck which the robbers abandoned near St. Charles after the robbery. Tucker is in jail at St. Charles.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Rogers Hornsby has gone to bat with the income tax law. The manager of the Chicago Cubs today asked the Board of Tax Appeals to umpire a dispute between himself and the Internal Revenue Bureau over the amount he owes the Government for 1927 income tax.

Hornsby has been assessed $2763, but recently was notified he owed $8782 more, consisting of $7026 additional taxes and a $1756 penalty for failure to file his report on time.

Hornsby said in his report his home was at Fort Worth, Tex., half of his income was listed in his name and the remainder in that of his wife in conformity with the Texas community property law recently sustained by the Supreme Court.

But the Government informed him all the evidence indicated his home was at St Louis and that the only time he spent in Texas was in the winter when he visited relatives. Missouri doe not have a community property law, under which, by dividing the income, the amount of taxes payable is reduced materially.

Hornsby listed his portion of the income at $36,603. The Government doubled this amount and, in addition, added $700 world series money, $300 compensation for newspaper articles and $154 for personal expenses.

It also disallowed a claim by Hornsby that a reduction of $5835 shoul be allowed for attorney's fees in connection with the sale of his St. Louis National League baseball stock.

Hornsby said the delay in filing the report was due to causes "unknown and unavoidable." The Government contended it should have been filed by March 15, 1928, but was not filed until May 17.

An appeal was filed also by Mary Jeanette Hornsby, wife of the ball player, for an additional assessment of $90 plus a $22 penalty against her for 1927 income. No date has been st for the hearings.

Inquiry Likely Into Hornsby's Tax Returns in Missouri.

An inquiry in Rogers Hornsby's income tax returns in Missouri likely will be made, following the Federal Government's decision that he was a resident of Missouri in 1927, for which year he filed a Federal income tax return from Texas.

State income tax records were not available at Jefferson City yesterday afternoon, but it is presumed Hornby did not make a state income tax return in Missouri for 1927, inasmuch as he claimed Texas as his residence that year.

For several years Hornsby has resided at Anglum, St. Louis County, on the place formerly owned by Barney Schreiber, race horse breeder.

In 1927 Hornsby was playing with the New York Giants, having the year before led the Cardinals to their first pennant and world's championship.

Held Up in His Auto by Three Men Who Apparently Followed Him From Bank.

R. H. Sebree, manager of the Glen Echo Country Club, was robbed of $276 yesterday by three young men who apparently had followed him from the Bank of Wellston, where he obtained the money.

Sebree was driving about a quarter of a mile south of the club, when he was forced to the side of the road by a small sedan in which the three were riding. Two of the men, one with a revolver, entered his automobile and forced him to drive on. As they neared the club grounds they took the bag containing the money and alighted from the car. Entering their own machine they drove north and escaped. The money was the property of the club and was largely in change.

PENSION SOUGHT FOR TWO CHILDREN OF CHARLES BIRGER

Aunt in Filing Application Says Gangster Left No Fund for Them.

A petition for a pension to support two minor daughters of Charles Birger, Southern Illinois gangster, who was hanged for murder in 1928, has been filed with the Veterans' Welfare Association.

The children are with an aunt, Mrs. Ray Shamsky, and no funds are available for their support, according to the petition. Birger, reputed to have amassed considerable wealth before he ran afoul of the law in Southern Illinois, left no estate.

The pension application is based upon his service as a cavalryman in the Spanish-American War. Before it can be granted, sworn statements must be obtained as to paternity of the children. Birger was married three times and had no children by his last wife. He wrote an autobiography which he thought would provide some income for the children, but it never was printed.

EX-JUDGE KINSEY, ST. LOUIS LAWYER FOR 57 YEARS, DIES

Former Congressman Was 84 Years Old and Lived Active Life Till Day Before End Came.

William M. Kinsey, former Circuit Judge and Congressman, who was proud of his ability to "stay in the harness" in spite of advancing years, died yesterday. He was active in life to the end. Eighty-four years old, he yielded to complications of age.

His law practice and the operation of his small farm between Eureka and Allenton, St. Louis County, divided his time. On Friday he went to the farm and then, in the afternoon, returned to his old-fashioned home in Carondelet, at 6638 Vermont avenue. He sat on the front porch until about 6 p. m. when he suddenly lapsed into unconsciousness. Never regaining consciousness, he died at home at 6:30 a. m. yesterday.

Judge Kinsey, scion of Quaker stock, was born at Mount Pleasant, O., in October, 1846. One of his direct forbears was John Kinsey, who came to America with William Penn to treat with the Indians. The Judge was educated at an academy and a private school in Ohio, at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., and the University of Iowa.

In St. Louis 57 Years.

In 1872 he was married to Miss Loretta Lucy Chapin, an Iowa school teacher, who, too, was born in Ohio but of Puritan descent. About 1874, 57 years ago, Judge Kinsey came to St. Louis and began his law practice. A Republican, he was elected to Congress for a term in 1889-91 and later he was elected to two terms on the Circuit bench, in 1905-16. He did not seek a third term.

During his time on the bench, Judge Kinsey tried about 1500 divorce suits and this experience led him to conclude that modern marriages were contracted too hastily. Reflecting on his own happy marriage on the occasion of its fifty-sixth anniversary in 1928, the Judge said: "If you would marry happily, first pick the right ancestors, then pick the right girl, then wait a while to make sure she is the right girl."

Mrs. Kinsey died about a year and a half ago.

The Judge, who spoke of himself as "only middle-aged," and who stood as erect as a West Pointer, read all the St. Louis newspapers daily, listened to the radio with enjoyment and liked a game of bridge occasionally.

Suggested Courthouse Mottoes.

During the war he was chairman of the Draft Examining Board in Carondelet. Some of the mottoes cut in the stone of the new Civil Courts Building were suggested by him.

Surviving are two sisters—Mrs. Lydia Griffin of Muscatine, Ia., and Mrs. Annie Baker of Michigan Valley, Kan.—and five children—Edmund R. Kinsey, a civil engineer and president of the Board of Public Service and its predecessor for the last 18 years; Robert and Ralph Kinsey of St. Louis, twins, and civil engineers; Mrs. G. A. Picker of Williamsport, Pa., and Mrs. J. M. Williams of Los Angeles, former president of the League of Women Voters here.

A brother of the Judge, Benjamin F. Kinsey, died at the Judge's home last month, aged 80.

Plans for Judge Kinsey's funeral were deferred until the out-of-town relatives are heard from.

GOV. BRYAN WELCOMES BANK DEAL INQUIRY

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 20.—The State Senate today passed a resolution requesting Attorney-General C. A. Sorensen to investigate state banking problems after the Senate had heard charges that Gov. Charles W. Bryan had benefited by a banking transaction.

The Attorney-General was requested to investigate the issuance of alleged false certificates of deposit by the Farmers' State Bank at Genoa, Neb., and other banking matters of the State. Senator James A. Rodman of Omaha, charged in the Senate that Gov. Bryan was the beneficiary of certificates of deposit issued by the failed Farmers' State Bank of Genoa.

Senator H. G. Wellenseik (Rep.), of Grand Island, asserted the Democratic Governor furnished the State Banking Department attorneys with a list of lawyers to be employed. Wellenseik told the Senate Bryan had paid for stock in a Florida bank with certificates of deposit from the Genoa bank.

Another Republican Senator, Kenneth S. Wherry of Pawnee City, said the motion for the investigation was backed by "political motives."

Gov. Bryan issued a statement asserting the banking transactions occurred "from two to 12 years ago." He said he had no knowledge of the transactions and was in no way connected with them.

Answering the Senate's charges, Bryan expressed surprise that "there was partisan criticism of a Democratic governor by a Senate composed of two thirds Republicans in the last minute of an extra session."

"I have no knowledge of the transactions nor was I connected with them in any way," the Governor said. "I do not believe there was ever a more unfair insinuation made or where a greater effort seems to have been made to prevent the Governor making a reply or to permit the Legislature to make any investigation while it was in session.

"The records all available in all matters they have referred to. They will show there is not a possible criticism that can be justly made of any act of mine. I shall be glad to have the Attorney-General or any one else examine the records and I want them to do so to show just what a dastardly effort was made to reflect upon the Governor."

Bryan is a brother of the late William Jennings Bryan, and was the Democratic nominee for the vice-presidency in 1924.

ATTACKS RIGHT OF CITY TO BUY PLANT OUT OF EARNINGS

Missouri Public Service Co. Seeks to Keep Harrisonville Out of Power Business by Court Order.

By BOYD F. CARROLL,
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 20. — A test case involving the validity of contracts by which small towns in Missouri have been purchasing equipment for municipally owned public utilities, to be paid for in installments from earnings of the plants, in instances where the existing bonded indebtedness of the towns was such that additional municipal bonds could not be voted for the purchases, is pending for decision in the Missouri Supreme Court.

The decision, which is expected soon, will have considerable bearing upon the plans of towns considering the establishment of municipal utility plants, or improvement of existing ones.

In this case the Missouri Public Service Co. is seeking to restrain the City of Harrisonville, Cass County, from carrying out a contract for purchase of engines and other equipment from Fairbanks Morse and Co. . . . a proposed municipal electric plant. Several residents and taxpayers of Harrisonville joined in the suit with the company, which had been furnishing electric service to the town. The company's franchise had expired and it was operating with the consent of the town.

Debt Called Illegal.

The Cass County Circuit Court enjoined carrying out of the contract sustaining contentions of the company and other plaintiffs that the contract was invalid. It sustained a contention that the debt for the equipment constituted a debt of the city, and made its total indebtedness exceed the constitutional limit of 5 per cent of its assessed valuation, and therefore was not legally contracted.

The city appealed, contending the contract was a valid one and did not violate the constitutional provisions concerning indebtedness of the city. It was pointed out that the contract specifically provided the $62,155 purchase price, together with interest, was to be paid in 60 equal monthly installments from net earnings of the plant, and was not a general obligation of the city. The contract provided no resort could be had to taxation for payment of the obligation. The contract was entered into in April, 1929.

The case is similar in many respects to one in which the Supreme Court about a year ago sustained a purchase of engines by Fayette, Mo., from Fairbanks, Morse & Co., to replace old equipment in use in the Fayette municipal electric plant. The court upheld the contract and ruled the debt incurred was not a general debt of the city within the meaning of the constitutional limitation.

A difference is that the Fayette contract provided the purchase price was to be paid only from the amount saved in the cost of producing electricity with the engines purchased, as compared with operating costs with the old equipment, while the Harrisonville contract provides the purchase price shall be paid from net earnings of the proposed plant.

City Has Distribution System.

Harrisonville owns an electric distribution system, which had been leased to the Missouri Public Service Co. The company furnished electric current from transmission lines from a power plant at another point.

Numerous claims of invalidity were advanced in the attack on the Harrisonville contract, but the principal one was that the debt incurred was a debt of the city, within the meaning of the constitutional provisions. This amount, added to the existing debt, made a total in excess of the limitation for Harrisonville.

An attack also was made on the contract on the ground the engines would be paid for out of net earnings of both the distribution system, already owned by the city, and the generating equipment purchased, instead of out of net earnings of the purchased equipment alone. It was contended that property of the city was being pledged and that the contract, therefore, could not come within court decisions that where the purchase price of property was paid solely out of earnings of the property purchased no municipal debt was created.

In defense of the contract, the city contended the debt was a special obligation, to which the constitutional limitation did not apply, and that under no circumstances could it be considered a debt of the city, as none of the city's general funds, and no funds raised by taxation, could be used to pay the purchase price.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 20.—The Illinois Commerce Commission today granted the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad permission to discontinue operation of two passenger trains, Nos. 19 and 20 between Chicago and St. Louis. The company said they had been operating at a loss of $110,877 in the ten months ended May 31.

Competition by three other railroads operating between these points, together with use of passenger motor busses and privately owned automobiles, resulted in heavy loss, the commission found.

The railroad will continue to operate four trains daily between Chicago and St. Louis.

HUB CLOTHING CO. FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Wishes Compromise Agreement With Creditors; No Schedule; Will Continue in Business.

Attorneys for the Hub Clothing Co., a men's furnishing store at 709 Washington avenue, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court yesterday, without listing a schedule of assets and liabilities, and containing an offer to make a compromise agreement with creditors.

The petition, filed in the name of Jake Katz, president and treasurer, proposes that the company's debts be referred to Walter D. Coles, Referee in Bankruprcy, that he might call a meeting of creditors, examine their claims and the assets of the company and reach some agreement.

Joseph Boxerman, attorney, who filed the suit, said it was of a friendly nature and that the action was taken after a number of meetings with the creditors. He expressed some hope that the affairs of the store might be straightened out without a resort to actual bankruptcy proceedings, and said in that event the company would continue in business.

ACQUITTALS IN ONLY JURY TRIALS IN WEEK

Two Prisoners Change Minds and Plead Guilty After Hearings Begin.

Five men faced juries in the criminal division of Circuit Court last week, three being acquitted. The other two changed their minds after juries were selected and entered pleas of guilty.

Those found not guilty were Herman Weber, charged with manslaughter for the fatal cutting of his friend, Orville Goff, and Crit Hurst and Raymond Harvey, each charged with the larcency of an automobile.

The men who changed their minds about being tried were Daniel Connelly, an ex-convict, charged with burglary in the first degree, and Solomon Rogers, Negro, charged with murder. Connelly, who had prowled in two South Side residences where occupants were asleep, was charged as an habitual criminal. After hearing part of the testimony against him, which might have brought him punishment of 20 years in the penitentiary under a mandatory instruction of the court, he decided to avail himself of the state's offer of 10 years' imprisonment. Rogers, who had killed another Negro, looked at the jury that was to have tried him and decided to plead guilty of manslaughted. He got 5 years.

Six men pleaded guilty of robbery charges and got penitentiary or Boonville punishment.

Jerome T. Read and Leonard Prizer got 10-year penitentiary terms under the Henry law for robbery with a deadly weapon. Read was captured by police when he attempted to rob a Piggly-Wiggly store at 4406 Olive street on March 24. He was identified as one of two men who robbed Kroger stores at 619 North Vandeventer avenue, and 335 North Sarah street in which the total loot was $174. Prizer robbed Mrs. Josephine Buysse in her confectionery store at 500 South Second street, March 7. She lost $417.

Stanford Layne, Negro, was given 10 years in Boonville for assisting in the robbery of two citizens on the street, taking their automobile and money. Jack Reynolds and Merrill Marshall got five years penitentiary terms for holding up the clerk of the Northwestern Hotel and the store of George J. Reich, 4173 Juniata street. William Walker, Negro ex-convict, got a six-year penitentiary term for holding up Mrs. Annie Vollmuth in her confectionery store at 4971 Cottage avenue. In this robbery the loot was but $7.50.

Others who pleaded guilty and their punishments, follow: Robert H. Cotham, murder and arson, concurrent terms of 10 years in the penitentiary; William Jennings, burglary, two years, Boonville; Aaron Windom, larceny from person, two years, Boonville, paroled to report for two years; Fred Kramel, uttering bogus check, two years; William H. Beuckemann, uttering bogun check, four years; John Egner, Albert Dye and Bert Reeves, permitting gaming device on premises, $250 and costs; William Leimbach, driving automobile while intoxicated, $100 and costs; Glenn Hood, petit larceny, year; Walter Miner and Alvin G. Richardson, petit larceny, six months; Moscow Sadler and Williard French, carrying concealed weapons, six months; Veatis Tate, larceny of motor vehicle, six months; Edward Ivy, burglary, two years Boonville; Clarence Harper, burglary, four years; Wesley J. Hart, malicious destruction of property, year; James Cook, carrying concealed weapon, 30 days; Clara Wilson, carrying a concealed weapon, $100 and costs; Gladys Beuckemann, uttering bogun check, year; L. B. Bridges, operating automobile without owners' consent, 60 days; Sam Rifkin, obtaining money by false pretenses, six months and paroled to report two years.

A charge of burglary and larceny against Edward Morman was dismissed by the Circuit Attorney's office because of insuffiicent evidence.

SEEKS RELEASE OF $2160 TO WIDOW OF PATROLMAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 20.—The St. Louis Police Board applied to the Supreme Court today for a writ of mandamus to compel Comptroller Nolte to approve a relief allowance of $2160 made by the Board for Mrs. Loretta Stussie, widow of Patrolman Harry J. Stussie, who died March 15 of injuries suffered when run down by a motor truck in St. Louis.

The Board made the allowance under a department regulation authorizing the Board, in its discretion, to award one year's pay to the dependents of a police officer killed in the discharge of his duties. The Board ruled that Stussie was fatally injured in the discharge of his duties and made the $2160 award, the equivalent of a year of Stussie's pay, to his widow. Stussie was survived by the widow and five minor children.

The Board stated in the application that Comptroller Nolte had refused to approve the Board's voucher for the award.

U. S. SUES STANLEY FIELD FOR $360,000 TAX REFUND

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 20. — The Government filed suit today against Stanley Field, president of the Field Museum, for $360,000 principal and interest of a tax refund on his 1917 income. According to the Government's declaration Field paid a tax of $177,172.83 on an income of $857,147.75.

Included in the return was an item of $424,063 which Field said represented dividends from Marshall Field and Co. for 1916. The Internal Revenue Commissioner in Washington ruled it represented instead salary and personal compensation, and assessed an additional $271,864.93 together with interest.

Field paid under protest, and appealed. The Federal Court of Tax Appeals held meanwhile in a similar case the statute of limitations had expired. The Government made a refund to Field and he abandoned the suit. The Government claimed today a later decision overruled the previous decision regarding the time limit of instituting charges and the refund was illegal. It also alleged Field once signed a waiver to any limitation under the statute of limitations and so it cannot be applied. The refund was made June 24, 1929.

PUPIL IN FLYING MAKES $1266 CLAIM

Says School Closed Month After He Had Paid $1500 for Instruction.

The Better Business Bureau is investigating the complaint of Leo E. Fink of Edwardsville, who says he has been unable to collect $1266 due him from the defunct St. Louis Flying School at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Fink asserts that about May 1 he paid the St. Louis Flying School $1500 on a transport pilot's course. Fink estimates that he received $234 worth of instruction in the month before the school was closed.

When he asked for the $1266, which he figures is due him, Fink asserts that he was told he was "out of luck"—that there were no funds to reimburse him. Fink describes himself as "the heaviest loser," but states that several other students also are entitled to a refund on uncompleted courses. No other complaint has been received by the Better Business Bureau.

The St. Louis Flying School was started last winter by R. D.'Oyly Hughes, said to be a veteran of the British Flying Corps. Hughes and associates took over the equipment and hangar of the flying school formerly conducted by the Universal Aviation Corporation. It was announced that a light airplane designed by Hughes would be built by the organization, in addition to the school activities. The current demand for flying instruction is far below that of several years ago, and the school was forced to give up early this month.

Hughes could not be reached for a statement.

U. S. BARS FOREIGN GOLF LOTTERY AS STEP IN CAMPAIGN

Postal Authorities Condemn Sweepstakes Where "Thousands Are Robbed to Pay Few."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Federal Government acted today against American participation in foreign sweepstakes—considered by officials a gamble making the Louisiana lottery of old seem a mere pygmy in comparison.

Solicitor Donnelly sought the co-operation of newspapers in a campaign already begun in response to protests piled literally feet upon feet in department files.

"It is the intention of this department to enforce strictly the drastic provisions of the statute against lotteries," Donnelly said in a formal statement, "with a view to breaking up an unlawful practice which recently has grown to such huge proportions in American cities, towns and villages, as to border on a national disgrace."

Calling attention to the specific language of the law, the Solicitor said it barred from the mails any publication listing "any part or all" of prizes offered in any lottery or chance scheme. This would include newspapers printing the name of one winner.

Golf Tourney Plan Spiked.

Officials interpret the laws as safeguards against losses to thousands to pay big prizes to a few. In recent months foreign sweepstakes have spread their operations like mushrooms in the United States, it was said, and officials think the growth has been abetted by publicity given free to the ventures and to the famous sporting events on which they often are based.

Along with such sweepstakes other chance enterprises are being worked. Only today the department issued a fraud order against an organization preparing to employ—from another country— the same "Sweepstake" methods in connection with the forthcoming national open golf tournament of the United States.

$15,000,000 in One Race.

On the big sporting events the sweeps operators draw prize coupons from great revolving drums, paying off the individuals who sold the tickets as well as the holders. This year a new system was provided to give more prizes. In one enterprise in connection with a British horse race the subscriptions were $15,000,000, the prizes a total of about $10,000,000. There were about 2900 prizes for a race in which only 75 horses were entered.

Officials consider this plain robbery of thousands to pay to a very few big prizes. It is thought that the enterprises could not grow as they have recently without the advertising they have received—free —in American newspapers.

Many of the enterprises are "pure fake" in the eyes of officials. One that came to notice was to organize "a club," in which thousands would buy tickets on the chance of being named an officer—by a lottery draw—with a big "salary" prize.

Denies Commutation to Mexican.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 20.—Gov. Leslie refused today to grant a commutation of sentence to Ignacio Zaragoza, a Mexican, under sentence to be executed at the State prison early next Wednesday morning. An appeal to the Governor to commute the sentence to life imprisonment was presented recently by the Mexican embassy. The Governor held Zaragoza had been given a fair trial on the charge of slaying a Michigan City, Ind., police officer.

Memorial Banquet Clause in Will.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20. —Provision is made in the will of Brigadier-General Joseph R. C. Ward (retired), admitted to probate today, for surviving comrades to remember him for the next 15 years with annual suppers. Gen. Ward, a veteran of the Civil and Spanish-American Wars, who died last month, directed his executors to provide $75 for a supper each year on June 27, his birthday anniversary, until 1945, the 100th anniversary.

- You may visit the Art Institute, the Field Museum, the Planetarium, the Aquarium—see the new buildings of the 1933 World's Fair—and if you have time visit the beaches—take a ride on the Lake—in fact, have a grand and glorious time within your budget.

BRING along the children. Give them this educational trip. No room charge for children under 6. After the children have seen the wonders of Chicago, perhaps you will want a little time to yourself. Your children will enjoy our famous Play Room where they will be under the watchful eyes of a trained attendant, and you will be free to go where you wish.

Plan your trip now. Ask your Railroad Agent for the remarkably low week-end rates to Chicago. If you are driving, uniformed attendants will meet you at the Palmer House entrance and take charge of your car. Special garage rates will be made to those attending our Week-End House Parties.

Make your reservations by checking the coupon and mailing it to us. Should you plan a longer visit in Chicago, we will send you, at once, rates and complete information.

RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR LOAN CONCERN BY STOCKHOLDER

Guardian Company Paid 12 Per Cent on Preferred, Impairing Capital, Petition Says.

Suit for a receiver for the Guardian Loan & Mortgage Co., in the Cotton Belt Building, was filed in Federal Court yesterday by Cecil J. Sharp of Indianapolis, a stockholder.

Dividends have been paid on the company's preferred stock since June, 1927, at the rate of 12 per cent annually, although earnings did not justify them, and the money was taken from capital assets, the suit avers.

As a result, it is charged, the capital was impaired $26,000. The directors, Sharp alleged, approved loans to insolvent applicants and loans for which insufficient security was given, and have not been diligent in collecting loans and accounts.

The company's authorized capital of $130,000 consists of 1300 shares of $10 common stock and 11,700 shares of $10 preferred, according to the suit, but it is alleged that only 100 shares of common and 6344 of preferred have been issued. All of the common, or voting, stock issued belong to Dan C. Smith, president and a director, and Henry H. Spencer and D. F. Shaefer, the remaining directors, Sharp asserted. He alleged that the directors were running the company in their own interest.

The suit names Smith, Spencer, Shaefer, Albert Clodius and George Herbst as defendants. It asserts that Clodius and Herbst participated in the management of the company to an extent unknown to Sharp, and contributed to the impairment of its capital.

Officers of the company wrongfully lent large sums of money to themselves and other stockholders, it is alleged. Smith, it is set forth, is president of the Dan C. Smith Insurance Agency, which, Sharp asserts, has been permitted to occupy part of the loan company offices without charge. Sharp declared that Smith was using the loan company to obtain money with which to operate the agency.

Smith is charged in the suit with using $21,000 of the company's money for his own benefit. He had a contract by which he was to receive commissions for selling the company's stock, but withdrew excessive amounts and entered a claim for salary when asked to return the excess, it is alleged. Although there had been no intention to pay Smith a salary, the suit avers, the directors voted him one.

An injunction to prevent the officers from continuing in charge and an accounting from them are asked by Sharp. Smith and other officers could not be reached. The city directory lists Robert J. Kratky, a Republican politician, as vice president and general manager of the loan company. Better Business Bureau records indicate that the company does not operate under the small loan act but under another law permitting acceptance as one form of security of an investment certificate in the company itself.

NEW HEAD OF PHARMACOLOGY AT WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Appointment of Dr. Carl F. Cori as professor of pharmacology and head of the Edward Mallinckrodt department of pharmacology of Washington University Medical was announced yesterday by Dr. W. McKim Marriott, dean of the school.

Dr. Cori, a native of Austria, has been in America since 1922, doing research at the New York State Institute laboratories, Buffalo, and serving as assistant professor of physiology at the University of Buffalo.

Although only 35 years old, Dr. Cori has published more than 50 important scientific papers and one or two monographs. He is regarded as a leading authority on the action of insulin, adrenalin and sugar on the body, and he has done important work on cancer and the action of the X-ray. Much of his research has been done jointly with his wife, Dr. G. T. Cori, described by Dr. Marriott as also a scientist of distinction. Both are graduates of the University of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, and both are doctors of medicine.

Dr. Carl Cori did advanced work at the University of Vienna and was assistant professor of pharmacology at the University of Graz, Czecho-Slovakia. He will come here next autumn, succeeding Dr. Herbert Gasser, who is going to New York.

The late Edward Mallinckrodt, chemical manufacturer, and the General Education Board founded Washington's department of pharmacology. This is the science dealing with the action of medical agents on the body.

SAYS MISSING REALTY MAN SOLD HIM BOGUS NOTE

Anton Kratky Complains to Circuit Attorney About Security for $1850 From Oliver C. Hoge.

Complaint has been made to the Circuit Attorney that Oliver C. Hoge, missing real estate dealer, sold to a client a note for $1850 bearing a bogus signature purporting to be that of his mother, Mrs. Bertha Hoge.

Last Monday, shortly before public announcement that two women had questioned the validity of deeds of trust they said they bought from him, Hoge, who had an office at 2610 Chippewa street, disappeared.

The latest complainant against Hoge is Anton Kratky, a baker, 2906A Keokuk street. Kratky said he bought several notes from Hoge for $2700 two years ago, including an $1850 note bearing the name of Hoge's mother; also the purported signature of the realty dealer's father, John O. Hoge.

Mrs. Hoge told a Post-Dispatch reporter she never had signed any note. Kratky showed her a note bearing her name, but she said: "It was not my signature. I did not notice the other signature particularly. Both were in very good handwriting, and I do not write very well."

Kratky declared young Hoge had promised to give him a second deed of trust on the Hoge family residence at 3123 Michigan avenue, but that he never had been able to obtain it. The principal still due on the notes Kratky said he bought from Hoge is $1950, the baker declared.

Last Sunday young Hoge packed several suitcases and left home, saying, "You'll hear from me later," his mother related. Except that her son had remarked recently that his business was not prospering, she said she knew nothing about his affairs. She expressed fear that he would not return.

As has been told, two women have said that they and a third woman discovered recently that each held what purported to be a first deed of trust on the same property. Each deed of trust, in an amount approximating $2000, was purchased from Hoge, the women said.

ARRESTED FOR HOLDUP

Negro, 16, Held After Shoe Store Owner is Beaten.

Resisting two Negro boys who tried to rob him, Louis Davis, proprietor of a shoe store at 2303 Franklin avenue, was beaten on the head with a pistol yesterday morning, and was taken to City Hospital for treatment.

As he screamed for help, one of the Negroes struck him, then both ran out of the store, leaving a revolver. One escaped, but the other was captured by Detectives Ryan and Kilfoy, who responded to a radio alarm. The captured boy said he was Ray Gant, 16 years old.

THREE YEARS AGO —THREE MILLION

Approximately three million of these genuine Vivani Souvenir Sets were issued through dealers three years ago, and they were eagerly grasped by the women of America as fast as they could be distributed. The charge required with the certificate then was twice as much as this year, when we expect to issue only one million of the sets. SO IT CAN BE READILY SEEN THAT THE SUPPLY FOR THESE VIVANI SETS MAY BE SOON EXHAUSTED. THIS YEAR THE BIG SOUVENIR VIVANI SET IS FAR MORE WONDERFUL THAN EVER BEFORE.

GENERALLY HIGHER MARKET FOR BONDS

Most Active Short Session Since Jan. 3, Sales Aggregating $7,020,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The bond market today experienced its greatest activity for a short session since Jan. 3 when sales on the stock exchange aggregated $7,059,000. The total turnover today was $7,020,000. Trading in the over-the-counter market was active which was also an unusual condition for a Saturday.

Prices of all groups and grades of bonds were generally higher, but some of them, of course, enjoyed greater strength than others.

The overnight news about the plans of Federal Government to extend aid to Germany was reflected in sharp advances in the issues of that country, although trading in many of them was of moderate proportions. The 5½ per cent issue of 1965, issued under the Young plan, jumped 5¼ points on sales exceeding $400,000 at par value. Net gains ranging up to 4 points were common among the issues of the German Central Agricultural Bank, City of Dresden, Bremen, Berlin City Electric, United Steel Works, Rhine Westphalia Electric and Prussia. Other foreign bonds were generally higher, but the gains among them were not so marked as in the German group. Argentine and Chilean obligations declined irregularly. United States Government loans lacked a definite trend.

Among domestic corporate issues railroad loans were the most active with the best gains. Carrier stocks advanced sharply also. Some of the more active issues to gain were: Rock Island refunding 4s of 1934, Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, Denver & Rio Grande consolidated 4s, Erie general 4s, Missouri Pacific series I 5s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981 and Southern general 4s.

Further sharp gains in Interborough Rapid Transit and Third Avenue Railway issues again featured the public utilities in which strength was not so marked as in the rails. Industrial loans appreciated also, but the turnover in most of them was limited.

Wall street had been a little thered by the persistent although w trickle of selling that sent ces steady lower in the early sions. It suggested that perhaps the unfavorable news still hanging the market, including ond quarter earnings and prosctive dividend reductions, had been fully discounted and that esting of the recent lows was in re. There was, however, no reence of such gloom as gripped market early in the month and kerage houses generally regardthe sag as the forerunner of a dull summer.

Word that the United States was sidering what steps it could e to help theeconomic recovery, rticularly in Germany, was the standing development of the k, and the action of today's k market reflected the hurried ering of short commitments, it s apparent that confidence had in been helped, and at the time en it was beginning to lag.

Bears Caught Napping.

The market today went through of those rapid reversals which ssue when the shorts are caught pping.

The surprise, as said above, was resident Hoover's statement, parularly its reference to Germany d the inauguration of political nversations looking toward the tension of help to that country. all street immediately placed a llish interpretation on the announcement, taking it to mean not ly that Germany would receive sistance from the United States in r search for relief from financial d economic troubles, but that efrts would be made to give aid omptly.

Bears who had been offering ock steadily throughout the week slowly declining prices found the arket higher at the opening, alough trading for the first half our was dull. The pace quicked thereafter, however, and soon e movement to buy became a ramble. Net gains ranged from 2 11 points in the Standard Statisics-Associated Press composite was .3, just a point less than the adnce of June 3. The turnover of ,500,000 shares was the largest his week, and the biggest Saturday lume since late March.

Although bankers were reluctant comment publicly on the Washgton news, it was pointed out that e leadership assumed by the merican Government would have portant effects on confidence oth here and abroad. Rally in Bonds.

The rally in stocks was accompanied by a general rally in bonds, with German issues assuming the eadership. The mark, after an arly sag, recovered half a point et, but there was another withdrawal of gold from earmark at the Federal Reserve Bank, amounting to slightly more than $1,000,000.

BROAD RALLY IN STOCKS ON MOVEMENT TO AID GERMANY

Wall Street Immediately Places Bullish Construction on President Hoover's Statement Regarding Political Conversations in Carrying Out Plan.

ORTS IN MARKET CAUGHT NAPPING

Advance of 6.3 Points in Week-End Table Lifts Average of 90 Issues to 111.3 for Net Gain of 2.3 Points for Week or 2 Points Over Previous June Peak.

y the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Thanks the broad rally that followed to- ay's news from Washington, ocks rounded out the week in high ground for the June re- very.

The advance of 6.3 points in the eekend market lifted the average 90 issues to 111.3, a net gain of points for the week and almost actly 2 points above the previous ak of the June rally.

Wall street had been a little thered by the persistent although ow trickle of selling that sent ices steady lower in the early ssions. It suggested that perhaps the unfavorable news still hanging the market, including cond quarter earnings and prospective dividend reductions, had t been fully discounted and that testing of the recent lows was in ore. There was, however, no recurrence of such gloom as gripped he market early in the month and rokerage houses generally regard- the sag as the forerunner of a ery dull summer.

Word that the United States was onsidering what steps it could ke to help theeconomic recovery, articularly in Germany, was the utstanding development of the eek, and the action of today's tock market reflected the hurried overing of short commitments, it as apparent that confidence had ain been helped, and at the time hen it was beginning to lag.

Bonds accomplished little during e week, and the most spectacu- changes were the broad ad- ces by German issues today. emand for second grades in both ails and industrials improved ightly. Carriers issues were elped measureably by the prompt ling of the freight rate petition. ssues of the Cotton Belt and the risco responded to development ffecting those roads. In the case the former it was the Southern acific's offer to minority stock- olders, while St. Louis-San Fran- successful refunding opera- was well received.

Bears Caught Napping.

The market today went through of those rapid reversals which sue when the shorts are caught pping.

The surprise, as said above, was resident Hoover's statement, particularly its reference to Germany nd the inauguration of political onversations looking toward the extension of help to that country. Wall street immediately placed a bullish interpretation on the announcement, taking it to mean not only that Germany would receive assistance from the United States in her search for relief from financial and economic troubles, but that efforts would be made to give aid promptly.

Bears who had been offering stock steadily throughout the week of slowly declining prices found the market higher at the opening, although trading for the first half hour was dull. The pace quickened thereafter, however, and soon the movement to buy became a scramble. Net gains ranged from 2 to 11 points in the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite was 3.3, just a point less than the advance of June 3. The turnover of 1,500,000 shares was the largest this week, and the biggest Saturday volume since late March.

Although bankers were reluctant to comment publicly on the Washington news, it was pointed out that the leadership assumed by the American Government would have important effects on confidence, both here and abroad. There was some speculation as to what form any assistance might take. The point most discussed, however, was not so much the means to be employed, but the formal notice that steps toward international economic recovery were under consideration by this Government.

Rally in Bonds.

The rally in stocks was accompanied by a general rally in bonds, with German issues assuming the leadership. The mark, after an early sag, recovered half a point net, but there was another withdrawal of gold from earmark at the Federal Reserve Bank, amounting to slightly more than $1,000,000.

Sufficient profit-taking crept in at the close to put a few leading shares down moderately from their highs, but there were net gains of 6 to 7 points in U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Case and New York Central. Atchison rose 11 and Union Pacific 10. Western Union, Consolidated Gas, Union Carbide, General Electric, National Bircuit, International Telephone, Baltimore & Ohio and Westinghouse closed 4 to 5 higher, while advances of 2 to 3 were too numerous to mention. Auburn finished nearly 17 points higher.

The hardening of commodity prices in the last week or two has caused favorable comment. The first break in this financial barometer came almost exactly two years ago and was the hand writing on the wall which the 1929 bull market failed to heed until several months later. There have been intervals of comparative steadiness in recent months, but a resumption of the sag has followed in each instance.

Berlin dispatches assumed a more cheerful tone for the Boerse was strong. The Reichsbank suffered heavy losses of gold and exchange on Friday, which revived fears that the increased discount rate and other measures taken to stop the flight of capital might not prove effective. Releases of gold from earmark here this week reached the large total of $76,000,000, reducing the stock to less than $35,000,000. It is assumed that most of the gold belonged to European central banks, notably France, which were repaid by shipments from Berlin. Such a procedure obviated the necessity of trans-oceanic exportation.

Foreign exchanges were firm, with the exception of the Brazilian milreis and the French franc. The latter eased nominally.

BERLIN BOERSE PRICES UP ON WASHINGTON REPORTS

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 20.—What is headlined on the financial pages as a "Hoover boom" developed on the Bourse today as a result of news from Washington of President Hoover conferences on the German situation.

Leading stocks gained as much as 15 points. An announcement by the Reichsbank restricting drafts and discontinuing the quotation of a private discount rate put brakes on the upward movement however.

Heavy demands for foreign currencies, estimated at 60,000,000 marks, led the Reichsbank to issue orders that drafts in the future would be honored only by the Reichsbank directly and quotation of a private discount rate would be discontinued.

This was taken as amounting to indirect credit restriction.

COTTON MAKES GOOD GAINS IN AN ACTIVE MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Cotton was active today with prices making new high ground for the movement on trade buying and covering.

October advanced to 9.34c or 23 points net higher and 81 points above the low record established earlier in the month, with the general market closing steady at net gains of 18 to 22 points.

The opening was steady, 6 to 10 points higher. Traders paid very little attention to rather lower Liverpool cables than due on the New York close of yesterday, seeming to be more impressed by the reports from Washington and the opening advance in the stock market. There was considerable week-end realizing, but it was readily absorbed and the market worked almost steadily higher, with the advance becoming more rapid in the late trading. The failure of the market to meet increased offerings as prices sold above the previous best levels of the week seemed to impart additional urgency in the demand from shorts, while the trade buying continued with the selling relatively light. July sold up to 8.93c and December to 9.58c in the late trading, when active months showed net advances of about 20 to 24 points. Closing quotations weer a few points off from the best under realizing.

There were complaints that additional May rains were needed in some parts of the South, also of comparatively small plants and insect infestation, particularly from portions of Texas and Alabama. One of the private reports published here during the morning said the crop outlook in Central Texas was very spotted, with some parts needing rain badly. Need of rain was also reported in Alabama.

Liverpool cables said that continental and Bombay buying in that market had been supplied by local realizing. Cotton on shipboard at U. S. ports awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 67,479 bales, against 70,276 last year.

Wall Street News and Comment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—New productive security flotations during the first five months this year aggregated $1,285,000,000 or 70.5 per cent of total new offerings, a computation by Moody's shows. This amount is smaller than in the corresponding period of previous years since 1921, except for slightly lower figures reported in 1928 and 1929. The survey says that the figures offer "convincing evidence that at the present time little new capital is available except for distinctly productive purposes, such as construction and additions to equipment."

There was virtually no inquiry for copper in the domestic market at the end of the week and export sales were negligible. Prices remained unchanged at 8 cents a pound, delivered, for domestic shipment, and 8.275 cents, C. I. F. European base ports, for export.

The onset of summer finds activity still at a low ebb in the electrical equipment markets of the country, Electrical World reports. Changes in the past week were slight and irregular, word from the various districts indicating somewhat better conditions in coast and Middle West markets.

The average price of crude petroleum at 10 representative producing fields was unchanged last week from the preceding ween at 62.6 cents a barrel, according to Oil, Paint & Drug Reporter. The average compares with $1.465 a barrel a year ago. Gasoline at the refineries was cheaper last week at 3.75 cents a gallon at four principal refining centers, compared with 3.775 cents a gallon the preceding week nd 7.21 cents a gallon last year.

Operations of steel mills in the Youngstown district next week will be advanced 1 per cent to 41 per cent of capacity, Dow, Jones & Co. reports.

UTILITIES AND OILS LEAD CURB UPTURN

Market Responds to Vigorous Covering Prompted by News From Washington.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK June 20.—Led by the utilities and the oils, the Curb market today responded to vigorous covering prompted by the news from Washington.

The advance started in the power and light company issues, which opened firm and rose quietly for the first half hour. By that time the better tone had been well established and shorts began to increase their repurchases, turning to the petroleum stocks and less aggressively to the industrials. Net gains of 1 to 4 points were numerous in active issues. The turnover was 250,000 shares, the largest volume of the week.

Buying of Electric Bond & Share sent that stock up exactly 4 points net. American Gas & Electric rose as much, while there were net advances of 1 to 2 in Brazilian Traction, American Superpower, Niagara Hudson, United Light "A," Electric Power warrants and Commonwealth Edison.

Gulf proved the feature of the oil division, rising 9 points as shorts found the supply scant. Cities Service, which had been under pressure much of the week, rallied a full point. Standard of Indiana gained a major fraction and Vacuum moved up 1½. Plymouth Oil rose 2¼.

In the industrials and specialties, Ford Limited, Ford of Canada "A," Newmont Mining, General Theaters preferred, United Shoe, Parker Rust, Lily Tulip, Miller & Sons and Bickford's preferred closed 1 to 2 above Friday's final quotations. Aluminum of America reversed its recent downward trend quickly, soaring nearly 21 points.

Investment trusts firmed with the general list, but were rather inactive.

WHEAT AND CORN MAKE GOOD GAINS ON LOCAL BOARD

Strength of Securities and Bullish Comment on Canadian Situation Are Among Factors.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 20.—Influenced by strength of securities on President Hoover's announcement of conversations with political leaders on a plan to relieve the German situation and bullish comment on Canadian grain outlook, wheat ranged up more than 2 cents. Corn had an extreme range almost as large.

Winnipeg closed 1½@1⅝c higher.

Liverpool closed ⅛@⅜d net higher.

July wheat opened at 53¼c, September wheat 53⅝c, July corn 56⅜c and September corn 52½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 140,000 bushels, compared with 70,000 a week ago and 231,000 a year ago, included 25 cars local and 75 through; corn receipts, which were 58,800 bushels, compared with 93,800 a week ago and 43,400 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 24 through; oats receipts, which were 22,000 bushels, compared with 39,600 a week ago and 37,400 a year ago, included 8 cars local and 2 through. Hay receipts were 3 cars local and 2 through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to 1c higher. Offerings consisted of but two cars, one a medium garlicky and the other mixed durum. These went to order buyers. Straight No. 1 was nominally 1c higher. There was no hard wheat offered. Some new hard was in transit and asking prices for immediate shipment Oklahoma No. 1 were around 70c. Corn was 1@1½c higher. The yellow sold readily at 1@1½c higher levels, while the white moved at 1c advance. Elevators, mills and a local firm were buyers of the yellow, and the white corn sold to elevator. Only one car of mixed corn was on sale and this was carried over. Receipts were light and cleared well. Oats were ½@¾c higher. There was demand for all classes. The white went to mills and an elevator while the mixed and red were taken by shipper.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange Saturday were as follows:

WHEAT MARKET BUOYANT ON RISE IN SECURITIES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Buoyancy developed in the grain markets today simultaneously with a steep advance of securities. Wheat purchasing appeared to come from more substantial sources than for some time. Prospective improvement of Germany's financial position received much notice, and there was talk about Canadian crop damage.

Wheat closed strong at about the day's top level, ⅝@2¼ cents higher, corn 1½@3¼c up; oats ½@¾c advanced and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Active general buying commenced in wheat shortly after trade opened and grew steadily broader with but few transient lulls. Crop damage reports from Canada attracted most attention, but soon the soaring of securities, especially United States Steels, eclipsed at times the Canadian advices.

There was apparently much less fear than of late regarding bearish effects of the domestic winter wheat harvest movement.

Corn and oats followed the leadership of wheat. December corn was especially strong, former speculative sellers making haste to reverse their market status.

MILL FEED FUTURES MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 20.—Today's mill feed futures market had a firm undertone and holders advanced their ideas of price, influenced by a sharp rise in grain. Buyers were not inclined to take hold at the advance. Bran closed 25c to 50c higher, gray shorts 30c to 75c higher, and standard middlings 35c to 55c higher. Sales totaled 1000 tons.

COUNTY MAY SAVE $15,000 BY CUT IN INTEREST RATE

Court Agrees to Pay Only 4 Pct. on Tax Anticipation Warrants After June 1.

The County Court of St. Louis County expects to save about $15,000 this year by paying only 4 instead of 6 per cent interest on anticipation warrants issued after June 1 in payment of salaries and current expenses.

The Court yesterday announced agreements with two Clayton banks which are depositories for county funds, the St. Louis County Bank and the First National Bank of Clayton, on that basis. The agreed rate of interest from April 1 to May 31 is 5 per cent. Heretofore the rate has been 6 per cent.

County expenses are now paid with warrants issued in anticipation of tax revenues to be collected in the latter part of the year, chiefly in December. Recipients of the warrants may cash them at either of the depository banks, which, in effect, lend the money to the county. It is estimated $900,000 will be thus advanced between now and the end of the year.

SAYS AUDUBON SOCIETIES ARE IN LEAGUE WITH HUNTERS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Alleging the National Association of Audubon societies co-operates with hunting and shooting clubs in aims contrary to its original purpose of bird and animal protection, Mrs. Charles N. Edge of New York, a life member, has brought mandamus proceedings to compel the association to disclose its list of members.

Mrs. Edge asserts that of 20,000 members only 105 attended the last annual meeting and practically all were affiliated with the present officers. She says the association spent large sums opposing Federal reduction of bag limits for ducks and other migratory fowl and urging legislation designed to create public shooting grounds. Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the association, called the suit absurd. He said the organization was the oldest and strongest of its kind in America and had always worked for the interests of wild life. He said the plaintiff was misinformed.

Germany Perilously Near Crash, Says Lloyd George, and Burden Of Reparations Has to Be Eased

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, June 20.

THE visit of the German Chancellor to England has raised in a diplomatic form the international character of the trade depression. The causes alleged for the depression are numerous. They range over a wide field of suggestions that it is the result of trade cycles, the drop in prices, over-production, the greedy hoarding of gold by two or three countries, war debts, high tariffs and speculation on the Stock Exchange.

These suggested causes are by no means alternative. They are largely cumulative and are in varying degrees jointly responsible for the present situation. The drop in prices, whether it is cause or effect, has been almost catastrophic. As an illustration I may take the British Board of Trade index number of wholesale prices. Taking 1924 as 100, by 1929 the average figure of prices had dropped to 82.1, by 1930 to 71.9 and now it is somewhere about 63.

On the other hand the figures of over-production are equally startling. If you take the world stocks of certain commodities as they existed in 1929, and in March or April of this year, there has been quite a sensational increase in the output. Wheat, of which in 1929 the world stock was represented by 370,000,000 bushels, in 1931 had increased to 600,000,000. Copper rose from 320,000 metric tons in 1929 to 518,000 in 1931. Tin has very nearly doubled, cotton trebled, sugar very nearly quadrupled.

20,000,000 Idle Workers.

So prices in the course of a couple of years have fallen generally throughout the world by about 25 per cent. Stocks of various staple commodities have, during the same period, been doubled and trebled and, in one important case, quadrupled. It is a situation which, in some respects, is quite without precedent in the history of our trade cycles. At this moment 20,000,000 workers stand idle in the markets of the world because no man has hired them.

But the international aspect of the problem cannot be in doubt. The depression is more truly worldwide than the great war. There is no neutral country in this economic cataclysm. The solution to be effective must also be international. Geneva realizes this and is struggling to lower the barriers created by tariffs. But there is a growing feeling that nothing can be accomplished unless the nations tackle the two questions of gold distribution and war debts.

The problem of war debts goes deep and deserves special consideration, and I have no doubt that this consideration was given to it at the Chequers conversations, for Germany bears on her own bent shoulders the whole brunt of international war indebtedness.

The first thing to bear in mind about war debts and reparations is that although they stand as a liability from the debtor countries to their creditors, they are not represented by any permanent increase of capital wealth in the debtor countries.

Difference in Loans.

If in peace time a loan is raised in one country by another—if, e. g., Great Britain or the United States of America lends money to Brazil or the Argentine for the construction of a railway or a dock or some other piece of useful development, the borrowing country will have to pay interest on the debt until it redeems it, but in the meantime it will have been enriched by the creation of a valuable capital asset within its own borders that will earn the money to serve the debt. But the war debts were incurred for munitions and other supplies that were forthwith destroyed while reparations owe their origin, not to wealth acquired, but to damage done to productive assets.

The payment of war debts and reparations is therefore a drain upon countries that have no special assets to meet it but on the contrary are already impoverished by the exhaustion of war.

These large war debts mean that very large amounts have to pass yearly from the debtor countries to their creditors.

In this connection, amounts means goods and services in exportable surplus—exports from the debtor countries which their creditors do not pay for by any corresponding goods or services. Such payments mean abnormal poverty in the debtor countries.

So strongly did Great Britain realize the abnormal character of war debts and reparations and the injury which their payment would inflict on debtors and creditors alike that on Aug. 1, 1922, a note was addressed by the British Government to the diplomatic representatives of the allied nations in which it was pointed out that, while Great Britain was a creditor of other countries for about four times as large an amount as that which she in turn owed to the U. S. A., she would be willing to surrender her share of German reparations and write off through one great transaction the whole body of interallied indebtedness, if such renunciation formed a part of an agreed all-round cancellation of war debts.

Different View in U. S.

The U. S. A. took a different view from ourselves as to the desirability of canceling the war debts, and chose, as she was perfectly entitled to do, to insist on payment to the utmost limit of her debtor's capacity.

At present, therefore, America is wholly a creditor country in respect of war debts and reparations. The former allied European countries are both creditors and debtors. The former Central Powers and their succession states are purely debtors.

In all these financial arrangements the two problems of greatest difficulty are those of the U. S. A., which has in the course of the coming years to accept from its debtors repayments of principal and interest amounting to more than 22 thousand million dollars; and of Germany, which under the Young plan, is due to pay in the next 57 years a sum approximating that amount.

It was an impossible proposition and sooner or later was bound to end in a crash. Germany is perilously near crashing. If she falls she will drag halfway down what is left of world stability and prosperity. Senator Borah pleads for a lightening of Germany's burden of reparations. I agree cordially with that view. But I know too well that it is idle to put forward that plea, unless America and Britain abate their claims for war loans.

Effects of Settlement.

These war debts and reparations can ultimately be paid only by the debtor countries exporting, up to the value of their debt, an excess of goods and services over their imports; and by the creditor countries accepting imports to a like amount in excess of what they export.

During the last few years this inexorable fact has been temporarily concealed through the operation of international loans. Germany, unable to maintain an exportable surplus, has borrowed from other countries the money with which to pay its external war debts. The U. S. A., unwilling to see its home market flooded by imported goods which would throw its own industries out of action, has raised fresh tariff walls to keep them out and lent money abroad so as to let the yearly amounts due to it stand over as fresh debts.

Obviously this proceeding could only be a temporary expedient. The stage has already been reached when Germany can no longer borrow externally. International rates of interest have risen against her until today she finds it difficult or impossible to raise money outside her frontier at less than 12 per cent. From now on, German reparations, which form the main asset whereby allied nations pay their debts to the U. S. A., must reach their destination as an exported surplus of goods, or remain unpaid.

Position of Germany.

Prior to 1929 the German balance of trade showed a deficit. All the immense amounts she contributed to reparation under the Dawes scheme were met by borrowed money.

In 1929 Germany's balance of imports and exports showed a small credit of about $8,000,000. Last year her credit balance was about $400,000,000; and she is maintaining her credit balance in 1931.

In the first four months of this year the total excess of exports over imports including reparation deliveries in kind has been 304.5 million Reichsmarks. If this average were kept for the rest of the year, the total surplus would be 913.5 million, but under the Young plan, Germany is expected to pay

New Survey of Russia and Its Economic Experiment

Major-General Haskell, American Relief Commissioner After the War and Again a Visitor in 1926, Has Just Returned From Third Tour of Inspection in Soviet States.

Russians Working With More Speed, He Finds, Modern Machinery Has Largely Replaced Antiquated Tools of Production, and Agriculture Has Been Organized on Efficient Basis—"White Collar" Workers Not So Well Off.

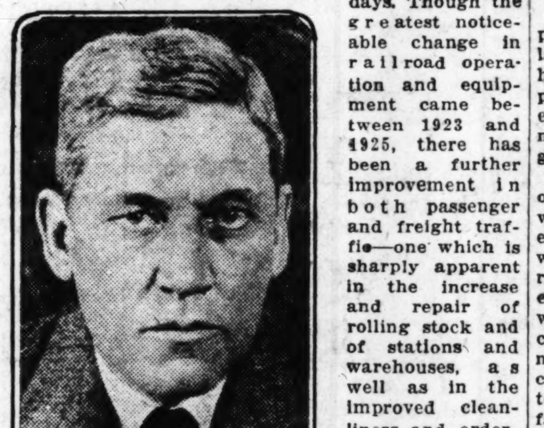
How much has Russia changed in the last five years? How has the face of the great country been altered through the Five Year Plan? What do these changes mean for the future? These are arresting questions and daily the world grows more interested in the answers.

From 1921 to 1923 Major-General Haskell served as chief of the American Relief Administration to Russia. He gained an intimate knowledge of the country. Five years ago he visited Russia again. He has just completed another trip through the country and has written a series of articles in which he sets down his observations of the gigantic experiment now in process—drawing the picture against the impression of five years ago and his earlier experiences.

In the following article, the first of the series, Gen. Haskell presents a view of the country in panorama; in the second article, which will appear next Sunday, he discusses the Five Year Plan and its implications.

By MAJOR-GENERAL WILLIAM N. HASKELL.

TO the visitor who returns to Russia after an absence of five years the most striking change is the acceleration of tempo. Especially is this quickening of movement marked in the people of the cities; there is a determination written on their faces and a nervous energy about them that seems strange for Russia.



MAJOR-GENERAL W. N. HASKELL.

Five years ago Russia was drifting along, apparently without a policy and without an objective. If there was a trend at that time it was toward state capitalism. Individualism was permitted only a limited scope. Concessionaires were being urged to develop the principal resources of the country on a basis of mutual advantage. Loans were being sought abroad—without success. Private trade, retail and wholesale, was on the increase. Life was easier and pleasanter than it is now. Consumable goods, though scarce, were being imported and were available to the people. The peasants were unmolested and their instinct for individualism and capitalism gave promise of support for a movement toward the Right in the government.

Today all this is changed. Russia has a new program, a definite objective.

Activity Everywhere.

Five years ago Russia was living on the salvage of the old regime. Today building operations are everywhere in evidence; in addition to the large industrial projects under construction, work proceeds on office buildings, workers' clubs, apartments, even hotels.

The Five Year Plan atmosphere pervades the land; it is sedulously cultivated by the Government. No means known to man are overlooked in arousing the enthusiasm of the people and any one having doubts about Russia's success is wise enough to keep his opinions to himself. It is not healthy to disagree with the powers that be, even if they do criticise themselves freely in their own press. The benefits of socialism, the evils of capitalism, the hostility of other nations, the imminence of intervention, the need for sacrifices and haste for the plan, the benefits of collective farming, the skullduggery of the kulak, the evils of the church—floods of propaganda of this kind are let loose daily upon the population.

Five years ago a machine was a mystery; now it is an idol. A machine mania has taken hold of Russia. Take out a camera and a crowd will assemble intent on seeing how it works. In their novelty of their mechanized age, the Russians love to take things apart. In many places rifles are available for dismantling; thus the citizens become familar with the rifle for military purposes, and the new desire to handle some mechanism is gratified. Everywhere there are posters that depict factories, machines, tractors, levers, cogs—anything that symbolizes industrialization.

Everywhere the effects of the two and a half years during which the plan has been in operation are apparent—on the railroads, in the cities, in the factories and on the farms.

The Railroads.

One gets a vivid first impression of Russia today from the changes to be seen on the railroads. Especially is this true in my own case, for I used them much in former days. Though the greatest noticeable change in railroad operation and equipment came between 1923 and 1925, there has been a further improvement in both passenger and freight traffic—one which is sharply apparent in the increase and repair of rolling stock and of stations and warehouses, as well as in the improved cleanliness and orderliness of stations, rights of way and trains. I feel sure that the present inadequacy of the railroads is keenly felt and that rail congestion will affect to some extent the deliveries needed to meet the program of building under the Five Year Plan.

Perhaps the most marked change in the railroads is in the character of the freight they carry. Formerly one saw grain, general merchandise and passengers (in freight cars); but now it is structural steel, castings, transformers, boxed automobiles and industrial loads which were rare or unknown five years ago.

The Cities.

The cities present an appearance strikingly different from that of five years ago. There are many more people on the streets, both day and night. This may be due to the fact that Russia in on a five-day week; every fifth day is a rest day, and so 20 per cent of the population is always free. Or perhaps it is the search for a chance to buy food or clothes that fills the streets. Or possibly the unbelievable congestion in living accommodations makes the homes uncomfortable, for, despite the building activity, it is doubtful whether the construction of homes is more than keeping up with the normal increase of the population, especially in the cities.

But whatever the cause, there has been an increase of activity. There are many more automobiles, which run about with a reckless disregard of pedestrians; many more tram cars, all crowded, and more busses, also crowded. The police maintain order and the pavements and street cleaning have improved. Parks and buildings are in much better condition and there is a noticeable absence of dirt and rubbish. As for the appearance of the people, so far as clothing is concerned, I can best express my impression by saying that there is no style and no suffering—that everyone seems to be sufficiently clothed, in a secondhand way.

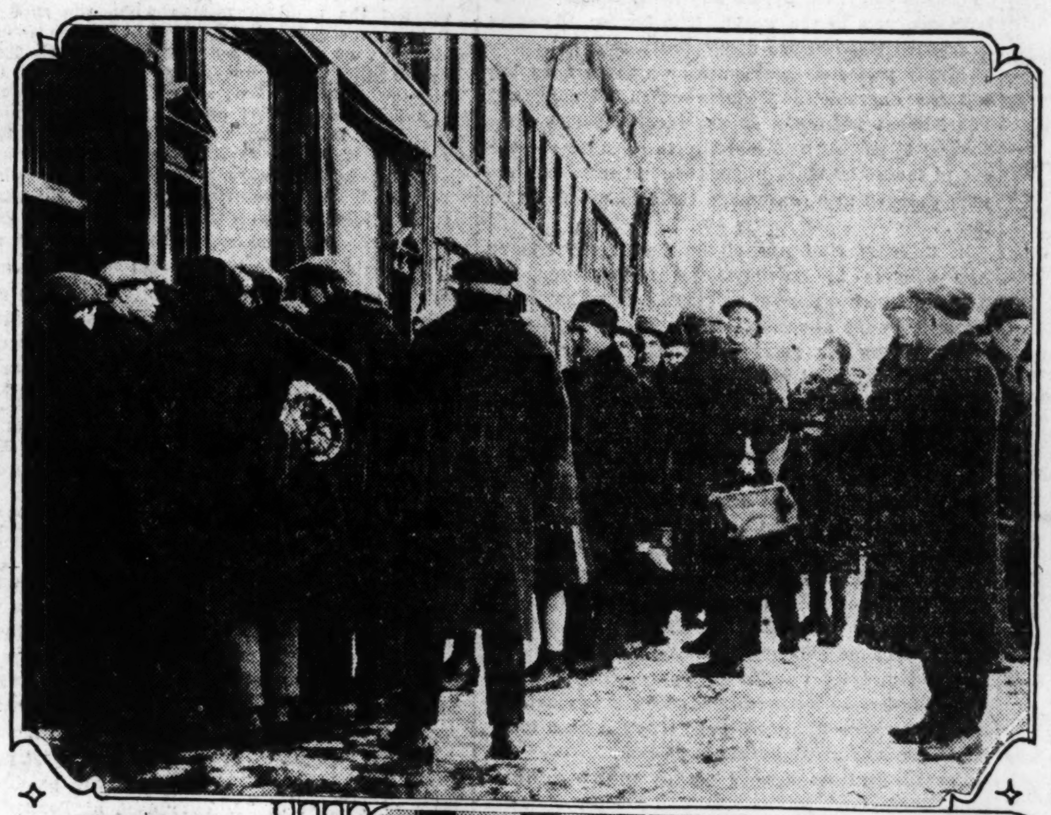
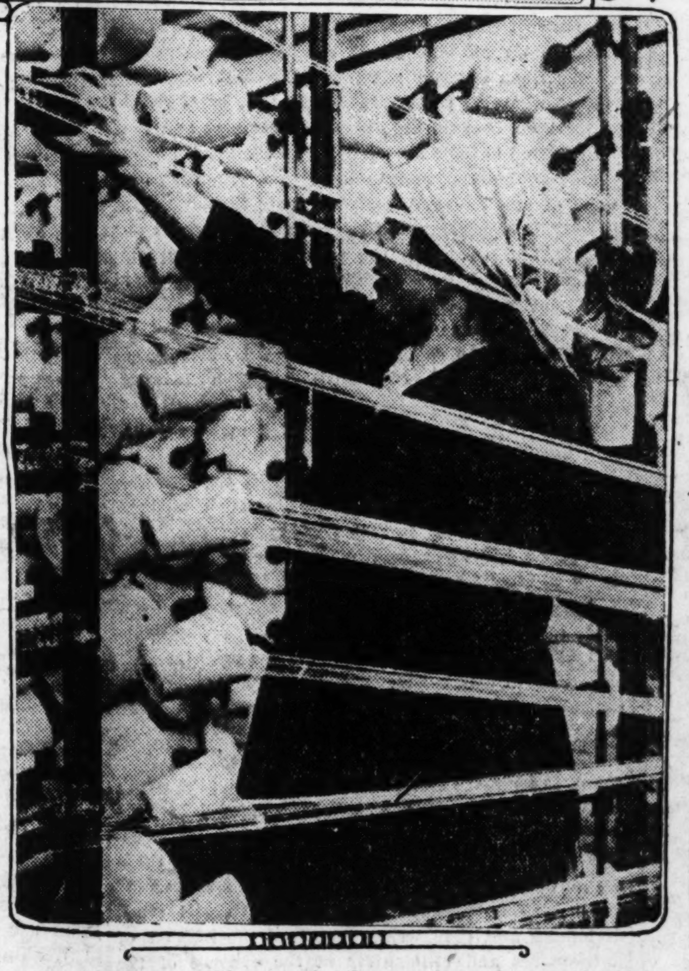
The Factories.





Queue waiting to obtain supplies in their food cards at a Government store. Below, a woman worker in a textile mill which has installed machinery of the latest type.

The factory of today has a different atmosphere and a different tempo from those of five years ago. Then the few in operation consisted only of salvaged pre-war plants, with antiquated machinery, poor organization and indifferent labor; today obsolete machines have been replaced in the old plants and the very latest type of equipment is being installed in the new ones. Also there is better organization in the shops.

The greatest change, however, is observed in the attitude of the workman. Not all the labor seems efficient. This is due to dilution with the new and younger unskilled recruits from the farms, but the experienced hands, both men and women, are not watching the clock, nor do they hesitate to donate overtime in the race to exceed the output of a competing factory. The campaign for better and faster work has resulted in quickening the step and educating the workman to the necessity for the success of the five-year plan.

In the old plants production has materially increased over that of five years ago, even though working conditions are still poor; in the newly-built ones the latest American ideas of ventilation, light and safety are in evidence. At many places restaurants which provide a cheap noon-day meal at low cost have been opened, while men and women off duty can be seen playing chess or reading in places set aside for such diversions.

Yet, despite the efforts to speed things up, there is still apparent to the observer much lack of organization, much bewilderment and a tendency to duplicate and to loaf about, as if material were being awaited. But, as compared with five years ago, there has been a decided increase of activity in industry of all kinds, and those engaged in its newer phases are muddling along, becoming familiar with strange sights and trying to replace skill by will.

The Farms.

Life on the individual farms has scarcely changed in the last five years. On those State and collective farms where agriculture has been put on an industrial basis, however, there has been a distinct transformation, not only in methods of operation but also in the home and village life of the peasant.

Collective farms are in a state of flux, and standardization has by no means been attained, because of the haste and hit-or-miss methods of throwing them together. They are in all stages of organization and efficiency, a fact which causes much bewilderment to the peasant members, who are not sure whether they are to be better or worse off than they were, nor in fact just what new rules of work and living are ahead. The peasants are worried about it and suspicious of the Government's intentions.

Village life has become somewhat more interesting because of the more numerous contacts with the cities, increased school facilities for the children, radio broadcasting and information (carefully censored) disseminated in pamphlets and posters by the Government. All this, of course, is an effort to convince the rural population that Socialism is the cure-all for its woes.

Close questioning and careful observation of the peasants led me to believe that there is an awakening to their own backwardness and a hunger to know what is happening elsewhere in Russia as well as what agricultural conditions are in foreign countries.

The Standard of Living.

Certainly the standard of living has not improved in the last five years, either in the cities or on the farms, and it will probably remain as it is until the end of 1933. It is so ordered, with a ruthless disregard of what the public wants. The people are allowed what the Government prescribes—and nothing more—whether it be shelter, food or clothing. Luxuries are not now for the Russians; they are called upon to make these sacrifices so that the utmost may be exported to pay Russia's foreign bills for the materials, machines and skilled labor that are indispensable for completing the plan for industrialization.

Every one has a food card; there are several categories, and each calls for a different quantity of food, depending upon the individual's occupation. Thus a workman's card differs from a clerk's. The prices are uniform and the quality does not vary. Clothing and shoes are similarly rationed, and, as there is a scarcity of both, orders are given to groups as articles become available. To have a "high" food card and to obtain preference in the buying of clothing is what every Russian wants, because his rubles are almost useless unless he has authority to buy food or clothing at the card price.

Anything in excess of the allowance prescribed on a card or permit must be obtained from a different type of Government store. These are called "open stores," but the prices here are almost prohibitive. This arrangement, whereby the Government fixes the ration prices low and the so-called "open store" prices high, in effect prevents supplementing the ration to any appreciable extent. Since the Government fixes all wages, the picture is completed.

It is well that Russians are patient and know how to suffer, for they must stand for hours in long queues and await their turn to buy even the limited necessities that are allowed.

The Cost of "Luxuries."

Russia, in so far as consumable goods are concerned, is certainly a seller's market; but the only seller is the Government. After rent is paid and card allowances are obtained, money means nothing. Almost no one gets enough to pay the high prices of the Government's "open" or "free" stores.

A workman's wage is, say, $60 a month. The rent he pays is low, and his food, obtained by card, is cheap; but if he should want to buy an alarm clock it would cost him more than a whole month's wage, and a fountain pen would cost $50. These are luxuries.

Formerly it was possible to spend excess rubles in travel on the railroad. That was cheap and interesting for a Russian. Recently, however, travel has been cut down by the simple device of raising the tariff 50 per cent. The Government had decided that there was too much unnecessary moving about.

In figuring what a worker gets, one must take into consideration who he is, or to what class he belongs—in other words, what he is allowed to buy after he gets his money. If he is a member of a class to which good cards are allotted, he can buy more at low prices than some one with a poorer card. Workers have the best cards and so are comparatively better off. There is a clear distinction between a worker and an employe. The latter is an office worker; though he may get high wages, his card calls for more restricted purchases and thus he may not obtain as much for his money as does the worker. Engineers as a class are undoubtedly the highest paid of all, but their food cards are not as desirable as an ordinary worker's.

Workers in factories and industry receive about $50 to $60 a month. Skilled labor gets a varying wage, depending on the job, up to $175. Practically all work in Russia is on a piece basis; this applies even to the collective farms. There is also a system of bonuses and rewards in the way of vacations for special accomplishment.

The Author

MAJOR-GENERAL WILLIAM N. HASKELL, a native of Albany, N. Y., is a graduate of West Point, class of 1901. He was in the Philippines for several years and commanded a regiment on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917. When he was sent to France in 1918 he was appointed assistant chief of staff, Seventy-seventh Division, and participated in the St. Mihiel operations.

After the World War he was head of the American Relief to Rumania and later High Commissioner, representing several nations, in Armenia.

In 1921 he was sent to Russia as chief of the American Relief Commission where he remained for about two years. He later made another journey to that country, and has now just returned from his third visit.

Rewards for Accomplishment.

Every capitalistic device is used to speed up work. The members of the Communist party, of which there are perhaps 1,500,000, are called upon to set an example, not only in the amount of work accomplished but in loyalty to the cause. They are sent where needed; they are the missionary band. Their pay is not more than about $175 a month, plus certain allowances.

It is not easy to live up to all the party requirements and to the discipline of party membership. Married members have practically no home life. No doubt high officials receive special allowances such as traveling expenses, automobiles, chauffeur service and possibly entertainment costs; certainly they could not exist or carry out their duties otherwise.

It has been said that while Communist officials get only moderate salaries, it is possible for them to hold several offices at the same time and receive salaries and allowances from each one. But, in any event, they make no display, and I have always believed that they were sincere in their work, and not in it for what they could personally obtain other than power.

Unemployment.

Much is broadcast in Russia today about unemployment in the capitalistic countries, especially in America. The number of our unemployed is published as 7,000,000, and then the fallacy that there is no unemployment in Russia is announced as proof of the superiority of the Soviet system for the worker.

It is true that there is no industrial unemployment in Russia now. On the contrary, there is a need for more labor, especially skilled labor; and a number of foreigners are moving into the land of the Soviets looking for work. Sometimes they come in as tourists under the guidance of a travel bureau and then stay on. The statement was made to me in Moscow that the authorities are planning to set up a bureau of immigration in the near future.

There are several questions that present themselves when one asks whether there is any unemployment in Russia. For instance: Where are the millions of kulaks whose farms were confiscated? How about the bourgeoisie and the other declassed elements of the population? What is done with the excess farm labor that is being released as the farms become collectivised? True, industry will use some of them in work which requires unskilled labor, but what of the others? As large industrial projects of construction are finished under the Five-Year Plan, what will be done with the labor thus released? Every enterprise in Russia employs more labor than would be used in America for the same work; what will become of these surplus workers if production is put on an efficient basis?

Thinking by Mandate.

Just as the Russians eat by order, so they think by order, especially the younger element. No one under 30 can remember anything but war, revolution, famine and socialism in Russia. In the schools education starts along carefully prepared lines; the books, magazines and newspapers have but one objective, and there is only one side to every question. Then the radio carries

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Speaking of Betrayal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PRESIDENT HOOVER discharged the business of dedicating the Harding tomb with a good deal of tact, decency and compassion. Frequent quotation of his remarks on that occasion is to be anticipated, for much that he said holds the ring of eternal and obvious truth. Speaking of betrayal, however, there is a lot more involved than the betrayal of Warren Harding by his friends, so-called.

What of the betrayal of the American people by the Republican party in nominating for the highest office in the land an individual so utterly unqualified for its requirements? Was Harding elected upon his own merits as an outstanding personage in public life? No, for he had none, being merely a rather handsome, easy-going man. His election was accomplished through the damnation of the Wilson administration by such ranting reactionaries as Lodge, and thereby an incompetent was made to sit in the White House and the Federal Government became a "thieves' market!" Well, truth is mighty and will, in the end, prevail.

Meanwhile, the Democrats will laugh last, for Woodrow Wilson remains the last great President, not because he was a Democrat, but because he was a man of great intellectual and spiritual power. Those who have heard him talk and have read his books know that this is so.

ONLY A WOMAN VOTER.

Capone, Product of Volsteadism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DON'T be too hard on Al Capone. He is the legitimate product of Volsteadism, which you so strongly and so rightfully condemn.

Some big captain of industry, only a year ago, by some sort of business jugglery received nearly $2,000,000 as the head of a business monopoly that has no legal right to exist. Have you been heard on that subject?

Our Government declares a certain act a felony and then compels the man who engages in that business to divide his profits with it and, besides, sends the man to prison for trying to avoid a division of profits. Here is a question of morals—too deep for me. Please refer it to Brother Volstead.

Visitations of the Mysterious Cicada.

AN editorial in the Post-Dispatch of June 4, "Lecture in Entomology," describing that little known and rather mysterious insect, the cicada, recalls a discussion that appeared in Pittsburg newspapers of 1866, when I was a boy of 12 years.

In that summer there was an immense swarm of 17-year locusts—as they were popularly called. Trees, shrubbery, fences and buildings were, in places, almost covered with them. The entomologists and newspaper writers of that time did not agree as to when they appeared, or how long they remained in the ground. The general opinion, however, was that there were different broods in different parts of the country; one in the Eastern states, one west of the Mississippi River, and one south of the Ohio River, and that these came at different periods. Prof. C. V. Riley, who was State Entomologist of Missouri in the early '70s, said that the Missouri cicadi came every 13 years.

I moved to Jefferson County, Mo., in 1867. In 1868 there was an immense swarm of cicadi there, and remembering the controversy upon the subject, I carefully noted the dates of their subsequent returns. The next brood came in 1881; the next in 1894 (that summer I spent in Greene County of this State); the next, when I was living in my present home (Farmington, St. Francois County, Mo.) in 1907, and the next in 1920.

These insects are dying out. Each successive brood since 1866 has been less in numbers until in 1920 there was no swarm, only a few scattered specimens. Few persons observed them. I did because I was expecting them and looking for them. They may now be extinct, but if they come again, it will be in 1933.

Gov. Emmerson's Comment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been reading the different discussions concerning the depression, but Gov. Emmerson of Illinois has put it in capsule form. He says, "We have all been living like kings and now we must pay for it."

A FARMER.

A Building Program for St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WEBSTER GROVES has an election this month to vote bonds for a new city hall. Might not St. Louis also at this time consider putting on a really large building program? Now when building costs are low, and the depression so alarmingly acute, would it not be better to give men willing and eager to work an opportunity to do so, rather than to give them a dole? Nothing will furnish so many different kinds of people employment as will a large building program.

St. Louis could put herself on the map by taking care of unemployment and by building model tenements, public buildings and factories. Thousands of people will have to be given aid this winter or else work.

E. H. M.

COST OF TARIFF DISHONESTY.

If conditions were normal, that is to say, if the prices of commodities were on a normal level, instead of high prices for highly protected manufactured commodities compared with low prices in the world market for agricultural products, this would be a year of prosperity. Crop prospects are excellent in nearly all parts of the agricultural districts. The farmer will have a plentiful supply of products to sell. But he will have to sell his products, particularly wheat and cotton, at low world prices, and will have to buy all that he needs at prices artificially boosted by excessive tariffs.

This lack of prosperity, with abundant crops, is the heavy price the American people pay for dishonest tariffs which rob the masses for the benefit of the privileged few. The effort to put the farmer on a level with the manufacturer by placing a tariff on farm products has proved only a gesture of relief. Its benefits are so limited that they are practically negligible. We must export farm products, and therefore the prices are not governed by tariffs but are subject to world conditions, and there is a surplus of farm products in the world. The farmer, therefore, is crushed between the upper and nether millstones of highly protected commodities which he must buy and the unprotected products which he must sell. Thus, about 28,000,000 of the rural population are doomed to poverty and inability to consume the output of industrial mass production. If these millions were changed into consumers, the mill wheels would turn.

H. E. Miles, chairman of the Fair Tariff League, who believes in legitimate tariff protection, but who denounces dishonest privilege tariffs, has fairly summed up the situation. He shows that the farmers, suffering for years under the heavy handicap of the tariff, got $2,400,000,000 less for their crops in 1930 than in 1929, and $229,000,000 less for their livestock. The prices of all farm products averaged only 3 per cent above pre-war prices, while the prices of commodities farmers buy averaged 49 per cent higher. The farmer's dollar is worth only 69 cents in exchange for the goods he needs. But in 1930, instead of reducing the manufacturers' rates to honest figures, Congress gave the farmers a farcical tariff, and increased the effective tariffs on many manufactured products, thus increasing the disparity between the farmers and the industrialists. According to experts, imported articles retailed in this country are five times the foreign factory prices. This is the privilege enjoyed by domestic producers. It is the graft in the tariff over and above honest protection.

For illustration: a good pocket knife costing 87 cents in England, carries a duty of 110 per cent, and with costs of transportation and this duty, with profits added on all charges, it retails in America at $4.50; a linen summer gown with 30 cents worth of embroidery on it, costing in Paris $4.50, must retail for $20 here, because the duty is 90 per cent and the profits on all charges are included in the retail price; a standard bell-top alarm clock, used generally by people of small means, costs 40 cents in Germany; the duty is 35 cents plus 65 per cent, or 81 cents altogether, and when the profits are added it equals 200 per cent and the American consumer pays twice the 81-cent tariff tax for the imported article. When this article comes to the retail counter, with the costs and profits to the retailer added, the price is $2.40, or six times the foreign factory price. The domestic manufacturer of clocks, no matter what his product costs, can without fear of competition make a fictitious price for it.

To show how dishonest the tariff is, the Government's collections are exceedingly small compared with the profits of protected manufacturers. For each dollar the Government collects on steel imports, six large steel manufacturers collect $50, or a total of $300,000,000. Aluminum makers collect $91, or a total of $24,000,000. Electrical machinery collects $468. Hardware collects $1726. Sewing machines are permitted to collect $71. The profits on account of the tariff on 16 highly finished steel products were about $1,029,000,000. If only half of the tariff allowances were added to the prices of general merchandise for retail stores, the cost to consumers would be $5,000,000,000 annually. The tariff of 1922-29 is estimated to have cost the struggling farmers in excess prices about $10,000,000,000. It was under these excessive dishonest tariffs that the great corporations made billions, distributed through cash and stock dividends, and thus vastly increased the number of millionaires and billionaires at the expense of the masses.

These profits made through robber tariffs are staggering. The farmers and the masses of the people are paying heavily for them now. The profiteers who reveled in the excesses of their tariff-made prosperity are now paying in the loss of markets. The dishonest tariff policy has not only caused unmeasured suffering, but has given us the most difficult economic problem we have yet had to solve. The ultimate solution lies with the American people, who can force an equitable readjustment through the ballot. Until that readjustment is made, we shall have what we have now—business stagnation and starvation in the midst of plenty.

WHEN UNBELIEVERS TESTIFY.

In the theory of the common law, a believer always tells the truth when on his deathbed or when duly sworn in court, but the utterances of an atheist or agnostic at those solemn moments are not to be trusted. There have been many court decisions to this effect. In numerous states, unbelievers are unacceptable as witnesses; in others, their credibility may be impeached. Missouri is one of the enlightened states granting freedom of opinion to witnesses.

The Alabama Court of Appeals followed precedent two months ago in reversing the conviction of Mrs. Laura Wright, Negro, for killing her husband. She was accused in the man's dying statement, but he was an atheist and the court ruled: "Without a belief in a Supreme Being, there can be no legal oath, and without a legal oath, a witness is not competent to testify in the courts of Alabama." It is heartening to learn that the court now has reconsidered its decision, and offers these words to reverse its previous attitude: "The civil rights, privileges and capacities of any citizens shall not be, in any manner, affected by his religious belief."

The barring of unbelievers as witnesses has been attacked on the ground of conflict with the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution, in which it is forbidden for any state to "deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." Granting virtual immunity, as is the frequent practice, to persons who rob or murder unbelievers, obviously deprives these skeptics of the legal protection theoretically extended to all citizens. The frequency of perjury points out that the formal oath as administered in our courts is no guarantee that truthful testimony will be the result. Alabama's court has shown the way to a reform needed in many of the states.

WILSON AND HARDING.

The citizen who hates sham and hypocrisy in the press and government alike will find much to hearten him in the newspaper comment on the dedication of the Harding tomb. The day-by-day historians are putting the twenty-ninth President of the United States in his proper place. Among the many discriminating estimations, some of which are quoted on this page, the one from the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman stands out. It takes the occasion of the dedication of the $800,000 marble mausoleum at Marion as an opportunity to contrast the manner in which the name and memory of Woodrow Wilson has been treated by the country. Says the Oklahoman:

> There was no scandal in the days of Woodrow Wilson. The natural resources of the nation escaped the hand of pillage when the sage of Princeton stood guard. Money voted to soothe the hurt of stricken soldiers and smooth their dying pillows was not stolen by a Wilson appointee. Theft, bribery and downright larceny shunned the corridors of the Capitol. The most merciless investigation ever staged upon this continent failed to reveal one fact of guilt and accusing tongues were silenced by a blameless record. Whatever record leaped to light his name could not be shamed.

Yet Woodrow Wilson, as the Oklahoman with timeliness points out, has no national memorial, either built by his country or his countrymen. The grave at St. Alban's is a private grave without a national marker. Two Presidents pay honor at the tomb of the man who appointed Fall, Daugherty, Miller and Forbes; we ignore the resting place of the man who gave the world the League of Nations.

But there is no hurry. As time passes, his historical stature grows. Time is the true judge of us all.

A MASTER PRINTER.

The name of William Edwin Rudge was familiar to comparatively few, but those who knew his work recognized him as a creative workman who stood at the head of his craft. He was a master printer who devoted himself to making beautiful books. From his shop in Mount Vernon, N. Y., issued many a volume now in treasured collections. Fine productions of Joseph Pennell, Ford Madox Ford, Christopher Morley and dozens of others were his handiwork. His first edition of "A Testament of Beauty," by Robert Bridges, late poet laureate of England, is considered one of the achievements of modern printing. Gold medals and blue ribbons went to him regularly, and when the United States Government wanted a representative of American printing at the Paris International Arts Exposition in 1925, it was he who was selected. His death at 55 years takes an artist who painted in printer's ink with brushes of type on an easel that was the compositor's stone.

DR. WU RESIGNS.

Missouri's recent pleasant connection with Dr. Chao-Chu Wu makes his resignation as Chinese Minister to the United States all the more regrettable. This popular diplomat was the principal speaker at the University of Missouri journalism week this year and presented the two stone lions to the journalism school as a gift from the Chinese Government. He possesses a Missouri doctorate of laws bestowed by President Walter Williams. Those who came in contact with him at Columbia were impressed by his geniality and scholarliness. The son of a Chinese Minister to the United States, he marched as a high school student in McKinley's inaugural parade.

Now, after representing the Nanking Government since 1929, he has been forced to resign because of what he calls his Government's civil war policy. Out of sympathy with its foreign and domestic policies for some time, he said he could no longer continue in office when it became necessary for him to apply for export licenses for munitions ordered by China. Rather than participate in obtaining 20 airplanes, 16 tons of powder and other supplies which he thinks will be used against the rival Government at Canton, he left his post. Thus, China's devotion to internal strife has cost it its highly regarded representative in Washington. That his view will soon prevail in China is the hope of all who have its interests at heart.

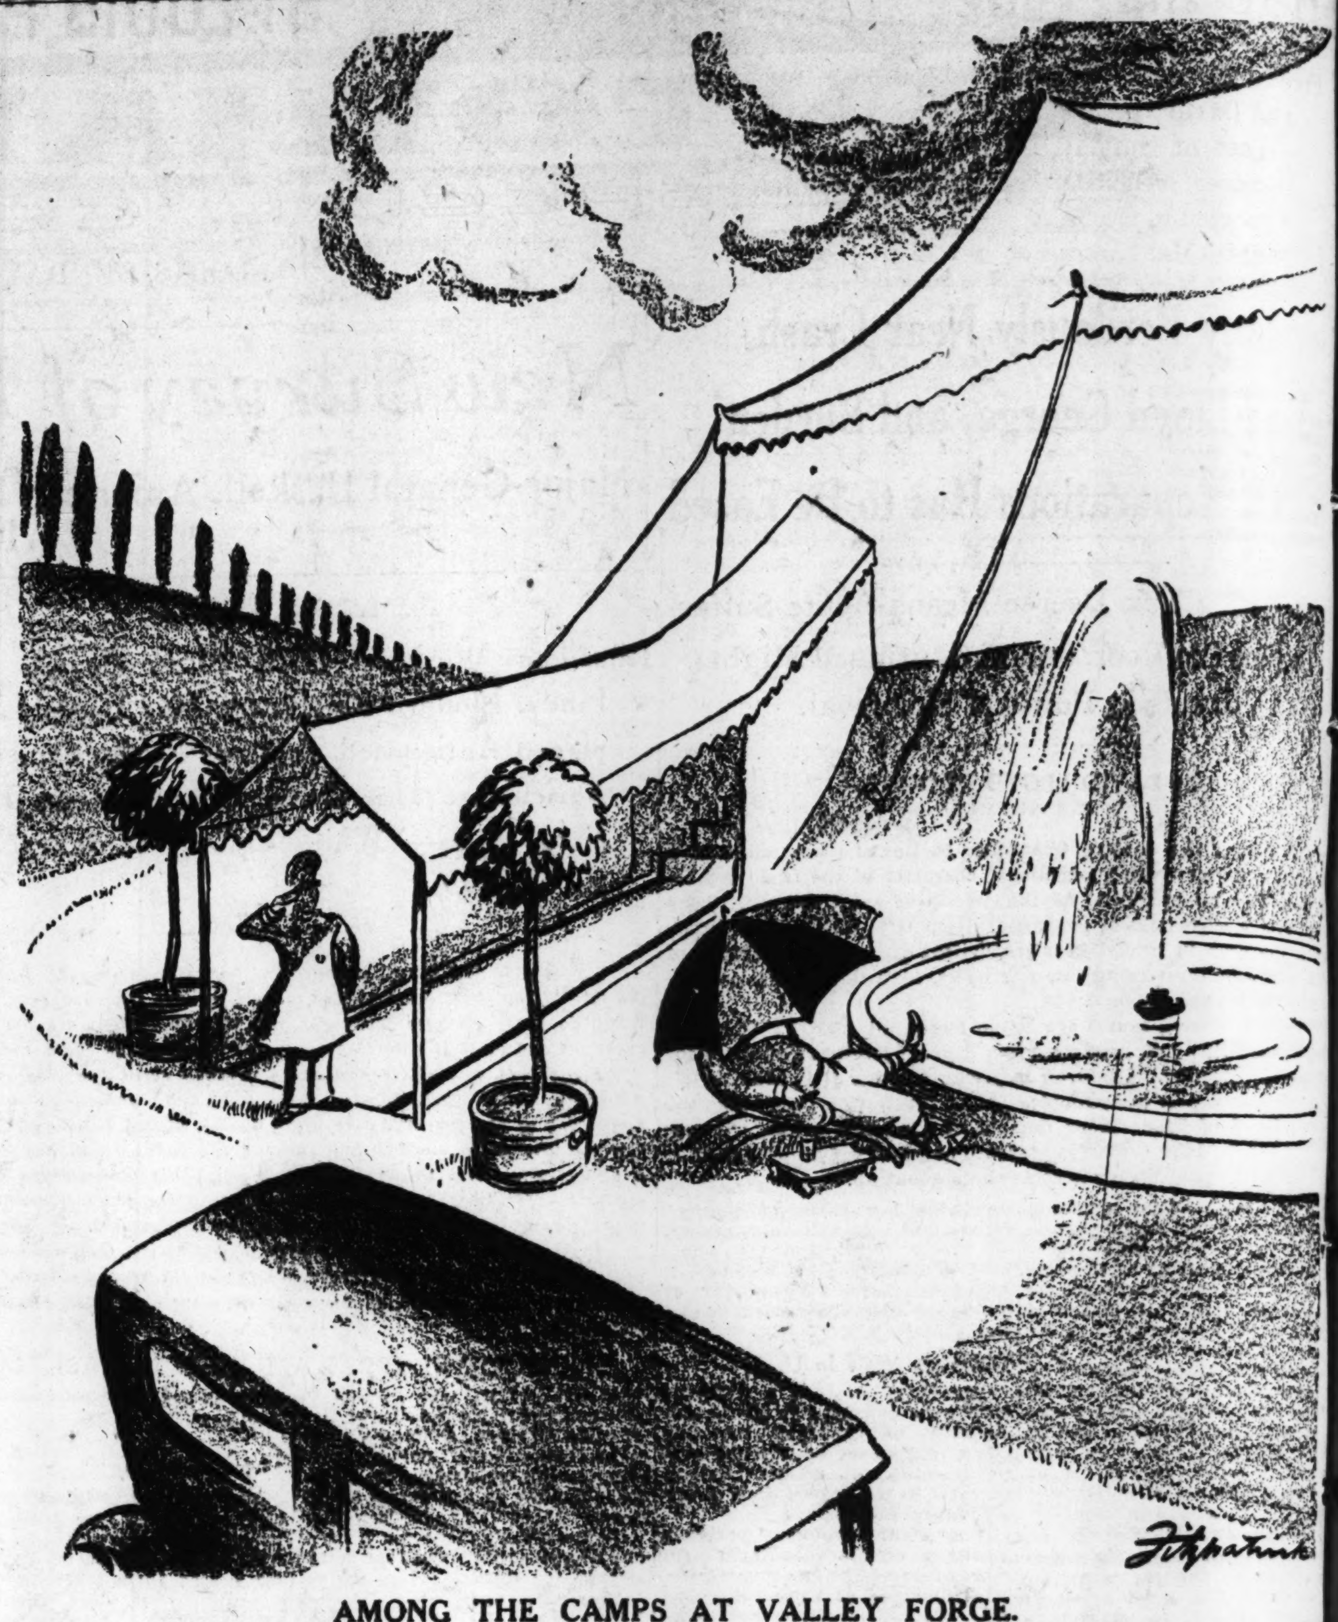
PROGRESS IN COLLEGE SPORT REFORM.

Something of a storm resulted in college athletic circles two years ago when the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching published its bulletin charging widespread subsidizing, recruiting and overemphasis on sports at educational institutions. The foundation's latest bulletin, just issued, notes a healthy turn of affairs, with a trend away from the Barnumizing of athletics and provision for participation of more students in competitive sports. The undergraduate is tiring of "big time" athletics, the report says. No longer does he respond with all his being to the exhortations at "pep meetings"; no longer is it a disgrace to work in a laboratory or play tennis while the team battles an ancient rival on the gridiron. This is by no means a lamentable lessening of college spirit; it is the development of a truer sense of values and a desire to partake in competition instead of looking on.

Alumni and outside interests no longer wield so powerful an influence on athletic policies, the investigators find. Intramural athletics and informal contests are increasing in importance. Funds are being directed from the training of a few men for outside competition to providing more fields for the student body. Indorsement of commercial products by athletes is more widely frowned upon. Many schools and conferences have taken steps to check recruiting and subsidizing, and by doing more than "merely announcing a new policy or modifying an old procedure." The coach is returning to his original status as director rather than dictator.

While there has been progress toward reform, all schools have not yet been purified, and the report admits that "the day may never come when our college sport will be completely freed from these abuses." It cites "a general uneasiness over college sport" before its first inquiry was made, and modestly disclaims full credit for the changes that have occurred. Nevertheless, its report offered the first comprehensive summary of the situation, and largely provoked the wide discussion. It helped shed light on an evil, and without light there can be no progress.



AMONG THE CAMPS AT VALLEY FORGE.

Press Views of Harding Tomb Addresses

Springfield (Mass.) Republican says it is unable to accept Coolidge and Hoover appraisals of Harding as President; New York Evening Post thinks Harding record should be allowed to sink in forgetfulness; Harvard Crimson deems ceremony hypocritical; Emporia Gazette praises Mr. Hoover for "wading into Ohio gang."

EULOGIES AT MARION.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

THE addresses by President Hoover and former President Coolidge in eulogy of the late President Harding were delivered at memorial exercises arranged for the dedication of a mausoleum. The Republican recognizes the requirements of good taste and propriety inherent in such an occasion; it would very much prefer to be silent concerning the estimates of the twenty-ninth President expressed by the thirtieth and thirty-first Presidents. Yet it seems necessary, in view of all the facts, to say without the least malice that this paper is unable to accept their high appraisal of the character and public service of Warren Gamaliel Harding as President of the United States.

From the New York Evening Post.

WE ARE distinctly sorry that his foolish friends forced the country to this re-examination of a President whose record should be allowed to sink into forgetfulness.

From the Baltimore Sun.

FOR former President Coolidge the scandals of the Harding administration simply did not exist. He simply reviewed those portions of the record that seemed to him agreeable, and let the rest slide. By any standard of intellectual honesty, Mr. Hoover's statement was infinitely more creditable. But one cannot help wondering what the boys in the inner sanctum of the Union League Club would say. One suspects they would opine that Mr. Coolidge is the "true leader."

AN OCCASION WITH A MORAL.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

THE high moral of the occasion is the warning that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty"—but not of liberty alone; it is the price also of the integrity and honesty of all public servitors and administrators of government of the people.

From the New York Times.

THIS was unquestionably a painful duty for Mr. Hoover, but it was one which he could not shirk at a time when the widespread concern over crime in this country embraces anxiety about official integrity. What Mr. Hoover felt compelled to say, as discreetly and delicately as possible, may not be liked in Ohio, but will be felt by the rest of the country to have been a word fitly spoken.

From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S record will inevitably be affected by what Fall and Daugherty did to the country. His responsibility for them and for the consequences of their acts cannot be denied by his friends. It is part of the record.

VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

From the Chicago Daily News.

PRESIDENT HOOVER and former President Coolidge acquitted themselves with notable success of a rather difficult and delicate task. Mr. Harding was a victim of circumstances, and he had the defects of his lovable qualities. The American people will remember him for the good work he performed or initiated, not for his tragic failures.

A TARDY EXAMPLE.

From the Portland (Ore.) Evening News.

FOR the establishment of an example and of standards, it is to be regretted that President Hoover's condemnation was not voiced at the time when the thieveries of some of his, as well as the late President's associates in the Cabinet were discovered and brought to light by members of the United States Senate. "He gives twice who gives quickly," applies as much to moral indignation and to the enunciation of principles, as it does to the giving of material things.

From the New York Herald Tribune.

IN HIS capacity as President, and as one who served in the Harding Cabinet, Mr. Hoover is uniquely fitted to pass a verdict which future historians cannot ignore. This he has done. He neither ignored nor minimized the unconscionable acts of the Harding courtiers.

From the Philadelphia Record.

HOOVER, standing for re-election, denounced traitors who disgraced Harding. Coolidge, retired, owing his country a debt for the highest honor it can bestow, "chose" to deliver briefly a trite, conventional eulogy—which should help his countrymen to decide whether Coolidge reticence cloaks great character and capacity or a vacuum.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CUSTOM dictates that a President's tomb shall be dedicated by the President. What might have been a difficult, delicate task, in view of the scandals of the Harding regime, is made simple and handled adequately by a chief executive who knows how not to say too much.

LAST DEGREE OF HYPOCRISY.

From the Harvard Crimson.

TO A YOUNGER and perhaps a more candid generation, such a ceremony seems the last degree of hypocrisy. Before the nation and the world, the subject of these eulogies has been revealed as one of the most mediocre specimens that ever graced the White House, and as a product of the worst sort of machine politics.

From the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

AT MARION, the President took off his gloves. He waded into the Ohio gang and he did it in Ohio, in Harding's own town. He had a hard task, and he did it well. He deserves the highest praise of the American people for his courage at Harding's tomb.

From the Washington Evening Star.

THE malodorous aspect of the Harding administration will not have been in vain, if men are reminded by it that public office is indeed a public trust, and that history will have no mercy upon the name and fame of him who defiles that highest of responsibilities.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 21.

PERSONS who want to know the age o an antique hat rack, the origin of architecture in Southern Ohio, or the name o the man who invented tintypes, write to th Fine Arts Division of the Library of Co gress. Dr. Leicester B. Holland, head o the division, listed a few of the question and inquiries received by his section: Wh are the artists of pictures on calendars? Please send me pictures of perpetual motion machine models. Can I get a photostat of the printing mark of a seventeenth century Spanish printer? Who are th architects of the Government buildings i Washington, and when were they construct ed?

Although most of the questions are a swered by Dr. Holland and his staff, so requests are beyond all reason. Dr. Ho land exhibited a letter asking for a biblio raphy of French and English books architecture. "That would involve the com pilation of more than 1000 titles," he r marked. "Fortunately, we can recommen the inquirer to a company which publishe catalogues of such things."

A WOMAN recently requested Dr. Hollan to locate a certain picture of Psych which she described in detail, although sh could not recall where she had seen it. Aft er considerable research, he discovered tha the Psyche she had in mind was part of ginger ale advertisement, but he never coul get the woman to admit it. Further con scientious research failed to reveal any rep resentation of Psyche which nearly corre sponded to the commercial portrayal.

Dr. Holland's most difficult duty is tell ing people that their most cherished posse sions are practically worthless. He is call upon to evaluate numberless articles, ran ing from a copy of Rembrandt to an ol china plate. Often the owners have clun to these things and after being forced b monetary need to the decision to sell them they must be told that they are valueles

Many people erroneously assume the li brary has a great deal of literature fo distribution, an idea that probably is in spired by the Government department generosity in such matters. They cannot s why a Government that provides bookl on the feeding of livestock should not se them treatises on interior decoration China and Japan.

THE Division of Fine Arts grew out the Department of Prints. Besides magnificent collection of prints which ca to the library through process of copyrig and which were once thought valueless, t division has extremely valuable engravin and etchings which were acquired by the brary or donated by private individua

Dr. Holland's special interest right no is the collection of photograph negatives early American architecture, which he placing in a section called Pictorial Archiv of Early American Architecture. Unle this is done, he explains, all records such architecture will disappear entirel Historical and photographing societies hav been appealed to, and already the divisi has acquired more than 2000 negative Some individuals have provided in the wills for their pet collections of architec tural prints to be transferred to the librar

Katherine McIntyre, who is program director for KMOX, will cooperate in making the school of practical value to KMOX and its listeners.

Bellew, who studied music in New York and Paris, is widely known. He was an officer in the army in the World War.

The Metropolitan Opera, last of this country's great musical organizations to hold out against radio, is expected to permit broadcasting of its performances next year. M. H. While most of the Metropolitan's singers have broadcast, the directors of the opera have unqualifiedly disapproved of broadcasting performances from its stage. "About $1,000,000" was paid for a "three-year leasehold on WENR," the 50,000-watt Chicago station, by the National Broadcasting Co., according to the latter's president, M. H. Aylesworth. At the end of the three years the station is to become the property of the NBC without further payment. WENR has half time on its channel with WLS, which uses its transmitter in return for permitting the NBC to manage its night programs. The NBC too kover WENR from a subsidiary of the Samuel Insull public utility interests. It paid about the same price for WEAF, New York, key station of its Red chain, to the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. four years ago.

John McCormick, Geraldine Farrar, Anna Case, Marian Talley and Cyrena Van Gordon have been engaged for four weekly broadcasts over the NBC's WJZ chain, presumably including KWK. Miss Farrar is to sing in the opening broadcast Monday night, June 29. Miss Case and Miss Van Gordon are scheduled for the night of July 2. Marian Talley is to sing July 13 and McCormick is to conclude the series on July 20 with a recital from Los Angeles. The others will sing in the New York studios of the NBC.

General reception of short wave broadcasts from Europe between 7 and 10 o'clock at night is regarded as more than a possibility, because of a statement made by Sir John Reith, director of the British Broadcasting Corporation. Sir John told interviewers—and repeated his statement at a meeting of the National Radio Editors' Association at Chicago—that there was serious consideration of a project to broadcast special programs from England so that they could be received in this country in the evening. A more powerful transmitter will replace 5CSW at Chelmsford, England. At present the United States short-wave enthusiasts must tune in European broadcasts in the afternoon or not at all. Development of powerful and reliable short-wave receivers and inauguration of such a schedule of broadcasts from England, would create a large market for short-wave sets, it is believed. PCJ, a short-wave station in Holland, and the great Koeningwuesterhausen station in Germany, have experimented with such special broadcasting for American listeners and report excellent results.

Maurice Baron, a Frenchman who was a cowboy in Western Canada some 20 years ago, and now is assistant conductor for the Roxy Theater in New York, has been appointed conductor of the Roxy Symphony Orchestra to succeed Erno Rapee, who resigned to become director of music for the NBC. Baron at one time was a violinist in the Seattle and San Francisco Symphony orchestras. He has composed more than 200 pieces for piano, orchestra and voices. In its concert over WENR, WLW, KFAB, WSM and WJZ at 5:45 tomorrow evening, the Roxy orchestra will be led by Baron in playing Cecar Francke's D-minor Symphony.

Two promising concerts are to be broadcast by WLW this week. One, at 9:30 tomorrow night, will bring music by Ipolitoff-Ivanoff, Rachmaninoff, Cui, Mousourgsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff and Borodin. The other is set for 10 to 11 o'clock Thursday night. The program will include Cadman's "Omar Khayyam" suite, two parts of Friml's "Chinese" suite, and music by Toselli, Kreisler, Massenet and Strauss.

About 40,000 schools in this country are equipped to receive radio programs, according to W. O. Bagley Jr. of the American School of the Air. Speaking before the Institute for Education by Radio, at Columbus, O., Bagley said 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 school children could make use of radio to supplement their regular classroom work. Progress in educational radio he described as "satisfactory to even the most ardent proponent of radio as an educational medium." Radio may serve to some extent as a super teacher, he said, but cannot replace the classroom teacher. He saw no valid reason why educational programs should not be sponsored by commercial institutions.

WMAY, St. Louis, which is assigned to 1200 kilocycles with WIL and KFWF, has lost in its effort to get a better assignment. The Radio Commission denied its plea for 100 watts power at night and 250 watts daytime on 1500 kc.

Trade Notes

Dealers See New Philco Sets.

New Philco superheterodyne receivers, including three Baby Grand midget sets, were shown to dealers at a meeting and banquet at Hotel Chase Tuesday at which the Artophone Corporation, local distributer, was host. A new model is the "Lazyboy," about the size and height of an end table, designed to be placed alongside an easy chair. The controls are in the top of the set, recessed so that the top may be used as a table.

There are three new Philco chassis—one with 11 tubes and push-pull audio, another with nine tubes and push-pull audio, and yet another with seven tubes and a pentode power tube in the final stage. The powerful 11-tube sets and the "Lazyboy" come in cabinets by Norman Bel Geddes, a famous designer. All the new receivers have tone control, and the 11-tube models have automatic volume control.

The 11-tube line includes a radio-phonograph combination which has a record changer holding ten 10-inch or 12-inch records. The nine-tube chassis is used in "super Baby Grand," a highboy and a lowboy. The seven-tube line includes a very low-priced radio-phonograph as well as a Baby Grand model and a highboy.

In addition to the AC models, there are Philco Baby Grand and lowboy DC receivers, an eight-tube battery-operated receiver and the Philco Transitone automobile set.

There were some 300 dealers at the banquet in the evening. Edwin Schiele, president of the Artophone Corporation, opened the meeting following the dinner, and introduced Herbert S. Schiele, vice president, as toastmaster. S. O. Taylor, district sales manager for Philco, discussed the company's advertising and merchandising policies. J. C. Clinkenbeard of the Artophone Corporation explained details of the new receivers. Ray C. Layer, general sales manager for the Artophone Corporation, close the meeting with a review of merchandising policies and plans.

Short Wave and Television Set.

Wood & Anderson, Syndicate Trust Building, have been appointed factory representative for the Baird short wave and television kits and receivers made by the Shortwave and Television Corporation of Boston. The Baird receiver may be used for ordinary short wave reception and for receiving regular broadcasting stations up to 520 kilocycles, as well as for television. It has an audio amplifier designed to pass up to 40,000 cycles.

Sprague Home Talkie Machine.

Otto E. Heilmann, Syndicate Trust Building, has been appointed factory representative for the Sprague Visivox home talkie machine, and the Electric Lamp & Supply Co., distributer. The Visivox is a complete talking moving picture projector in a walnut cabinet. It also can be used as a projector of silent movies or as a phonograph. The Sprague Co. has invested $300,000 in a rental library of talkie films, which are available to owners of Visivox machines, and Hollywood producers are making 16 mm. films of popular talkies with synchronized records.

Jenkins Television Sets.

The Van Ashe Radio Co. has been named distributer of the Jenkins television sets, kits and parts. It will maintain a complete stock and assist experimenters and other users of television apparatus. The firm has appointed C. R. Tester, formerly territory representative for E. T. Cunningham, Inc., as South St. Louis sales representative. James Broadwell has been made manager of the wholesale display rooms and city counter.

The Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co., a unit of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation and the only big competitor of the Rario Corporation of America in the radio communication field, is going into the receiver manufacturing business. The company has acquired a controlling interest in the Kolster Radio Corporation.

The plan is to revive the bankrupt Kolster concern as Kolster Radio, Inc., and to take over its trade marks, patents and plants to manufacture a new line of radio sets. Dr. Frederick Kolster, the inventor, is expected to continue as its chief engineer.

Radio Trade Meeting On Wednesday Night

The final general meeting of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association for the summer will be held at 8 o'clock next Wednesday night at Hotel Kingsway.

Plans for the September radio show will be discussed. An address from the dealers and jobbers' viewpoint on radio merchandising will be delivered by S. B. Renshaw, a nationally recognized authority on sales.

How Much Russia Has Changed in 5 Years

the faith into millions of homes, while the clubs and institutions and factories keep the Socialist doctrines ever before the workers through speeches, posters and pamphlets. Even the theaters and the movies (and now the opera and ballet) are impressed into the service of beautifying communism.

Education is compulsory for all. That is an improvement over five years ago, when it was compulsory in theory but not in practice. All children are required to go for seven years to the primary schools, spending certain days each week in a factory, to which the school is assigned, for manual training. There is no longer discrimination in primary schools against the children of former bourgeois parents. It is still a bit easier in the colleges and unversities for children of workmen, but even that discrimination is passing. There are special schools for those showing talent in music and art. Much is being done for the elimination of illiteracy.

Almost every village and every factory has a club where people may congregate and chat, hear radio talks, play chess, put on plays, and have access to books and pamphlets; and, considering all that they formerly lacked, they are quite pleased with such advantages. Most of these clubs are crude affairs, with nothing in them which would appeal to American standards. Of course they are all propaganda centers preaching the gospel of communism.

A great change since five years ago is in the installation, popularity and influence of the radio. Everywhere in the cities one sees the antennae above the roofs of the houses, and as so many families live in each house it would appear that there were more radios than are to be found in American cities. The public squares are equipped with loud-speakers. In villages the club or the school, or some such building is equipped.

Many museums in the cities are open to the public, and guides take groups of visitors, school children, and others, explaining everything as they go. The art galleries and old museums are interesting. The Museum of the Revolution in Moscow is a collection of misinformation, and the antireligious museums I found thoroughly disgusting.

Status of Religion.

Religion is by no means dead in Russia, although every weapon has been employed by the Government to destroy it. The most scurrilous posters ridiculing religion are circulated, and many of the churches have been taken over for other purposes, such as workers' clubs and anti-religious museums.

A certain number of churches are functioning as houses of worship and are very much overcrowded. But it is only with the utmost difficulty that a church can exist, because of the great number of rules and regulations imposed upon it. The life of the priests is one of the hardest of all, but they are clinging to their missions even as did the martyrs of old.

The theater is employed in the campaign against religion and even the ballet has been employed in the attack. I saw a miserable show, with poor music, futuristic scenery and practically no dancing, which portrayed priests in drunken roles and burlesqued religious processions; but I noticed that there was a definite lack of applause, in contrast with the reception given one of the old performances.

The youth of Russia has to a certain extent succumbed to the ever-present drive against God. Communism is becoming the State religion. It is offered as something idealistic, something to replace Christianity, with Lenin as its god Lenin's busts and pictures cover Russia. His tomb is the holy of holies; thousands pass through it daily in apparent awe and reverence.

The Terror Keeps Busy.

The Terror is omnipresent and has changed little, if any, during the last few years. It is a function of the government without which, many claim, neither the revolution nor the Five-Year Plan could possibly succeed. By it the government discourages opposition to its programs, stifles incipient counter-revolution and prevents sabotage. It keeps unsympathetic workmen from dropping wrenches into the machinery, engineers from faulty designing and farmers from resisting collectivization (though it is not being invoked against the last-named at the moment). No one is able to tell who is a spy or informer today any more easily that he could at any time during the last 10 years—or, for that matter, during the last fifty.

I observed a distinct change for the better with regard to the remnants of what was once the bourgeoisie. About a year or more ago, the Terror transferred its energies from the bourgeoise to the kulak, or "wealthy" peasant. As a matter of fact, the members of the bourgeoisie were already finished (or "liquidated," as the Russians say). Today they can work and eat and go their way more or less unmolested, provided, of course, that they live up to the rules set for them.

The kulak, however, still remains earmarked for elimination "as a class." His "crime" was that he got along fairly well, worked more intelligently, accumulated some livestock, a decent house and perhaps a little machinery. He would have been considered a poor wretch in the United States, but as his head lifted above the mass level it was cut off; he had capitalistic ideas.

Bulwark of the Army.

No one knows much about the Red army, except that it is well treated and that in the last analysis it is the mainstay of the present regime. It seems well equipped, well instructed, well disciplined and loyal to the will of the dictatorship. I saw part of it pass in review before its commander on May day in the Red Square under the walls of the Kremlin and heard it take the annual oath of fealty—one which sounded like a litany. The review was followed by processions of at least 500,000 civilians, including workers, delegates and members of innumerable clubs, "Pioneers" (communistic Boy Scouts) athletes, "Consomal" and others with banners. These took from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m to pass.

As I watched the troops march by, I was reminded of a similar demonstration which took place several years ago on the same date and in the same place. Then there were but four motor vehicles in the review, whereas this year there were more than 400, including light and heavy tanks, anti-aircraft artillery, scout cars and tractor-drawn artillery units. Then there was a lack of confidence; now an aggressive spirit was evident. Then there were no airplanes; now large planes flew overhead, while smaller craft stunted continuously.

The strength of the Red Army has been variously estimated at between 700,000 and 1,000,000 men. It looks more effective than it did five years ago. On its loyalty and that of the GPU (secret police) depends the continuance of the dictatorship, and the leaders know it better than any one else. Since 1919, when first I cabled Paris from Tiflis that the Soviet Government was strongly seated in the saddle, I have maintained that the overthrow of the Government by violence from within or without was unlikely, but that Russia would change through evolution. The passage of 12 years has justified that prophecy, which was made on the assumption that the Red Army could be kept loyal.

What Lies Ahead.

There seems to be an abiding belief in the future and a feeling that the present sacrifices are but temporary. Many workmen told me that they were content to go through with the present sacrifices because they believed that the factories and plants belonged to them, that they were working for themselves and that the future was secure.

Will the people continue the sacrifice? Is there a breaking point? There may be, but it will not be reached, because the present Government has its finger constantly on the pulse of the people and it knows exactly how far it can go. Should it become necessary, the pressure will be relaxed sufficiently to forestall resistance.

Furthermore, there is a fanaticism for industrialization among a great proportion of the people, who see in the present program a victory for Russia over backwardness and who are willing to suffer now now to achieve a better future. This is particularly true of the workman. Nor must one believe that, because butter, meat, cheese and eggs are now very limited, people are starving. Bread has always been the principal article of Russian ration, and there is no shortage of that.

It must be borne in mind that this dictatorship, like all others, rests on military force. If the army decides some day to revolt (which is most unlikely), the present regime would not last more than 24 hours. But what would take its place?

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS GERMAN REPARATIONS HAVE TO BE EASED

in the 12 months starting March 1, 1931, no less than 1,658,000 marks. Her exportable surplus would total a little more than half of this, leaving 771.5 million as a deficit on her reparations payment.

It should be added that the world fall in prices has increased the real value of the amounts she is due to pay under the Young plan and thus made a concealed addition to the amount of the debt which was thereby laid upon her as the maximum amount she could hope to liquidate.

The German price index, if 1928 be taken as 100, had fallen by April, 1931, to 34.3. This means that the present year's payment of 1658 million marks is equivalent to 1998.4 million. At 1928 value, an increase of 313.4 million, or as much as the exportable surplus she had accumulated in the first four months of this year.

"Economically Starved."

Meantime the reduction of German imports, including imports of raw material for manufacture and ultimate consumption at home, indicates that the German people are being economically starved. Just as the limit of borrowing to meet reparation charges has already been reached and passed, so must the limit before long be reached of internal starvation, social and economic, for the maintenance of an export surplus by reduction of home consumption.

The efforts of the German Government to meet the situation thus outlined are exemplified by the emergency decree published on June 4, which is estimated to produce about 1800 million marks by the expedient of a special graduated tax on wages and salaries; a cut in the salaries of Government officials; an increase in certain commodity taxes; reduction of unemployment benefit and of the pensions to war invalids.

The effects of this decree will clearly involve acute suffering and hardship to large numbers of the poorest in Germany and it is obvious that it will strengthen the support of the people for any move of a desperate character if the war debts problems should prove insoluble. The danger would appear to be of a violent Nationalist movement, accompanied by a swing of the workers and the younger intellectuals toward Communism and a close association for mutual defense with Russia.

The loss to Europe and European civilization of a nation with the culture and efficiency of Germany would be so serious that it is clearly the duty of all countries to review with the utmost consideration and good will the problem of reparations and war debts which is being raised afresh by the economic situation above outlined.

Heads Illinois Job Bureau.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 20.—Among appointments made by Gov. Emmerson late yesterday and confirmed by the Senate in its closing session was that of Frank Jordan of East St. Louis, named chairman of the advisory board of the free employment office, conducted at East St. Louis by the State Department of Labor.

SHIPPING BOARD CONSIDERS PLAN TO FINANCE U. S. LINES

Would Advance Funds to Carry Through Depression and Prevent Liners' Return.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Shipping Board officials are considering several alternative suggestions for helping the United States Lines weather the depression so that the ships of the lines will not have to be taken back by the board.

An appeal from the Munson Line, operating ships in the South American, Caribbean and inter-coastal traffic, for an extension of notes on four vessels bought in 1925 also is before the board.

A plan suggested as a possible way out of the United States Lines' situation was that the line turn back the four largest ships it operates in the North Atlantic, the Leviathan, George Washington, America and Republic, and that the board in turn negotiate a lump sum agreement with the line for operation as at present. The big difficulty in the eyes of the Shipping board is that it has no money with which to make the lump sum payment, estimated at $1,000,000 a year. Shipping Board and merchant fleet corporation appropriations, growing smaller each year as more ships are disposed of, are only $2,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

'Nina Rosa' With Old Stars

Last Summer's Most Successful Offering by Municipal Opera Brings Guy Robertson and Leonard Ceeley Back To the Cast on Park Stage Tomorrow Night—Revival Of "Rose Marie" to Follow as Season's Fifth Show.

GUY ROBERTSON and Leonard Ceeley, two of the greatest favorites Municipal Opera has ever known, return to the stage in Forest Park tomorrow evening when "Nina Rosa" will be presented as the fourth attraction of the current opera cycle. "Music in May" comes to an end with the performance which begins tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

"Nina Rosa" opened Municipal Opera's 1930 season to establish new attendance records for the theater and New York did not see the piece until last fall when Robertson and Ceeley headed the cast in one of the Broadway musical successes of the season. Besides Robertson and Ceeley the cast this week includes Gladys Baxter, Greta Alpeter, Hal Forde, Archie Leach, Jack Sheehan and Doris Patston, who play their original Broadway roles, and Palmere Brandeaux and Doree Daudet in dancing parts.

The music for "Nina Rosa" is by Sigmund Romberg, composer of "May Time," "Blue Paradise," "My Maryland," "Blossom Time," "The Student Prince," "The New Moon," and "The Desert Song." The work, it will be recalled, is replete with fascinating melodies presented in piquant rhythmic dress, among them being "Nina Rosa," "The Serenade of Love," "Your Smiles, Your Tears," "A Kiss I Must Refuse," the "Gaucho Love Song," "My First Love, My Last Love," and many others.

Otto Harbach, who collaborated with Romberg also in "The Desert Song," and other operetta hits, provided the book for "Nina Rosa" and Irving Caesar wrote the lyrics. There is a genuinely romantic story told in rapid dramatic action to the accompaniment of Romberg's enchanting melodies.

NINA ROSA, as those who saw the play last summer will remember, is the daughter of a Spanish Don, who has discovered a mine, which, according to tradition, was once the source of the great wealth of Peru. Before her father could develop the property, it was wrested from him by Don Fernando, on the basis of a faked Spanish grant. The girl's father died and she was left in the care of an ancient Peruvian woman, Yana, whose half-breed son, Pablo, grew up to love the girl.

Don Fernando, rich, picturesque, and daring, had spent his early life among the hard riding, hard fighting gauchos of the Argentine pampas. He carried a taste of that life back to Peru and surrounded himself with a half-breed troup of those riders.

Meantime, an American syndicate having secured an option on the mines from Don Fernando, has sent Jack Haines into the country to prospect and survey the property. He has come to believe that Fernando's claim is a fictitious one, and that the property is really Nina Rosa's, whom he has learned to love. But, he has also become convinced that the property is worthless. He is about to advise his syndicate to throw up the option and is getting ready to go back home.

Meantime, Don Fernando learns that Jack's foreman has discovered gold in the old workings of the mine, and it is fabulously rich. Pablo is told the secret, and Nina Rosa works with him to learn it for he had planned to trail the American and kill him.

NINA ROSA follows Jack to town, where he has gone to cable the syndicate, and Pablo, who encounters her there, virtually makes her prisoner. He and Don Fernando determine to kill the American. but Jack plans to go back to the mine and claim Nina Rosa as his bride. But more than that, Don Fernando has heard that the American now knows the Nine Rosa mine is rightfully the girl's.

There is plot and counter-plot. Nina Rosa tries to save her lover, but Pablo kidnaps Jack and holds him prisoner. When Nina Rosa learns of this she persuades Pablo that Jack has insulted her, and claims as her right the privilege to wield the lash. Pablo discovers that her claim is only a ruse to have the man she loves and there ensues one of the most stirring hand-to hand battles Municipal Opera's stage has ever seen. Ultimately Jack and Nina Rosa make their escape. Again, Nina Rosa is recaptured by the gaucho, but she cleverly tricks Pablo into marrying another woman.

Meantime, Jack has managed to clear Nina Rosa's title to the mine. He asks her to let him manage it. Only, she says, "If as my husband you will undertake to manage me."

WITH Robertson and Ceeley in the roles which they created here last season the complete cast for "Nina Rosa" tomorrow night will be as follows:

Yana	Connie Graham
Bob Wilson	Robert Long
Silvers	Stephen Mills
Jimmie Blakely	Jack Sheehan
Don Fernando	Archie Leach
Pablo	Leonard Ceeley
Jack Haines	Guy Robertson
Nina Rosa Stradella	Gladys Baxter
John Craig	Hal Forde
Elinore Haines	Greta Alpeter
Cholo	Betty Hannon
Chico	Victor Cassmore
Gaucho Dancer	Palmer Brandeaux
Chiquita	Doree Daudet
Quitz	Dimples Reide
Dolores	Florence Boe

Immediately following "Nina Rosa," Municipal Opera will present a revival of "Rose Marie," with Guy Robertson in his original role of Jim, Leonard Ceeley, Gladys Baxter, Sybilla Bowhan, Doris Patston, Jack Sheehan and Hal Forde in the cast.

Back Among the Old Folks Once Again

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

MAYBE it was the hot weather or something we ate or perhaps we were just stupid but somehow we never quite found out what "The Maltese Falcon," at the Ambassador, was all about. There was, to be sure, a million dollar statuette of a blackbird—can blackbirds and maltese falcons be the same thing?—which had been stolen in China and Bebe Daniels and a lot of other people were trying to get it back but just what happened was never entirely clear. A good many of the men involved were killed from time to time in the picture, which was just as well, and the mystery ends, or rather comes to a full stop, with Bebe facing 20 years in the booby hatch when it should have been the author of the story going into retirement. However, Jack Haley is back on the Ambassador's stage and, as usual, he has a dandy act.

Almost Always.

ON the other hand an attempt to steal a big diamond is the background for a very pretty romance in "Always Goodbye" at the Fox which has the lovely Elissa Landi as its star. Elissa, who had exchanged her crumpets and tea—the plot is laid in England—for a mess of excitement and high living, was always on the verge of marrying somebody and then saying goodbye and dashing off somewhere else. In her thirst for adventure and her afternoon tea she consents to pose as the wife of a gentleman crook. She doesn't know he is a thief bent upon stealing Lewis Stone's jewels but when she finds it out she saves the valuables and wraps herself in Lewis' arms with no more goodbys in the immediate offing. It's a good picture and a look at Miss Landi is worth the price of admission alone.

IN "The Good Bad Girl," at the St. Louis, Mae Clarke is another dame who finds herself in a tough spot through her association with gangsters. Not quite as particular as the heroine of "Always Goodbye," Miss Clarke does a little more than just associate with Dan Tyler, a choke and shoot man in the big city, so that when she wants to go straight she finds the better people colder than organized charity and her past waiting for her on every corner. She marries James Hall, a good boy, and everything ends happily after her baby comes and her gangster friends are either shot or sent up the river for long visits in the big house. "The Good Bad Girl" is good entertainment if you want to know how both halves of the world live.

Framed.

THE most commendable thing about "The Vice Squad," at the Missouri, is the way it is played. Kay Francis, Paul Lukas, Helen Johnson and Rockeliffe Fellowes make a great quartette and you are almost able to forget how preposterous the story is while you watch them act. The title of the film tells the story which shows how New York policemen use foreign diplomats to frame innocent girls on charges which, for picture purposes, have been toned down to vagrancy. The other feature at the Missouri is all about the wild son of a railroad president who decides to reform and goes to work as a mechanic, working his way up to a place where he can look his old man and the rest of the world in the face.

Settling Down, and Up.

HOW buying a big automobile instead of a baby carriage can wreck the happiness of a small salaried married man is very pleasantly told in "Six Cylinder Love" down at Loew's. You see Lorin Raker and Sidney Fox were newlyweds who listened to the highbrowed talk of a car salesman and ran into debt and most everything else before they discovered that keeping up appearances on practically nothing a week was hardly worth while. William Collier Sr., one of the very best actors on the screen, contributes a lot of fun as an older husband who found out the same thing and the picture is excellent warm weather entertainment.

Back on the Coast.

Maurine Watkins, author of the stage play, "Chicago," and of the screen play, "Up the River," is back in Hollywood from a trip to the Middle West. While there she bought a farm in Indiana and wrote a play.

Uncle Tom Coming Back Next Season

After 75 years on the road, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was believed to have run itself out last season. But Clarence Jackson, who has played the part of Simon Legree for 47 years, says he understands there will be at least three "Tom Shows" on the road in the United States next winter.

Jackson has played his role of the brutal planter before audiences in every section of the country. "I have beaten poor old Uncle Tom before every kind of audience, and they seem to hate it still, although they don't get as excited as they once did," he says.

German Picture at Hebrew Y Tonight

The German film version of "Die Meistersinger," made by Ufa, will open the summer roof garden season of the Film Guild of the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. tonight at 8:30. "Die Meistersinger," which will have its premier in St. Louis, has been played in the East.

Doris Kenyon Cast.

Doris Kenyon's comeback on the screen has led to her being cast with William Powell in "The Co-respondent," which is to be Powell's first starring vehicle under his new contract with Warner Brothers.

Back in the Open Spaces.

Gary Cooper again "rolls his own" in "I Take This Woman," in which he will be featured with Carole Lombard. Cooper's role of a Western rancher requires him to smoke the traditional self-made cigarettes of the cattle country.

Arranging Concerts Of Chamber Music

Three chamber music concerts devoted entirely to modern music will be given in St. Louis next year by a group of first-stand players from the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra headed by Max Steindel. The concerts will be given on the evenings of Nov. 22, Jan. 10 and Feb. 7. Announcement of the place where the concerts are to be held, together with the programs, will be made later.

Jack Bigelow seems to have become a fixture at Forest Park Highlands as he and his 12 girl entertainers are being held over another week, as the feature of the free vaudeville presented every afternoon and evening in the Pagoda. This marks Bigelow's fifth week at the Highlands, since the opening of the season, May 2. In his new act, beginning today, Bigelow will feature two of his sisters, Josephine, trick drummer, and Virginia, a dancer.

Artist Turns Actor.

Henry Clive, well-known magazine-cover artist, is illustrating his versatility on the RKO Pathe lot. He was recently engaged as a technical adviser on the art colony sequences in Constance Bennett's new production, "The Common Law." Now he is portraying an important role in "That's News to Me," a newspaper comedy starring Frank McHugh.

Operetta in the Last Trench

By GUY ROBERTSON
Municipal Opera Star.

IT isn't alone because of the audience that I rejoice in being back in St. Louis. It is because of operetta. I hate to confess it, for my life on the stage has been devoted to light opera and operetta, but in St. Louis that form of entertainment is fighting its last stand, its last battle.

In New York last season I saw, what I fear is the handwriting on the wall. I saw it again in Boston, in Philadelphia, in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago. "The trend" as the advertising agents say, is away from operetta. It is a question of economics. The producers are not interested in venturing the large sums necessary for their production. Costs on the one hand, on the other the inability of the public to pay the high prices which are enforced to get a return upon the investment. Cold business. But a cold fact.

Today the producer wants a play with three stage settings, with a company of eight or nine people, and—if there is any music at all—a few songs which fit exactly into the action of the piece. No lavish costuming, no splendor of settings, no great choruses to carry and to garb.

In all its history through the ages the form of the play has been conditioned by the physical theater, as affected by the economic situation of the time. Those were factors in the dramatic art of Greece. They were factors in the theater of Shakespeare. They are just as active in the theater today.

WHILE those cost factors are in a way determining the type of entertainment the physical size of the theaters is also effective in fixing the trend. The legitimate theater is feeling the result of the vogue for the small, the intimate theater which was the fashion a few years ago.

No other city has the opportunity St. Louis has in its Municipal theater. You still can produce operetta and opera here because you have a theater which will seat enough people at a $2 "top" to pay for the most artistic, most finished production. That theater in 12 seasons, has been developing physical resources particularly to the end of operetta production.

So it seems to me that in St. Louis operetta is fighting its last stand. And I don't believe it is a losing fight.

For St. Louis has shown the world something unique in the magnitude and beauty of its production, in the brilliance of the casts, in the splendor of the orchestra and choral settings which it provides for those casts in the exceptional fine repertories it offers each season.

With no capital but civic spirit and an appreciation of the fine things of the theater, the Municipal Theater Association has accomplished something here that has attracted international attention, has developed to such importance that the foremost musical producer in the country—J. J. Shubert—can afford to become its general productions manager.

BACK of it all, of course, is the fact that the people of St. Louis want operetta. The old traditions of the city in music and drama find their expression in and provide a splendid appreciation of the beauty of that art form.

The people of St. Louis are not alone in the appreciation of operetta. The success of "Nina Rosa" on Broadway and elsewhere showed that. The revivals in New York reaffirm the fact. But economics and the physical theater control the situation elsewhere.

So, as I say, here is operetta in "the last trench." But I don't think it is a losing fight. Operetta, given such productions as St. Louis provides cannot help win back its prestige. It may mean a reorganization in the theater. It may mean that theaters like that in Forest Park must be established by other municipalities, but I can't believe that the art of operetta will die.

I have heard Municipal Opera praised to the skies by discriminating judges, I have read wonderful appreciations from pens far more able than mine.

Yet may not I, whose whole career has been upon the operetta stage, pay to it my humble tribute?

Everybody's Writing Now

The Story of P. G. Wodehouse and His Easily Made $104,000 Seems to Have Started Hollywood Upon a Wild Spree of Turning Out Scenarios—The Rise of Elissa Landi, Who Can Really Write, to a Place In the Sun—Vaudeville Beckons the Old Timers.

HOLLYWOOD, if the publicity gentlemen are to be believed, is all agog, or at least all a-twit, over a tall, auburn-haired girl whose eyes are green didn't expect to find herself in California, U. S. A., when she went on the stage in England to obtain material to write.

Her name is Elissa Landi and St. Louis film fans are seeing her for the second time in "Always Good Bye" out at the Fox Theater this week. A short time ago she was seen at the same theater in "Body and Soul" and proved to be very attractive and almost the riot proclaimed by the extensive heralding sent out from Flickerville.

Miss Landi is going to be heard from, more and more. Her ambition was to be a novelist but she played several small roles with a repertoire company and then she was picked for the leading part in a play in London. Then, of course, her stage career was definitely under way.

Other plays followed and then Miss Landi had parts in films in Sweden, France and England. Meanwhile she spent her spare time writing.

She completed two long novels, "The Helmers" and "The Neilsens," both psychological in treatment, between film and stage engagements. Both were published and had fairly successful sales.

A third story, started many months ago, awaits completion. Elissa says Hollywood keeps her so busy that she doesn't have much time to write. She writes, by the way, in longhand. Typewriters make her nervous.

Miss Landi's performances in British pictures brought the offer to come to this country to play in "A Farewell to Arms." Although that piece didn't stay long on Broadway, her work in it brought her five film offers.

Miss Landi is a countess, but (excuse the pun) that doesn't count. She never mentions her title and refuses to discuss her social position at home.

Although Elissa appears to be English and speaks with a slight accent, she was born in Venice, Italy, of Hungarian parents. However, most of her life has been spent in England. Her husband is J. C. Lawrence, a barrister.

She pronounces her name Ee-lee-sa—with a short "a." Her name really is Elizabeth, but when she was learning to talk, something that sounded like Elissa was the best she could say.

AND Elissa is not the only writer in Hollywood. Even with P. G. Wodehouse and his now famous $104,000 for doing no writing at all, to speak of, out of the way, Hollywood is on a scenario-writing spree.

Waitresses, bootleggers, newsboys, bankers, valets, almost everyone who has any kind of a studio "in," is trying to put on paper incidents they have lived or heard about or seen in the movies.

The fact that a man who never had written a scenario suggested a story idea to the playwright Martin Flavin, who developed it and sold it for $12,000—which he split with the unknown—has stirred the hopes anew and put the pencils and typewriters of hundreds of would-bes into action.

When Warner Baxter left for a vacation in Honolulu, his man Hugo obtained permission to use the star's mountain cabin. He told friends he was going into seclusion to write "a couple of screen vehicles for Mr. Baxter."

One man will be a hero to his valet.

An ex-soldier, from whom Lloyd Bacon, the director, buys his gasoline, said he was "scenarizing" his war experiences. Bacon said he would like to read the story.

"I'll let you have it as soon as I get a plot," was the enthusiastic reply.

A stunt man, who has been at liberty more than anything else lately, is trying to peddle a story that would require the hero to have seven charmed lives and eight doubles to live through the stunts he wrote into it.

He hopes business will pick up after he sells his story.

VAUDEVILLE promises something more than pin money to motion picture players whose contracts have expired or who have a dull period between film productions.

An offer to Clara Bow, reported as $15,000 a week, but which the now platinum blonde actress said was $20,000, was declared to be the largest ever made in the big time.

The case of Fifi Dorsay was cited by film executives as an example of what prominent billing in the movies will do. Before she appeared in her first motion picture she was receiving about $200 a week in vaudeville. Next week in Louisville, Ky., she will begin a tour of seven weeks at $3000 a week.

Ann Harding to Start "Devotion."

Ann Harding, after completing a 4000-mile air trip in her new monoplane, has returned to Culver City to start work on "Devotion," the tentative screen title for the Pamela Wynne novel, "A Little Flat in the Temple."

LANDSCAPE EXHIBIT AT OLD COURTHOUSE

Scenery of Ozarks and Mississippi Valley Depicted at Third Display.

"The Scenic Charm of Missouri, the Ozark Region and the Mississippi Valley," is the theme of the third "scenic charm" landscape exhibition of the St. Louis Art League now on display at the Old Courthouse, Broadway and Market street.

An exhibit of 46 oil paintings by Charles A. Federer also has been hung in the first balcony of the rotunda. The latter canvasses were made as illustrations of children's books and are offered as a welcoming gesture to young people of the city.

Exhibit groups and single canvasses by many artists are being assembled. After further action by the jury of selection, they will be hung on the walls of the Old Courthouse which, by a series of exhibitions during the last two years, has taken on the aspect of a downtown museum of St. Louis art.

The canvasses are the work of Nuderscher, Gronemeyer, Mrs. Chaffee, Mrs. Cherry, Luchtemeyer, Woolrych, Woelk, Peters, Thalinger, Mrs. Skrainka, Florence Hazeltine, Mrs. Edzall, Virginia Moberly, Sarah Bloom, Jessie Rickley, Augusta Finkelnburg, Paula Fenske, Lillie Willemsen, Bauer, Philips, Adels, Morgenthaler, Burda, Erganian and others.

A water-color section includes works by McArdle, Kunz, Banks, Florence Hazeltine, Nina Shepherd, Virginia Mathers, Mrs. Queal, Mrs. Grohmeyer and others. Among exhibitors in black-and-white are Fred Graf, Victor Kunz and Cornelia Maury.

An informal reception for artists and their friends to which the public is invited will be held tomorrow evening at the Courthouse. The reception will inaugurate a series of events, including an Ozarks Festival Night in September, which will mark the display.

For the convenience of visitors in downtown hotels, the art collections are open every evening until 10 o'clock. There is no admission fee.

EXHIBIT OF BRAZILIAN ART

Paintings to Be Shown at City Museum During July.

A representative exhibition of paintings by contemporary Brazilian artists will be shown during July at the Art Museum, open daily from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The paintings have been obtained through the International Art Center of Roerich Museum, New York, and the Brazilian Society of Friends.

I had been advised to try Resinol Soap and Ointment, but had tried so many other things without success I was disgusted with everything. However, a friend urged me to try a sample anyway. Pierce-Arrow Has Twelve Convertible And Open Type Cars

Foreseeing the trend of a large proportion of the discriminating buyers toward open and convertible cars, Pierce-Arrow this year offers 12 of these types, two of which are customized by Le Baron, according to William G. Astridge of the Western Automobile Co., local Pierce-Arrow distributer. Included in the group is every accepted type of open or convertible car—roadsters, convertible coupes, tourers and convertible sedans. "Each car in the extensive array," said Astridge, "is highly individualized in the smartest mode of its particular body type.

Pierce-Arrow has been most successful in producing convertible type cars exemplifying the same sturdiness that characterizes its closed cars.

"Tops on open and convertible cars are neither bulky looking nor unwieldy to handle. Either raised or lowered, they present a neat, well-tailored effect. Each Pierce-Arrow convertible model is everything the name implies. The utility of the conventional closed car, combined with the smartness and freedom of the open car, provides a dual purpose unit with every essential of fine motor car transportation.

From structural fundamentals to minor details, it is conceived in the true Pierce-Arrow manner. Hudson Adds 763 Dealers This Year

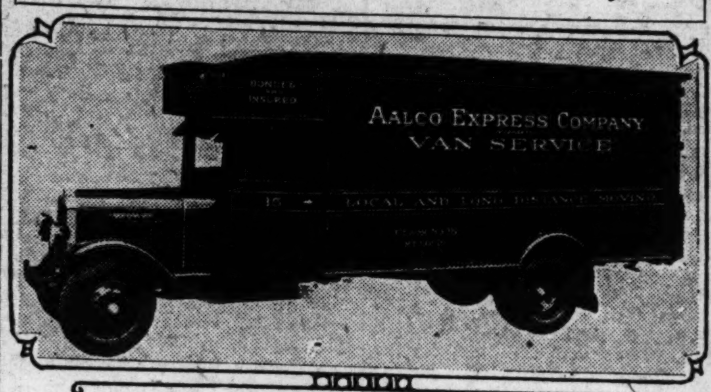
The Hudson Motor Car Co. has added 763 new Hudson and Essex dealers thus far this year.

Many of them took the franchise since the introduction of selective free wheeling as optional equipment on these cars, according to William J. McAneeny, president and general manager.

Unusual, But True.

Not a single automobile accident was reported in the town of Palmyra, Ill., during 1930. Nobody was injured on the highways and not even a smashed fender was recorded.

Moving Van Has Aluminum Body



All-aluminum moving van body on a General Motors Model T-42 truck chassis just delivered to the Aalco Express Co. The body, which was built by the McCabe-Powers Body Co., because of its saving of weight, makes possible an increase of 40 per cent in payload. The reduction in weight is regarded as important because of new highway laws.

Plymouth Chassis To Technical Schools

Five cutaway chassis, used for demonstration and display purposes at the national automobile shows, have been presented to the engineering departments of as many well-known technical schools by Plymouth Motor Corporation.

The schools receiving these chassis include Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Colorado Agricultural College, University of Missouri, Clemenson Agricultural College and Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

Cutaway chassis are among the most expensive engineering displays developed by various automobile companies. The regular chassis of the model is cross-sectioned and cut at various angles to show the working arrangements of every part of the automobile from engine to axle. They are of value to engineering classes who are able to make a detail study of the principles involved in automobile construction.

Personal Credit System Said to Aid Buyer and Industry

Helps Factories to Get Back to Work, Universal Credit Co. Executive Says.

The expansion program of the Universal Credit Co., which cares for financing of Ford car time payment buying, has continued this year with the opening of branches in Des Moines and Omaha, according to R. G. Turner, manager of the company's St. Louis branch.

"As it is the purpose of business to bring buyer and seller together in a transaction which is satisfactory to one and profitable to the other, so it is the function of a consumer credit institution to make it easier for consumers to acquire and use the products of American industry," Turner says. "There is not much question today but that credit and employment are closely interwoven and that the interests of employe, employer and credit company are mutual. The success of each one insures the normal consumption of goods and tends toward regularity of employment. In my opinion, the finance company that is basically sound recognizes an obligation to the purchasing public for developing fair charges, extending courteous treatment, and adopting economical practices.

"In our credit company rates have been consistently lower than those previously established for similar credit services. We consider the cost of credit to the public who buy cars on time to be of vital importance. In the case of the Ford car, the first cost is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were later sacrificed through high charges for financing.

"In the purchase of over 1,250,000 time sales transactions from the customers of Ford dealers, involving over $700,000,000, savings have been created for the public from lower financing costs established by Universal Credit Co. through the now familiar UCC Plans.

"Our experience in the three years since we began business, and during which period our credit operations have become almost nation-wide in their scope, has been most satisfactory. The inherent honesty of people and their ability and desire to meet their obligations is nowhere better demonstrated than in this specialized banking field. Public integrity has always proven to be the outstanding security in credit transactions.

"The sound credit operations in which we are engaged contribute very materially to the wider use of motor cars, thus directly making for more regular employment in those widespread sections of the country which contribute materials for the motor industry.

"Credit buying the last two years has not increased and there exists today the same ratio between cash buying and credit purchases as has always existed. We are of the opinion that American business will be materially assisted in getting back to a more normal basis through the proper functioning of consumer credit organizations."

New Nash Models, In Four Distinct Lines, Arrive in St. Louis

Models of the four new Nash lines, which are to be announced formally late this month, have arrived in St. Louis.

The various body styles on the new Nash chassis are on the floor of the showrooms of the Southwest Nash Co., distributer, Locust and Thirtieth street.

Reports from the Nash plant at Racine, Wis., are that there is much evidence of country-wide interest in the new models.

Byrd's Chief Engineer To Give Illustrated Lecture Here Tuesday

Capt. Thomas P. Mulroy, chief engineer of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, will give an illustrated lecture at the Alhambra Grotto, 2626 South Grand boulevard, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Dorr & Engel Oil and Supply Co., local Veedol motor oil and Tydol gasoline distributer.

The motion pictures to be shown by Capt. Mulroy have never before been exhibited and are not to be confused with those shown previously in St. Louis. It will be recalled that the Byrd Expedition used Tydol gasoline and Veedol motor oil exclusively.

Gabriel Shock Absorbers on Cars Of Big Race Winners

Gabriel triple hydraulic shock absorbers were used in the Indianapolis 500-mile race on the cars of Louis Schneider, winner; Fred Frame, second, and Ralph Hepburn, third.

"The Indianapolis Motor Speedway," said H. C. Merry, local Gabriel distributer, "has for some years been the most spectacular testing laboratory for everything automotive. Last year, for the first time, hydraulic shock absorbers replaced the older friction devices on racing cars. Drivers become very enthusiastic over their performance, Gabriel equipping all of the winning cars. Engineers watched the 1930 race carefully, for the hydraulic shock absorber was on test.

"This year, the drivers were unanimous in saying, 'Better control', 'Easier steering', 'Didn't get so tired', and 'Saved my car'."

Free Wheeling on All Graham Cars Now Made Optional

Combined With Synchronized Shift 4-Speed Transmission —Also on Prosperity Six.

It is announced that an improved type of free wheeling may now be had with any Graham model at a low extra cost. It is asserted that the Graham Special Six and the Graham eights, the only cars in the world combining a synchronized shift four-speed transmission with free wheeling, not only possess the advantage of each of these features, but also, by combining them, have greatly enhanced the benefits of both.

Free wheeling may be had in the new low-priced Graham Prosperity Six, as well as in the four-speed models.

Graham free wheeling enables the driver to shift quickly and silently, without declutching, not only into the higher gears, but into low gear as well. When free wheeling, the clutch need be used only in starting.

The change from free wheeling to positive drive can be made instantly at any time regardless of car speed, and in any gear. In either drive, the unit continues to operate as set by the driver through all changes of forward gears, without further attention.

Control is by a short lever close to the driver's hand. When the lever is forward, free wheeling is inoperative; when the lever is moved to the rear, the car free wheels.

The peak of free wheeling advantages, the Graham engineers say, is realized in its combination with the Graham four-speed models. Even without free wheeling, the four-speed ynchro-silent transmission permits silent gear changes.

Free wheeling in Graham cars is obtained without any change in the transmissions themselves. A separate compact unit, rigidly attached to the rear of the transmission housing, comprises the free wheeling device. A control lever projects above the floor boards within easy reach.

The free wheeling effect is obtained through use of an overrunning roller clutch. Six separate rollers, each in its own groove, are used instead of groups of rollers graduated in size operating in single grooves.

When the car is free wheeling, the rollers permit the propeller shaft to run at a faster speed than the transmission shaft, so that the engine may slow down to idling speed. When not free wheeling, the transmission shaft and the propeller shaft are positively coupled. The car then operates in the conventional manner, and the braking effect of the engine is available for use on steep grades or wherever desired.

The means by which free wheeling is made inoperative is simple and positive, and the change can be made under any driving conditions —an important element of safety since in an emergency, the driver is not required to perform any special operation with each gear shift after moving the control lever.

Foreign Motorists Pay Up to 70 Cents Per Gallon for 'Gas'

An analysis of retail gasoline prices and marketing conditions throughout the world made by experts of the Shell Petroleum Corporation reveals that while motorists in the United States now enjoy the lowest prices on record, retail gasoline prices in other countries range as high as 70 cents a gallon.

"In the United States today," declares L. Van Eeghen, vice president of the Shell Corporation, in a digest of the analysis, "gasoline is about the cheapest commodity on the market. Since 1920 the per gallon service station price has dropped from an average of $0,2931 to $0.1301, and it is conclusively shown that gasoline prices have responded to the law of supply and demand.

"A steady increase in gasoline tax, which now averages nearly four cents a gallon in the United States has to some extent nullified the price reduction obtained and unfortunately the public, in buying gasoline, has considered only the total price, which includes the tax. In some localities, the tax almost equals the price of the product."

Laws on Passing Cars.

In their traffic laws 33 States in the Union and the District of Columbia put the "verboten" ban on the overtaking of automobiles on hills or curves where the view is obstructed.

De Soto Chosen As Olympiad Car

A De Soto Eight sedan, specially painted and appropriately lettered, has been chosen to make a series of trans-continental and cross-country runs to advertise the 1932 Olympiad to be held in Los Angeles next year.

The De Soto has been painted in a novel arrangement of red, white and blue and the De Soto coat-of-arms in gold. The car has been dubbed the "De Soto Spirit."

The car is the same De Soto in which Pete De Paolo, racing driver and special factory sales representative for De Soto Motor Corporation, recently made a trans-continental run, visiting De Soto distributors and dealers.

Klingler Reports Definitely Improving Business Conditions

Evidence of definitely improving business conditions was presented in Detroit the past week by H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., upon his return to the central office after six months of almost continuous traveling in all parts of the country.

Citing figures of his own company in support of his belief, Klingler said that the final tabulation of June sales figures would show the current month ahead of last June, and that he expected every remaining month this year to show a gain over the corresponding month of 1930.

"From the standpoint of Chevrolet business," Klingler said, "the brightest spot in the country right now is the area along the North Atlantic seaboard. We are doing more business there than we ever did. This fact is significant because that area first felt the effects of the stock market slump, and it appears to be, appropriately, the first to recover.

"Similarly, the Pacific Coast, although never so hard hit as the rest of the country, is showing favorably on our sales chart. In the South, mills which had been idle for months are starting operations —on a curtailed basis—but they are moving. The drouth area in the middle and south central part of the country requires the stimulus of a new crop for recovery, and by fall such stimulus will be felt. I am in hopes that by that time the favorable conditions now evident on the two coasts will have spread out to include the entire country."

Stewart Leads Sales Discussion

Dodge Car Sales On Steady Increase

Keeping pace with the improvement in business throughout the country, retail deliveries of Dodge six and eight cylinder cars since last November have shown consistent and substantial month to month increases, according to General Sales Manager A. van Der Zee of Dodge Brothers Corporation.

December, as compared with November, registered an increase of 29.6 per cent; January over December, 14.3 per cent; February over January, 23 per cent; March over February, 49.3 per cent, and April over March, 22.6 per cent.

Figures covering overall deliveries—Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars, Dodge Brothers trucks, busses and taxicabs—also registered consistent monthly increases since the first of the year, January beating December by 9.5 per cent; February over January 19.2 per cent; March over February 43.3 per cent, and April over March 23.4 per cent. Preliminary figures for May indicate continued increases.

Dodge Brothers' total passenger car shipments to United States dealers in April exceeded any one month since May, 1930, and the grand total of passenger car shipments—United States, Canada and overseas—exceeded any one month sicne April, 1930.

HUDSON Meets Every Requirement of True Luxury—Now It Provides *Selective Free Wheeling

Instinctively you group Hudson with those few cars that men acknowledge as truly fine. But do you compare its price with theirs? That contrast is the emphasis of Hudson value.

Take, for example, the way in which Hudson has progressed with every motor car improvement. Its eight-cylinder motor, built on the principle of the costliest cars, is acclaimed one of the finest power plants to be found in any automobile. Or consider the reliability of the chassis, the sturdiness of its bodies and the many devices that contribute to comfort, reliability and economy.

Look at its various body types. Their style and beauty are apparent. Close examination reveals the completeness and good taste of all appointments. The long wheelbase, the deep cushions and many important mechanical refinements assure Rare Riding Comfort.

Go farther, if you will. Include performance and reliability in your comparison. What other car combines such speed, acceleration and power with the economy that all, regardless of their means, welcome today?

Now we add *Selective Free Wheeling. With it is enjoyed a luxurious floating ride. You shift gears silently. You have quicker getaway. You free wheel in all forward speeds because of the Selective feature. In all other respects it is the same in principle and manufacture as is used in the costliest and most pretentious free wheeling cars.

Thus in every way Hudson fulfills every requirement of true luxury. And today's market cannot fail to emphasize Hudson's price advantage.

CHRYSLER EIGHT DE LUXE SEDAN $1565

Something to be Proud of

THE new Chrysler Eight De Luxe is manifestly a car for those who enjoy luxurious travel—a magnificent car in design, in trim, in engineering and in performance.

It is a bigger car of luxurious proportions. Larger and roomier bodies of greater strength. Unusually deep, soft cushions. Rich walnut-finish interior panels and mouldings. Distinctive fittings.

It is a faster, smoother, quieter car. Its bigger engine has a fully counterweighted crankshaft and develops easily a good 95 horsepower. Eighty miles an hour—it's all there if you want it—and the steadiness of the car at all speeds will delight you.

It is a thoroughly enjoyable car to drive—with its pivotal steering and its Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears. Both high gears are of internal design, which means that you can shift from one to the other in an instant, regardless of car speed, without clashing. One high gear is for fascinating pick-up and flexibility in traffic—the other, a still higher gear for the open road, reduces the number of engine revolutions at increased car speeds.

The Chrysler Eight De Luxe is also a car of remarkable safety. Because of its steel body construction. Because of its low center of gravity. Because of the quick, positive control of its internal self-equalizing hydraulic brakes.

Yet with all its fine quality and smartness, with all its richness and comfort, with all its outstanding performance and safety—the Chrysler Eight De Luxe is moderately priced. An outstanding car, an oustanding value.

Two New Custom Models Offered By Willys-Overland

Willys-Overland announce two new custom built sedans to meet the demand for more luxurious appointments, yet within a price range that makes them available to buyers of cars in the $1200 and $1300 price class. Two models compose the company's custom line, one a Willys-Knight sedan, the other a Willys eight sedan. The former lists at $1395, the latter at $1295.

While there is no change from the standard chassis in either model, their appearance, both exterior and interior, has been materially beautified.

Details have been carefully worked out from rich exterior color combinations and the liberal use of chromium plate to smart upholstery and interior appointments and conveniences. Both are available in two color combinations —one maroon, the other black and gray with silver striping to harmonize with the chromium plated wheels.

The spare wheels are mounted in forward fender wells with chromium covers. The tires have white side walls. Fenders, splashers, trunk rack brackets, tail lamp bracket, hood ledges are lacquered, while the head lamps, including brackets, are full chromium plated.

Upholstery is of rich mohair throughout, except the headlining which consists of a napped material to harmonize with the body trim. The seats and back are plaited, form fitting type, for riding comfort on long drives. The cur-

Winfield Develops Vibration Neutralizer For Model A Fords

A new Winfield vibration neutralizer for Model A Ford cars is announced by the S. G. Hoffman Magneto Co., 3134 Washington, distributer. It is designed to dampen vibrations when attached to the crankshaft.

The neutralizer replaces the fan pulley. A deep groove is for the fan belt. The outer rim is held to the hub by six studs, each set in a rubber cushion. A slight slippage or oscillation is permitted between hub and rim. When the crankshaft is deflected by a power impulse, the outer rim of the neutralizer lags. Then, as the crankshaft tends to spring back, the stored energy in the outer rim checks this flexing movement, quelling vibration before it can get started.

King of Siam Buys Two Pierce-Arrows

King Prajadhipok of Siam last week purchased two new Pierce-Arrow cars. One of the cars, a seven-passenger tourer, has been delivered to him at Ophir Hall, home of the late Mrs. Whitelaw Reid in Westchester County, New York, where the King is now residing. The other car, an enclosed drive limousine, will be shipped to Siam.

Almost All Army Airplanes Employ Air-Cooled Engines

When more than 600 United States Army airplanes dotted the Eastern and mid-western skies recently, they were, in a measure, a tribute to the faith and confidence in the air-cooled engine, fostered single-handed for more than 30 years by H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Co., Syracuse, N. Y., builder of air-cooled motor cars.

For years the Franklin air-cooled car stood alone, although its distinctive advantages were finally recognized by engineers. No better is this exemplified than in the mammoth army of the air that staged a mimic defense of New York, Chicago and other cities against an imaginary enemy, the vast majority of those planes being driven through space by powerful air-cooled engines.

The fact that the army depends almost entirely on engines of this type, is in itself a tribute to a principle championed for three decades by the Syracuse manufacturer of air-cooled automobiles.

Practically every American aviation record has been made by a plane employing an air-cooled power plant.

In many ways the design of the current Franklin engine closely parallels that of the modern air-cooled aviation motor. To prove that the Franklin engine is truly airplane-type, one was installed in the fuselage of a plane at Dayton, O., and successfully flew the craft thousands of feet in the air at a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour.

Among the noted flyers who selected Franklin cars this year are Col. Charles Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart, Capt. Frank Hawks and Donald Douglas.

McDarby Tells Dealers Here How Auburn Sales Grow

In Five Months Has Registered 120 Per Cent Over Its Record for All of 1930.

N. E. McDarby, vice president in charge of sales of the Auburn Automobile Co., was the principal speaker at a meeting of dealers from Missouri, Southern Illinois and Kentucky held by E. J. Johnson, Inc., local Auburn-Cord distributer, as the Coronado Hotel on Tuesday.

"There are going to be more and more new basic developments in the automobile industry in the next five years than in the past 10 or 15 years," McDarby said. He pointed out that Auburn's new X-type frame is one of these developments. Auburn's program is based on the production of 40,000 cars in the year of 1931.

"Already Auburn registrations for the first five months in 1931 show a 120 per cent increase over the entire year of 1930," McDarby said.

Auburn, in the first five months of 1931, has sold 24,438 cars, as compared with 13,693 in the 12 months of 1930. This exceeds its 12-month record of 22,749 in 1929, which was a peak year in the automobile industry. In May, Auburn sold 6717 cars as compared with 1848 in the corresponding month of 1930. In St. Louis in the first five months, Auburn has sold 275 cars as compared with 96 in the 12 months of 1930.

McDarby illustrated his talk with a series of charts, one of which showed that in the 25 major markets in the country Auburn, in the first five months, has greatly exceeded its total for the entire year of 1930. Another chart showed that Auburn has bettered its position each month of this year as compared with last year, as shown by the following monthly increases over each corresponding month of last year: January, 50 per cent; February, 75 per cent; March, 100 per cent, and April, 25 per cent.

McDarby is making a coast-to-coast trip and flew here in a Stinson tri-motored plane, which is manufactured by one of the E. L. Cord subsidiaries. He said that the trip he is making will take 30 days, but if he made it by rail it would require at least 100 days.

McDarby was introduced by H. Boyer of E. J. Johnson, Inc.

Playlet Feature Of Service Managers' Meeting on Thursday

V. J. Kobes, assistant district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and a trained corps of "actors" will give a demonstration to those attending the meeting of the Service Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association next Thursday night of "The Value of Good Telephone Behavior."

Telephones will be installed and a disgruntled customer will complain to the operator about service and the operator will answer soothingly. A prospective buyer will telephone in for information, and the salesman will give him the wrong answers.

An engineer from the Multibestos Co., Cambridge, Mass., will hold a clinic on "Brakes and Brake Adjustments."

H. M. Young, of the Borbein-Young Co., will explain the advantages and adjustments of the downdraft carburetor.

David G. Nelson of the Nelson Motor Car Maintenance Co., will explain the Nelson towing system.

The meeting will be held at the Gatesworth Hotel. Dolph Moore, Lambert-Tigges Motor Co., chairman of the bureau, will preside.

With motor a car performance is governed not only by horsepower, but also by the relation of its power to its weight. Consider a car of 100 horsepower weighing 4000 pounds and another car of equal power weighing but 3500 pounds. The lighter car would be the better performer, for the extra 500 pounds would place a heavy additional burden on the engine of the other.

The Marmon sixteen has a 200 horsepower engine; each of the 200 horsepower in this car is called upon to pull only about 25 pounds of car weight, compared with 35 to 40 pounds per horsepower in the average automobile. This usually low ratio of weight to power is one of the chief reasons for the performance of this car.

Five Coast-to-Coast Trips in 12 Months Record of Motorist

Twelve trips from coast to coast, five of them made within the past 12 months, is the touring record of Dr. H. H. Johnston, of San Francisco. While Dr. Johnston gives the coast city as his home town, his real address might properly be given as "in a Buick sedan, somewhere between the Atlantic and Pacific," for he is a constant automobile traveler.

Dr. Johnston's work is the establishing of tuberculosis sanitariums. His field is the entire United States. He finds the automobile more suited to his needs than railroads, and has become so experienced a tourist that taking a trip across the country is routine.

On his 12 transcontinental journeys Dr. Johnston has followed the Old National Trail seven times, the Spanish Trail three times and the Lincoln Highway twice. On his last trip from New Jersey to California he drove the entire distance in his Buick without even a tire change.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

200 SCOUTS TO LEAVE FOR CAMP IRONDALE

Summer Season Officially Starts Tomorrow in Cabin and Ranger Units.

St. Louis Council's Camp Irondale will officially inaugurate the 1931 camping season tomorrow morning when it opens its cabins to 200 scouts and leaders, members of the first cabin and ranger camp sections. The campers will travel to the reservation on a special train leaving St. Louis at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Five sections will be held at both cabin and ranger camps this year, each section being two weeks' in length. Each section also will feature one special activity, that for the first being the annual Fourth of July sham battle. The second section will feature pioneering events; the third, an Indian pageant and a Gypsy hike; the fourth, a "mystery section" for the cabin camp and the annual Gypsy ride for the rangers; and the fifth, a 24-hour sham battle.

Most of last year's leaders will again be in charge of camp activities this year. L. L. Hotchkiss will again direct the cabin camp, with Leroy Lane as his assistant, while M. N. Leavitt will again direct the rangers. Art Werder will have charge of swimming and waterfront activities, assisted by Bernard Weber, while Louis Sherwood will be pioneering director. Bob Miller will be riding master of the ranger camp, with Bernard Mayer as assistant.

Field Executive Max Nusser of the North District will take over the directorship of the troop unit camps, a new major leadership established this year. These troop unit camps, while following the cabin camp program and utilizing cabin camp equipment, have separate habitations in a tree-house village and an Indian camp. These camps are open only to troops attending the reservation as a unit under the leadership of their own scoutmasters.

Troop Notes

West District.

At the fourth annual camparall held in Forest Park last week end, Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. won first place in the West District contest for the third successive time. The Panther patrol, consisting of Patrol Leader Elliott Gillerman, Melvin Hertzman, Edward Hopper, Francis Klein, Stanley Lopata, Bob Carp, George Gillerman and Gilbert Seidel, amassed one of the largest scores totaled in the whole camparall. As a reward Troop Committeeman Gillerman is going to give a banquet for the Troop 30 camparall teams. The troop is on a hike today and another overnight hike is planned for next week-end.

Troop 96 of the West Belle School has been presented with money to buy equipment, Scoutmaster Otto Williams reported last week. The donors were members of Engine Co. No. 28 and Hook and Ladder Company No. 9, St. Louis Fire Department, who are located near the headquarters of this Negro troop.

Nineteen scouts and three officers of Troop 120 of the Church of the Apostles conducted an overnight camp near Pond, Mo., June 6 and 7. Two bridges, a foot bridge and an 18-foot platform bridge, were built.

South District.

Troops 104, 126 and 194 reregistered last week, making South District 100 per cent registered. Troop 104 meets at St. Hedwig's Catholic Church, 126 meets at Holy Ghost Evangelical Church, and 194 at the Evangelical Church of the Redeemer.

The new camp being built by Troop 168 of St. Pius Catholic Church is nearing completion, after a long period of work by the scouts and the mothers' auxiliary. The troop has held a hike for the last six Sundays, and conducted a two-day camp over Decoration day.

A. H. Falter has been elected scoutmaster of Troop 244 of the Kennard School, succeeding E. C. Edelman. Scoutmaster Falter was selected at a meeting of the troop committee last week. He is planning a reorganization.

North District.

New patrols were organized by Troop 3 of the Grace Holy Cross Church at the meeting last week. Eight scouts and two officers were present. Scoutmaster Simons spoke on "Scouting and Its Uses," and talked about happenings at the scoutmasters' camp at Irondale.

Thirty scouts and 20 mothers and fathers of Troop 1 of Benton School attended a picnic given for the troop by the mothers' auxiliary at Forest Park June 9.

Central District.

The Central District Camparall was won by a patrol entered by Troop 189 of the Shaw Avenue M. E. Church. The troop celebrated its victory with a party last Tuesday evening, members of the patrol being guests of honor. A number of parents and friends attended. The district flag was formally presented to the troop by Commissioner Stamm, and was then turned over to Lee Hall, leader of the winning patrol. Neighborhood Commissioner Sexton presented the troop with a gold streamer, and Field Executive Case challenged the scouts to become a standard troop this year.

Suburban District.

Troops Overland 1 and 2 combined to set up a 20-tent camp on American Legion day at Forest Park Highlands last Friday. The scouts also demonstrated campcraft, cooking and handicraft activities.

Festivities at Opening of Bellerive Pool

Trophies to Be Given by Country Club Members for Swimming Tournament Next Saturday.

INTEREST in sports events at the country clubs for the summer has increased with the announcements sent yesterday to members of the Bellerive Country Club of its first swimming meet, to be held next Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the new pool which was completed a few weeks ago. The pool was built according to regulation tournament specifications and is lighted at night by submerged globes. In addition, the children's wading pool near by, decorated with tile from Seville, Spain, will be opened Saturday. Refreshments will be served at small tables under green and yellow umbrellas between events, and afterwards there will be a dinner for members and their guests in the dining room. J. Frederick Schlafly, Mrs. Samuel Mitchell, Mrs. Frederick L. English and Mrs. Walter J. Knight comprise the Committee on Arrangements, and the judges of the meet will be Guy Hitchcock, president of the club; G. A. Bass, Fred M. Hoag, Palmer Baumes, Judge Rhodes E. Cave and M. K. Bassett. The contestants have been divided into four classes, seniors for those 18 and over; juniors from 13 to 17; midgets from 8 to 12 and junior midgets below 8 years.

Prizes have been donated by club members for each event, and are on display at the club. The following are the events, with the donors of cups for each: Senior boys' 60-yard dash, Mr. Schlafly; senior girls' 30-yard dash, Mrs. Clifford W. Gaylord; junior boys' 30-yard dash, Charles F. A 60-yard dash, open to male contestants of any age, and a 30-yard dash for women of any age, have been arranged, the winners to be rewarded with the president's cups, donated by the club. To vary the procedure, novelty races are scheduled, the first for boys, who will swim the length of the pool with an open umbrella, close the umbrella, crawl through a barrel and return. The second, for girls, will require the entrants to swim the length of the pool balancing an egg on a spoon. For the third, boys will be entered with girls, two to a team, swim the length of the pool, inflate a balloon and swim to starting point. The final event will be the overchest carry, in which a boy swimmer carries a girl in life-saving position. Prizes for the last four events have been given by William Carroll Connett, Mrs. Emmett M. Myers, Mrs. Guilford Duncan and Benjamin G. Chapman Jr. and Mrs. Edgar Queeny.

How To Really Get Rid Of Arm And Leg Hair

Utterly Without the Problem of Coarsened Re-growth

By a total lack of stubble you can feel the difference between this and old ways.

A Discovery That is Proving to the Wonder of the Cosmetic World That Hair Can Not Only Be Removed Instantly, But Its Reappearance Delayed Amazingly.

A way of removing arm and leg hair has been found that not only removes every vestige of hair instantly, but that banishes the stimulated hair growth thousands of women are charging to the razor and less modern ways. A way that not only removes hair, but delays its reappearance remarkably.

It is changing previous conceptions of cosmeticians about hair removing. Women are flocking to its use. The creation of a noted laboratory, it is different from any other hair remover known.

What It Is

It is an exquisite toilet creme resembling a superior beauty clay in texture. You simply spread it on where hair is to be removed. Then rinse off with water. That is all. Every vestige of hair is gone; so completely that even by running your hand across the skin not the slightest trace of stubble can be felt. And—the reappearance of that hair is delayed surprisingly!

When re-growth finally does come, it is utterly unlike the re-growth following the razor and old ways. You can feel the difference. No sharp stubble. No coarsened growth.

Where to Obtain

It is called NEET—and is on sale at all drug and department stores and beauty parlors. Costs only a few cents. 276RA

Boxing Matches Add To Gaiety at Resort

NEW YORK, June 20.

THE cool Berkshire hills and seaside resorts have lured throngs of Manhattan social lights away from the city this season, though a great many gay parties are being planned for pent houses and roof gardens by those who will stay at home.

Southampton, L. I., boasts one of the smartest summer colonies and some interesting schemes are afoot to intrigue its pleasure-seeking members.

For instance, there are the Friday night boxing matches and the wrestling matches on Saturday nights at the Southampton Athletic Club. Ringside boxes for the season have been taken by Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw III., Mr. and Mrs. Jay Robinson Duff, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hutton and Mr. and Mrs. George Leary Jr.

Interest is waxing, too, in the second annual race meet to be held July 11 at the Southampton Riding and Hunt Club under the auspices of the Suffolk hounds. Richard Newton Jr., of the latter organization, is in charge. Stewards will be F. Ambrose Clarke, A. Henry Higginson of Cattistock Hunt, Dorset, England, and Joseph E. Davis of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association.

Among the boats that coursed their luxurious way to the Yale-Harvard regatta at New London, Conn., last Friday was the shiny black Camargo owned by Julius Fleischmann. Earl Carroll's boat with each of its cabins painted a different color, also pulled out into Long Island Sound during the week.

The Bar Harbor colony is busily preparing for an unprecedented July Fourth celebration with water sports, boat races, airplane maneuvers and other activities.

The season at Montauk opened recently with a dinner dance at Montauk Manor. Commodore Caleb S. Bragg of the Montauk Yacht Club has moved into his pretentious estate of seven houses, and is preparing for a gala season.

Brigadier-General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt arrived last week at Newport, R. I., to stay the summer at their estate, Beaulieu.

A blooded horse and an original painting were offered by two well-known Long Island colonists as donations for the annual fair for the benefit of the Babies' Milk Fund of the New York Hospital, and the Family Welfare Association of Nassau County.

The horse was donated by Mrs. Payne Whitney, at whose Manhasset country place the fair was held Friday. The animal, Idle Saint, sired by St. Germand, who also sired Twenty Grand, is reputed to be worth $5000. The amount paid for her was added to the general proceeds of the fair.

Charge accounts for cash
CHARGE
The merchant, the landlord, the doctor realize today that families with credit good for cash loans are better credit risks for them.
The year that has passed has clearly proved how quickly a family's financial resources can be wiped out.
Market losses, temporary unemployment, sickness and other emergencies plunge the customers of every business into unexpected debt.
A very few, less than 20%, have been able to borrow from banks to tide themselves over such times of stress.
Others have let their bills go, damaging their credit standing and handicapping their creditors.
Still other hundreds of thousands of families have turned to their charge accounts, good for cash loans from reputable finance companies, and have borrowed the money to keep all of their other charge accounts free from past due indebtedness.
Household, America's foremost family finance organization, had on its books last year more than 330,000 charge accounts for cash. The more than sixty-six millions of dollars loaned in small amounts on these accounts were largely used for paying bills.
A recent survey showed that in 83 cases out of 100 the money obtained was used to refinance indebtedness—to pay miscellaneous bills, medical bills, tax bills, rent bills, fuel and insurance bills.
Here is proof that the 135 offices which Household maintains in 76 principal cities are bulwarks for all creditors as well as for the majority of families in their vicinities.
Without bankable securities, without endorsers and embarrassing investigations, these offices loan from $100 to $300 on the signatures of husband and wife. Up to 20 months is allowed for repayment in small installments. Only the low rate allowed by Missouri law, 2½% a month, is charged.
As added protection to its customer's other charge accounts, Household helps families establish themselves on a firmer financial standing by offering proper budgeting and expending advice.

BUILDING NOW ENTIRELY LEASED

Annual Rentals Are $55,000, or 10 Per Cent Gross of Announced Price, Considered Exceptional.

By Berry Moore.

The record real estate transactions of the week involved Wiltshire Apartment, northwest corner of Skinker road and Southwood avenue, opposite Forest Park, which was acquired by Mrs. Etta Richter.

While not verified, the reported consideration was $550,000. In this purchase is recognized a belated response to revised prices of buildings of this type on the part of persons with available capital.

The Wiltshire is a nine-story fireproof elevator structure, with a lot frontage of 160 feet on Skinker, and 160 feet on Southwood. It consists of 24 suites, eight of five rooms and bath, and 16 of six rooms and two baths each. The premises include a garage for 44 automobiles.

All Apartments Leased.

The building is entirely leased with annual rentals aggregating $55,000, or 10 per cent gross of the announced purchase price. This is mentioned as exceptional in view of vacancies in buildings of this character. Oreon E. and R. G. Scott, will continue as managers of the building. The site is in the DeMun Park subdivision.

The Wiltshire was owned by a corporation represented by Sam Hamburg Jr., who handled the negotiations. Jacob Ruben & Son, building contractors acted for the purchaser.

The building was recently redecorated, lobby refurnished and a canopy erected leading from the entrance to the street. It is numbered 725 Skinker. Built about six years ago, it was the first apartment on Skinker opposite Forest Park. It was followed by the Versailles, a 10-story structure, at the southwest corner of Skinker boulevard and Rosebury drive, designed by Preston J. Bradshaw, architect. A 16-story fireproof structure, 625 Skinker, at the northwest corner of Northwood, was recently completed.

The block on the west side of Skinker, between Northwood and Rosebury, has figured in plans several times during the last two years for large apartment buildings, which have failed to materialize owing to adverse business conditions. These included plans for twin 20-story structures, one for the Northwood corner and the other for the Rosebury corner. This is the only block on Skinker between Southwood and the University car line where apartments are permissible under building restrictions. It is tentatively quoted at $1500 a foot on Skinker. Facing Forest Park, this section forms one of the most eligible locations in the city for buildings of this character on a large scale.

Many in DeMun Park.

The DeMun Park subdivision comprising the area between Skinker road, including the Skinker road frontage, DeMun avenue and Northwood and Southwood, is built up with apartments. The Concordia Seminary grounds, extending west from DeMun, form the west boundary of the DeMun Park subdivision.

Negotiations are reported for other large apartment buildings in the vicinity of Forest Park. Buildings of this character, it is believed, will gradually work into strong hands with a restoration of values.

Meier & Comfort Erroneously Named in York Village Story.

The residence of Dr. Nathan Bilsky, 4 Northcote drive, York Village, Brentwood, which was destroyed by an unexplained explosion and fire the night of June 11, was not built by Meier & Comfort, Inc.

It was erroneously stated in the Post-Dispatch on June 12 that Meier & Comfort was the builder, on the strength of information from residents of York Village.

INQUIRIES MADE ON ST. LOUIS ADVANTAGES

Industrial Club Director Says National Advertising Is Getting Results.

A material pickup in the last four weeks in the number of inquiries and contacts made with concerns interested in locating in the St. Louis Industrial District has been announced by E. S. Tompkins, acting director of the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club of St. Louis.

"Markets and distribution facilities," Tompkins said, "have been the subject of a number of inquiries, no doubt the result of the Industrial Club's national advertising of the St. Louis Mart Building and the Midwest Terminal Building, two $5,000,000 structures now being erected in this city.

"Representatives of a large Eastern concern sent here to make a survey of the local market said that they did not see how they had failed to visualize the sales opportunities for their produce in St. Louis and so long neglected putting in a local stock to serve the retail trade.

"National concerns are interested in the St. Louis industrial district from the standpoint of saving or making an additional profit in the combination of possible economies in manufacturing and the lower costs of distribution. Economies of any kind, either in production or distribution, are the subject of special interest with practically all manufacturers in this day of diminishing profits.

"The St. Louis industrial district has much to offer with its nearby supply of a wide variety of raw materials and cheap supply of power, coal, natural gas, fuel oil, and good labor conditions supplemented by the best distributing service by rail or river radiating from any city in this country."

County Real Estate Board Forms Property Owners' Unit

Object Is to Lower Taxes and to Consider Difficult Government Problems

A. V. Lashly Heads Group

A Property Owners' Division of the St. Louis County Real Estate Board has been formed. It is similar to such a division being promoted by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. Among its objects are:

"To unite property owners to aggressively combat excessive and inequitable tax burdens on real estate and to foster legislative measures providing relief; to keep members advised of the introduction and progress of ordinances, measures and public improvements which may directly affect their property; to afford property owners an opportunity to act unitedly in securing relief from unjust, discriminatory or damaging legislation, practices or procedure; to promote economy and efficiency in the expenditure of public funds; to correct the tax system in the county and state so as to relieve real estate of inequitable tax burdens and unjust special assessments."

Arthur V. Lashly, former Circuit Judge and director of the Missouri and Illinois criminal justice surveys, has been elected chairman of the division. Other officers are: S. Charles Harvey, first vice chairman; W. A. Rowe, second vice chairman; Roger Renkel, president and S. M. Studt, treasurer. Renkel, the active manager of the division, is executive secretary of the Real Estate Board and Studt is treasurer of the board.

Twenty-eight directors of the division, including representatives of the Real Estate Board, have been chosen, as follows: A. V. Lashly, A. P. Greensfelder, George F. Robertson, Tom Shields, Henry McRee, Walter Mayne, C. H. Holkamp, W. A. Rowe, Jacob Studt Jr., W. L. Behan, Joseph Burcke, S. C. Harvey, Grover Devine, William Heckmann, Barnes Bridell, B. C. Stevens, Edward Wilson, L. W. Kraeger, J. R. Thursby, L. William Gerling, N. B. Comfort, W. P. Morgan Jr., Conrad C. Reinemer and Sidney M. Studt.

Individuals and corporations owning or otherwise directly interested in real estate in St. Louis County may join the division. Charter members' dues are $100 a year, while sustaining members pay $25 and participating members $5. The following standing committees will be appointed: Membership, assessments and taxation, municipal affairs, State legislation, Federal matters, county planning, transportation, mortgage and contract, construction codes and program.

"This organization offers the owners of real estate an opportunity to express themselves effectively on questions affecting their property. Such organizations are being formed all over the country. Real estate is bearing the heaviest burden of taxation of any class of property. The reason is that it cannot be hidden away. Money, notes, taxable bonds and other intangible personal property generally escapes taxation, but real estate cannot escape. Therefore, it has had to stand a tax out of all proportion to other classes of taxable property.

"Real estate becomes the victim of all manner of special taxes, some of which are beneficial to the property and some of doubtful benefit. The vast majority of our people have no property at all except their home places and furnishings, and many of these are not paid for. Real estate taxes, general and special, are matters of vital concern to them. Economy in government means lower taxes. Extravagance in government can only mean higher taxes.

"St. Louis County presents some very difficult governmental problems. A majority of the acreage is farm lands, but this is constantly being reduced by the extension of urban development. A majority of our population lives in urban or semi-urban territory. The urbanites demand city improvements and conveniences, such as first class schools, comparable to those in the city of St. Louis, fine streets and boulevards, parks and playgrounds, adequate drainage and sewerage, water, gas and fire protection, and are willing to pay for them. Their property is able to stand it. But in the other and lower priced areas the property is not able to stand it and the people cannot afford to pay for such improvements and city conveniences.

"There exists a necessity for a close study of these matters so that progress can be made in urban development and improvement, but only in such a way that no grave injustices may be done. This organization expects to take an active part in any matter of taxation, legislation and government effecting real estate within the scope of our by-laws. It is our desire to be helpful and not merely critical, and we want to co-operate with every other agency in the county, official or unofficial, to that end."

WORK RUSHED ON DES PERES SEWER

Construction is being pushed on the main part of the River des Peres sewer between Union avenue, just south of Lindell boulevard, and extending northwest to the city limits, near Maple avenue. This section soon will be completed as far as Westminster place, the first parallel street south of Delmar boulevard, just west of the Wabash Railroad viaduct.

It is expected, barring inclement weather, that the main sewer will be completed to the Delmar viaduct not later than Aug. 1, especially as there will be no rock blasting necessary in the excavations for the sewer north of Westminster place.

As soon as the sewer is finished to the Delmar crossing, when all danger of floods, south of Delmar will be abated, it is proposed by the Board of Public Service to take up the separation of the Wabash grade crossings at De Baliviere avenue, McPherson avenue, Waterman avenue and Westminster place, and the lowering of the tracks at the Skinker avenue crossing.

The Union and Lindell boulevard crossing, reached from Kingshighway, is now finished and in use, together with the Delmar viaduct, opened about two years ago. This, with the proposed elimination of the crossings at DeBaliviere and Skinker avenues, is expected to increase property values in the district about two and one-half miles between Kingshighway and Skinker and about one mile between the north line of Forest Park and Delmar boulevard. This will also increase the city's revenue, according to Frank H. Gerhart, president of F. H. and C. B. Gerhart Real Estate Co.

MONTPELIER, REPRODUCTION OF MADISON'S HOME, SOLD

Montpelier in Colonial Hills, a modern reproduction of the famous home of James Madison, and six and a half acres of landscaped grounds, have been sold by the Eggers Realty & Investment Co. to R. A. Dubuque, president of the Plumbers' Supply Co., for $83,000. The house was designed as a free interpretation of the colonial type.

In the house one enters a broad, central hall, prefaced by a small vestibule. At one side of the hall are dining room and kitchen, beyond which are the servants' quarters and garage. At the other side of the hall is a living room opening in turn to a sun porch.

Montpelier offers an inviting ensemble of living room, sunroom, dining room, four master bedrooms, five baths, servants' rooms, recreation room in basement, two-car garage. It is on Spoede road, within walking distance of Mary Institute, Villa Duchesne and Chaminade College.

The Spoede Road Improvement Co., the developer of Colonial Hills, will begin at once the construction of the second of its 15 reproductions of famous colonial homes of famous persons, the site being the knoll just north of the site of Montpelier.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. TO CONTINUE HOME BUILDING

Reports that the St. Louis Home Construction Division of Sears, Roebuck & Co. was to be discontinued were denied by Lowell G. Collins, district manager.

Collins said the rumor very likely emanated because of some reorganization plans that are being put into effect in the St. Louis district office at the present time.

"We are entirely satisfied with our operations in St. Louis even though home building, like every other industry, has been considerably retarded," Collins said. "Our St. Louis division will hereafter be operated under the personal direction of J. B. Keitz as district manager. Our plans for the St. Louis area are the same as they were when we opened this district office. The division will be continued and as conditions improve expansion of our activities will be in direct proportion to the demands of the market.

PEVELY CO. BUYS CORNER AT GRAND AND ST. LOUIS AV.

The Pevely Dairy Co. has purchased the building at the northwest corner of Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue. The site has 115 feet on Grand boulevard and 105 feet on St. Louis avenue. The annual gross rental aggregates $9600.

The Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 3300-02 Chippewa street, a store building with flat above to the Merb Candy Co., for Frank F. Reitz. They also sold 5381 Delor street, brick bungalow, to Edward Weldlich and wife, and a brick bungalow for Louis Koch to Charles C. and Clara C. Groerich and 3419 Alberta street, a single flat, for Theodore J. and Emma Merb, to Florence K. Queensen and Frank F. Reitz, and 3725 South Spring avenue to Otto B. Stark and wife.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, won her third women's trans-Mississippi golf championship yesterday, defeating Mrs. Ignatius S. Hynes, Normandie Golf Club, 10 and 8, in their 36-hole final match of the fifth annual tournament at the St. Louis Country Club.

The women played their match on a blazing hot day and the heat and humidity had much to do with the result, or at least with the score, for Mrs. Hynes, while she was fresh in the morning, held doggedly to Mrs. Hill's heels for 12 holes, the two being even after the dozen holes were completed.

Mrs. Hynes began to complain of feeling faint at No. 11 and for the last six holes of the morning round she hardly hit a shot squarely. She was swinging her clubs with little or no snap and every shot was plainly an effort. The upshot of it all was that with her drives going only a few yards off the tees, in many instances, she lost six holes in succession and left herself an impossible handicap in the afternoon.

The two-hour rest between the morning and afternoon rounds refreshed her somewhat and she began the second 18 holes with renewed energy but after winning the first hole, she wilted again and Mrs. Hill, a strong woman who was affected less by the heat than was Mrs. Hynes, went on to win easily.

A Good Match Early in Day.

While the match was a match there was little to choose between the two. Mrs. Hynes was hitting her shots well off the tee, up with, and often ahead of, Mrs. Hill.

The St. Louis woman threw away several chances to win holes early in the contest by misdirected putts and she also had some bad breaks with putts hopping in the hole and out again.

Pressed hard by Mrs. Hynes, Mrs. Hill turned the first nine in 44 against a 42 for the Normandie star, and that was probably the worst nine holes Mrs. Hill had all week. On the second nine of the morning round each hole was won after the tee shots, Mrs. Hill was free to play for a score and she got a 37 to wind up the morning holes with 81. In the afternoon, Mrs. Hill had 42 for the first nine and a par 4 on the tenth and last hole while Mrs. Hynes had 45 and a 5 on the last hole.

They halved the first hole with par fives in the morning and although Mrs. Hill took a bad five

By W. J. McGoogan.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, won her third women's trans-Mississippi golf championship yesterday, defeating Mrs. Ignatius S. Hynes, Normandie Golf Club, 10 and 8, in their 36-hole final match of the fifth annual tournament at the St. Louis Country Club.

The women played their match on a blazing hot day and the heat and humidity had much to do with the result, or at least with the score, for Mrs. Hynes, while she was fresh in the morning, held doggedly to Mrs. Hill's heels for 12 holes, the two being even after the dozen holes were completed.

Mrs. Hynes began to complain of feeling faint at No. 11 and for the last six holes of the morning round she hardly hit a shot squarely. She was swinging her clubs with little or no snap and every shot was plainly an effort. The upshot of it all was that with her drives going only a few yards off the tees, in many instances, she lost six holes in succession and left herself an impossible handicap in the afternoon.

The two-hour rest between the morning and afternoon rounds refreshed her somewhat and she began the second 18 holes with renewed energy but after winning the first hole, she wilted again and Mrs. Hill, a strong woman who was affected less by the heat than was Mrs. Hynes, went on to win easily.

A Good Match Early in Day.

While the match was a match there was little to choose between the two. Mrs. Hynes was hitting her shots well off the tee, up with, and often ahead of, Mrs. Hill.

The St. Louis woman threw away several chances to win holes early in the contest by misdirected putts and she also had some bad breaks with putts hopping in the hole and out again.

Pressed hard by Mrs. Hynes, Mrs. Hill turned the first nine in 44 against a 42 for the Normandie star, and that was probably the worst nine holes Mrs. Hill had all week. On the second nine of the morning round each hole was won after the tee shots, Mrs. Hill was free to play for a score and she got a 37 to wind up the morning holes with 81. In the afternoon, Mrs. Hill had 42 for the first nine and a par 4 on the tenth and last hole while Mrs. Hynes had 45 and a 5 on the last hole.

They halved the first hole with par fives in the morning and although Mrs. Hill took a bad five

*Field.

Mate, never a great distance back and in hand first five-eighths, began working his way up, racing wide going into the far turn lost ground entering the stretch and closing gamely wore down Pittsburgher but faltered and just lasted. Letter sent up with a rush after three-quarters drew into a good lead approaching final eighth and while failing to withstand winner, held on stubbornly and was strongest at end. Joey Bibb began very slowly, lost much ground and closed fast. Morpheus gradually improved his position during final quarter. Spanish Play had a rough trip. Boys Howdy taken across sharply after start, had good speed but weakened. Oswego weakened. Ladder stopped badly. Sun Meadow met interference shortly after the start, worked way up on outside and faltered badly after bearing out badly at far turn.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Mate, which conquered Twenty Grand in the Preakness, galloped to victory in the $50,000 American Derby at Washington Park today. The chestnut three-year-old owned by A. C. Bostwick of Philadelphia, won in a thrilling, driving finish with Pittsburgher, gaining the victory by the narrowest possible margin—by a nose.

Joey Bibb, a sensational allowance race performer in the West, furnished a stunning surprise by finishing third, three lengths ahead of Morpheus, the third outsider to share in the rich purse.

Mate finished the mile and a quarter in 2:04 1-5, equalling the track record set by Montanaro, two years ago, when he carried only 98 pounds. The Bostwick entry had the heavy impost of 126 pounds top weight, in the Derby. A crowd of 40,000 saw the race.

Mate, outstanding favorite, rewarded his backers with $4.50 to win, $3.84 to place and $3.10 to show. Pittsburgher paid $19.28 to place and $12.02 to show. The show price on Joey Bibb was $11.90.

The race had a gross value of $58,675, with $48,675 going to Owner Bostwick. Pittsburgher, owned by Theodore E. Mueller of Kentucky, earned $6000 for finishing second, while C. E. Van Meter, another Kentuckian, the owner of Joey Bibb, received $3000. The San Mateo Stock Farm of California, owners of Morpheus, which took fourth place, was awarded $1000.

The shocking upset was the overwhelming defeat of Sun Meadow, which finished second to Twenty Grand in the Belmont Stakes a week ago. He never was in the running today and came in last in the field of 11. Sun Meadow met with interference shortly after the start, but worked his way up to fourth place, only to falter badly after swerving at the far turn. He was second choice in the betting.

Mate Victor By a Nose.

Mate, off to a slow start and outrun early, staged a remarkably courageous drive under the handling of Georgie Ellis to come from seventh place in the last half mile and overtake the flying Pittsburgher in the stretch. Mate got away in fourth position with Boys Howdy setting the pace.

At the quarter pole Mate was seventh, hugging the rail. Boys Howdy continued in the lead at the half mile, with Ellis still hugging the rail and running seventh. On the back stretch, however, he moved to the outside and when the three-quarter mark was reached he was charging into fourth place six lengths back of Ladder, which had snatched the lead.

Bounding into the stretch Jockey Ellis twiced flipped his whip against the sides of the brown colt. Mate responded like a flash and moved past Pittsburgher.

Although headed, Pittsburgher came on again with a furious burst of speed under the punishing ride of Jockey Charlie Corbett. Mate had plenty in reserve, however, and Ellis, with his masterly riding skill, dashed on to a nose victory.

Schmeling or Stribling?

WITH only 10 days remaining for training, Max Schmeling of Hamburg, Germany, heavyweight champion of the world, and William Lawrence Stribling, challenger, expect to throw all of the energy they can summon into this week's workouts. The next seven days should be rough on sparring partners in both camps.

The heavy caliber publicity guns will begin firing this week. The press associations, news services and major newspapers have staff correspondents on the ground at Cleveland taking a look at the rivals.

They are getting a good eyeful. Two finer-looking specimens of young manhood would be hard to imagine. Both men, reports say, are physically ready for the test but their "wind" still must be sharpened for the 15-round encounter—a savage ordeal that tries the heart, the legs, the lungs and, above all, the courage of the battlers. Ordinary preparation is not sufficient to carry a fighter through.

Stribling Popular Choice.

WHILE most of the observers already have made up their minds that Stribling is the boy who will be champion on July 4 next, there are a few who remembering Schmeling's battles against Johnny Risko, whom he stopped, and Paulino, whom he butchered, think the German has an excellent chance.

Then there is the compromise opinion which holds that Stribling has a fine opportunity to knock out Schmeling during the first eight rounds, but that the German will win if it goes further.

Most of the skepticism about Schmeling is due to the fact that he has fought only one fight in two years and was getting a fine polishing in that. A foul by Sharkey seemingly was all that saved him from defeat. One fight in two years is not enough to convert an admittedly rough

ALLISON DEFEATS BELL IN NET EVENT FINAL

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 20.—Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., today won the grass court tennis championship of Delaware by defeating Berkeley Bell, formerly of Texas, but now of New York. The scores were 2—6, 6—2, 6—2.

After his defeat in the singles, Bell with Edward Jacobs, a resident of Baltimore and a graduate of the University of Pittsburg, won the doubles championship by defeating Bruce Barnes and Karl Kamrath of the University of Texas, in a torrid match. The scores were 6—4, 9—7, 13—11.

DUDLEY WINS WESTERN OPEN WITH 280 TOTAL

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., June 20.—Big Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., captured the Western open golf championship by four strokes today after giving the balloon ball four of the merriest rides of its stormy career.

Taming the larger pellet with an unusual and consistent brilliancy, Dudley toured the heavily-tripped Miami Valley Golf Club fairways with cards of 69-70-70-71 to pile up a 72-hole total of 280, just four shots lower than Walter Hagen of Detroit, the runner-up. It was the fourth lowest total since the Western open began back in 1899 and four strokes under par for the distance.

Seventeen birdies rattled off the big fellow's clubs and gave him more than enough insurance for the 11 holes on which he required extra strokes over perfect figures. He was the "big shot" of the three-day tournament almost all the way, landing one behind at the end of the first 18-round and taking the lead and stretching it the rest of the journey.

Seven shots away from the new champion and three away from the "Haig" came Gene Sarazen of New York, 1930 winner of the championship, and Jock Collins, Dayton's home town pride. Olin Dutra of Los Angeles ranked fifth with 289, while Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock, Ark., pro., liked the oppressive heat that parched the fairways and landed in a sixth place tie with Bob MacDonald, Chicago golf teacher, with 290. Sixteen others shattered 300, including Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., 291, and George von Elm, Detroit, 292.

Walter Hagen, Detroit	284—$300
Gene Sarazen, New York	287—$175
Jock Collins, Dayton, O.	287—$175
Olin Dutra, Los Angeles	289—$100
Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock, Ark.	290—$ 85
Bob MacDonald, Chicago	290—$ 85
Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal.	291—$ 70
George von Elm, Detroit	292—$ 65
Joe Ezar, Hot Springs, Ark.	294—$ 60

GOODMAN BEATS BOLSTAD FOR MEN'S T-M TITLE

YALE OVERCOMES LEAD OF 6-0 TO WIN FROM PRINCETON NINE, 13-6

NEW YORK, June 20.—Though outhit, the Yale Bulldogs took advantage of the wildness of Princeton's pitchers and the uncertain support accorded them to score a 13 to 6 victory over the Tigers today in the deciding game of their annual series for baseball supremacy. Princeton was beaten after having a lead of 6-0 in the third.

After an 18-Year Absence, Quinn Wins In National League

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 20.

JACK QUINN, 46-year-old pitcher of the Brooklyn Robins, was credited with his first National League victory in 18 years today, when a ninth-inning rally gave the Robins a 6 to 5 decision over the Chicago Cubs. Quinn, who joined Brooklyn this year after being released by the Athletics, entered the contest in the eighth as a relief pitcher.

The veteran was with the Boston Braves in 1913.

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BOSTON, Mass., June 20.—Old Tom Zachary and a little clod of dirt cut the Cardinals' first place margin in half this afternoon. Zachary baffled the Redbirds in the first game of a double-header, holding them to four hits and beating them 5 to 1 and the little clod of dirt turned a simple grounder to Sparky Adams into a two-base hit that enabled the Braves to break a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning and win the second contest of the afternoon, 3 to 2. With the Giants winning a double-header from the Pirates, the Cardinals' lead was reduced from four to two games.

Zachary was too good for Gabby Street's warriors in the first contest, but if it hadn't been for the clod of dirt and a lot of bad luck the league leaders might have avoided their first double defeat of the season.

Freddie Maguire was the man who hit the ball that hit the clod. He was first up in the ninth and sent a polite grounder toward Adams. At least it was polite at the start. But just as Sparky was about to scoop it up and throw to Collins, the ball hit the clod, slithered at right angles to Adams' right hand and rolled out into left field, crossed the foul line and became a two-base hit.

Hunnefield batted for Cunningham and bunted, and, while Tony Kaufmann was guilty of bad judgment in throwing to third, much too late to get Maguire, that didn't have any effect on the outcome of the game. Whitey Dreesen, the tow-headed Boston third sacker, then skipped a single just out of Frisch's reach and Maguire trotted home with the winning run and a crowd of 25,000 fans went home happy.

Cardinals Miss Opportunity.

The Cardinals had run into hard luck in their half of the ninth, missing a fine chance to take a lead. With one out, Orsatti batted for Stout and was safe on a fumble by Dreesen. Adams then started a clean single toward right field, but Orsatti ran right in the path of the ball, and when the ball hit him on the foot he was out. Watkins followed with a single to right and Frisch walked, filling the bases, but Ripper Collins couldn't rip off a base hit and his soft fly to Worthington ended the frame.

Dreesen's double and Worthington's single had produced a run for the Braves in the first inning, and Schulmerich's triple and Cronin's single made it 2-0 in the fourth.

Successive singles by Martin, Wilson and Flowers gave the Cards one in the fifth and they tied the score in the sixth on Hafey's single, a passed ball and Martin's third hit, a double to left.

Zachary Baffles Cards.

Street's sluggers were helpless before Zachary's assortment of bunky doodle slants in the opening game. In five of the nine innings he turned back the Redbirds in order and the four Cardinal safeties were scattered over as many innings.

Martin opened the eighth in-

By James M. Gould.

Charley Ruffing, the big New York pitcher, lives in Nokomis, Ill., but is very fond of St. Louis. He ought to be. On May 14, Ruffing defeated the Browns here, holding them hitless for seven innings. Since that victory, he had failed to achieve brackets until yesterday when he permitted just two St. Louis hits, one in the first and the other in the ninth and won for the Yankees, 9-1.

Blaeholder was bumped for four runs in the first, one in the third and three in the eighth, Kimsey yielding one in the ninth. Among the 12 New York hits was Lou Gehrig's thirteenth homer of the year inserted into the game in the eighth with one on.

Goslin singled off Ruffing in the first and Kress got a one-bagger with one out in the ninth. That was the extent of what is sometimes laughingly labeled the "Browns' attack."

Blaeholder Pounded in First.

Yankee guns raked Blaeholder fore and aft in the opening inning. Combs singled as a starter and sped to third on a double by Lary. Ruth shot a single to left-center for two runs and Gehrig singled him to second. Chapman's single scored Ruth. Dickey lined to Goslin, who made a great throw home, but Ferrell missed the ball and Gehrig scored. The Browns responded with one run in their half on a pass to Schulte, Goslin's single and Kress' fly to Chapman. Ruth walked to begin the Yankee third and Gehrig doubled to center to put him on third. Chapman's fly to Goslin admitted the Babe.

Goslin's hit in the first did the Browns for quite a while. They didn't even bother Ruffing in the second, third, fourth or fifth. And, after the third, Blaeholder seemed to get his "stuff" back for, in the fourth and fifth, he set the Yanks down in order. When he retired Gehrig on a grounder to Burns in the sixth, Blaeholder brought to an end a Gehrig batting streak of six straight safeties in the two games.

This sixth was another out-in-order inning for the Yanks, and when the inning was completed the Browns still had their one safe hit.

Yanks Count Three More.

Either the Yanks were getting tired or Blaeholder was getting good—any way in the seventh, for the fourth frame in succession, the Yanks were retired without geting a man on. There wasn't anything especially wrong with Ruffing, either, for the three Browns who faced him in this inning just consumed a bit of the sunny afternoon. Blaeholder gave way first. In the eighth, with one down, Lary was safe on a bad throw by Levey and after Ruth had rolled out Gehrig bounced a homer off the pavilion roof. Then Chapman tripled and scored when Dickey did likewise. The Browns floundered hitlessly through their half.

Kimsey pitched the ninth for Killefer and the Yanks added a run. With one out in the last half, Kress singled but a double play ended the game.

Brownie Notes.

ST. LOUIS fans today will get their first peek at young "Lefty" Hebert, the Browns' 19-year-old left-hander, who in his first start, easily defeated the world champion Athletics. Hebert will pitch one of the games of the scheduled double-header with the Yanks. Walter Stewart, after his eighth 1931 decision, will work the other.

Tuesday will be "Melillo day" with the Athletics playing the Browns two games as an added attraction. The local Italian colony and the Knights of Columbus have the day in charge. Several gifts will be presented the deservedly-popular second baseman.

The first five Yankees to face Blaeholder hit safety. Four of the hits were singles and one a double. Also, in this opening inling, Chapman stole his twenty-third base of the year.

New York's infield, as usual, swung way round to the right for Goslin in the first and he singled directly over second.

One of the New York writers summed up the American League race this way: "The teams behind the Yanks are falling farther behind them and the two in front are running farther ahead, so it looks as though New York had been conceded third place."

Four Brownies saw first in the first two innings. Three were recipients of passes from Ruffing.

Lary's stop of Melillo's grounder in the third took what looked like a sure hit away from Oscar. It was a fine piece of defensive work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PITCHER GIVES ONLY ONE HIT

The extreme heat may have affected some players adversely yesterday afternoon, but John Watson, pitcher on the Dr. Fry M. E. baseball team found it to his liking and permitted Tyler Place Presbyterian only one hit in nine innings, and Dr. Frey won easily, 8 to 2. The game was played in the Sunday School division of the Municipal League.

The losers' runs were scored on a pair of walks, stolen bases and two errors. The walks were two of the six issued by Watson.

In the Commercial League the Currans missed a chance to tie for the lead with the M. K. & T. team by dropping the second game of a doubleheader, 4 to 8, after winning the first, 11 to 7. As a result of the games, M. K. & T. leads the league with six victories and two defeats and the Currans are second with five victories and three losses.

Cards Lose Two Games To Braves, 5-1 and 3-2

ning with a double to right, but he was still on second when the frame ended. Blades, Mancuso and Frisch were the others who hit Zachary safely, each getting a single.

Zachary would have had a shutout had his support been perfect. Blades singled, to start the fourth inning, and was forced by Frisch. Frankie stole second and took third on Spohrer's high throw and scored while Dreesen was throwing out Collins.

Rhem was in trouble in almost every inning, but he pitched out of one jam after another and had his support been better he could have carried the game into extra innings.

Zachary doubled in the third inning, took third when Mancuso threw low, trying to pick him off second, and scored on a wild pitch.

The Braves' one untainted run was scored in the fourth on singles by Worthington and Sheely and Schulmerich's double.

Two were out in the seventh when Boston started its three-run rally. Worthington was credited with a single when Flowers kicked his simple grounder and Sheely then scratched a single to deep short. Schulmerich hit a pop fly to short right and Collins, who is not any too sure on pop flies, reached the ball but dropped it and it was scored as a double, Worthington scoring. Spohrer was walked intentionally, filling the bases, and Maguire upset the strategy by lining a double to left, scoring Sheely and Schulmerich.

The weather was sultry and hot and the Cardinals didn't show their usual dash and pepper. But they're still in first place.

Redbird Notes.

BOSTON, June 20.

BURLEIGH Grimes and Paul Derringer will be the starting pitchers for the Redbirds in tomorrow's double-header.

Fred Hoey, Boston radio announcer, was honored at today's twin bill. He received a share of the gate receipts and many gifts from fans.

The attendance was estimated at 25,000.

Gabby Street was going to use Walter Roettger in right field against Zachary in the first game, but the St. Louis boy was still suffering from a sore arm and Blades drew the assignment.

Jess Haines, with his right wrist still wrapped with tape, rejoined the Cards today. A line drive off Babe Herman's bat dislocated a small bone, and he had been convalescing at his home in Phillipsburg, O. He said he might be able to work during the series at Philadelphia.

Martin reached third on a drive to left center in the second inning of the first game, but a fan reached out of the bleachers and touched the ball with his hand, so the umpires called it a two-base hit and ordered Martin back to second.

Collins went hitless in both games and flied out with the bases filled in the ninth inning of the second contest. Jim Bottomley probably will be at first base soon, as Collins has made some mistakes as a result of inexperience.

Pepper Martin has started to hit again. He got two doubles and a single in the second game. In the opener he crashed into the wall in right center chasing Schulmerich's double, but the fence got the worst of it.

Martin robbed Worthington of a hit in the eighth inning of the first game, making a diving catch and holding the ball as he rolled over and over like a Japanese tumbler.

JUNIOR GOLF MEET BEGINS AT OSAGE TOMORROW

Seventy-three young golfers have been paired for the annual junior golf tournament of the St. Louis District which gets under way with an 18-hole qualifying round at the Osage Country Club tomorrow morning. W. E. BARKER ELECTED TO OFFICE IN U. S. F. A.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Baltimore was chosen for the 1932 meeting, and Armstrong Patterson, Detroit, was re-elected president today at the final session of the United States football association.

Elmer H. Schroeder, Philadelphia, was elected first vice president, William T. Angus, Cleveland, second vice president, Mintone Barker, St. Louis, third vice president; W. R. Cummings, Chicago, treasurer, and James Armstrong, New York, secretary.

The association decided that the national cup soccer final would be a one-game affair instead of three games. The latter plan was tried this year but was not financially successful.

ATHLETICS WIN IN EXTRA FRAME AFTER WHITE SOX TIE IN NINTH

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 20.—It took the Philadelphia Athletics 10 innings to beat the White Sox today, but they did it by the score of 5 to 4, to make it two straight in the series. A three-hit attack on Ted Lyons in the tenth brought victory after Luke Appling, pinch-hitting for Frasier in the ninth, had tied the score with a home run.

McKain started for Chicago and was nicked for three runs in the early innings. After this the champs were held scoreless until the extra inning when Bishop and Haas singled, Simmons hit a long fly to score Bishop, Foxx walked and Miller doubled.

SI JOHNSON HURLS REDS TO AN EVEN BREAK WITH PHILS

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—Silas Johnson, young pitching star of the Cincinnati Reds, gave his team an even break in their doubleheader with the Phillies today, keeping the Phils' nine hits scattered in the final game for a 4 to 1 victory, after three Red hurlers had been hamered for an 11 to 6 defeat in the first.

The Phils made 19 hits in the Opener, piling up a nine-run lead in the first few innnigs. Then Benge wilted in the heat and the Reds staged a scare for their opponents by rallying for six runs in the sixth. Jim Elliott held them safely thereafter.

Because of the heat Umpire McGrew withdrew from the first game in the seventh inning, but returned for the second. There were two casualties, Stripp of Cincinnati being hit on the thumb, and Mallon of the Phils suffering a spike wound.

Grinnell Star To Play in U. S. Clay Court Meet

Entry of John Taten of Omaha, Filipino student at Grinnell College and Missouri Valley Conference titleholder, in the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament here the week of June 29, was announced today by Karl Kammann, chairman of the Tournament Entry Committee.

Other entries announced were those of Donald Cram of Nashville, Tenn., former nationally known junior star; Paul Halpine of Omaha and Gordon Braudt of Chicago. Braudt is expected to team up with George Jennings of Chicago, National Public Parks champion, in the doubles.

Taten won the 1931 Missouri Valley Conference tournament by defeating Vernon Tietjen of Washington University, St. Louis, in the final match. Taten also was runnerup in the Central Intercollegiate Championships at Chicago, defaulting to Tietjen in the final round. Taten is the first ranking player in Omaha while Halpine is second.

Although the starting date of the tournament is still more than a week distant, work has begun on the stands which will accommodate the thousands of tennis fans expected to watch the stars who will perform on the Triple A courts.

Don Zeiter of Montpelier, O., is promoting the races in the name of the Buckeye Auto Racing Association, and says he expected to have a dustless track as the result of spreading of oil on the strip yesterday.

c. the second, she won when Mrs. Hynes' putt hopped out of the cup.

Square After Nine Holes.

Mrs. Hill hit a fine tee shot to the third green while Mrs. Hynes put hers in the trap, then blasted out 15 feet past the cup, ran the putt down for a par 3, only to lose when Mrs. Hill sank an 8-footer for a deuce, the second she had made on the hole in two days.

They halved the next three holes then Mrs. Hynes won her first victory, scoring a par 3 on the short seventh hole, while Mrs. Hill, trapped to the right with her tee shot, pitched out and over the green into another trap. She required two to get out of there and when the fifth shot was just on the green, she conceded the hole.

They halved the eighth hole, then Mrs. Hynes squared the match at the ninth with a par 5 when her third shot was nicely on the green, while Mrs. Hill looked up on her third and failed to get on.

The tenth was halved with par 4s, the eleventh with birdie 4s and the twelfth with par 3s.

Mrs. Hynes Loses Six in Row.

Mrs. Hynes went to pieces after that and lost the next six holes, Mrs. Hill going one over par to take a 6 on the thirteenth, getting a birdie 4 on the fourteenth, a par 5 on the fifteenth, a 3 on the sixteenth, a 4 on the seventeenth and another birdie 4 on the eighteenth.

Mrs. Hynes had a tough break or the eighteenth hole when, after being to the right of the green with her second shot, she pitched on only to have Mrs. Hill lay her a stymie after the Kansas City player had been very fortunate in getting over the trap with her second shot.

Starting the afternoon round, Mrs. Hill's second was in a trap to the right of the green and she required four more to reach the green to lose the hole to Mrs. Hynes, who had reached the green in three and took two putts.

They halved the second with 4s, while Mrs. Hill got a 3 on the second hold to go 6 up again. The fourth, fifth and sixth were halved, after which Mrs. Hill started her victory march, going over par on only one of the next four holes to win.

Tournament Notes.

Mrs. Hill is to stay over to play an exhibition match at the Country Club today She is to meet Donald Lambert, Country Club amateur; Edgar Jennings, Sunset Hill amateur, and Art Longworth, Country Club professional, in an 18-hole contest in which Mrs. Hill will play each of the men individually.

There was but a small crowd following the final match. In the morning there were only about 200 persons while in the afternoon about the same number left the first tee with the players. The crowd was increased to about 400 by the time the fourth hole was reached but few followed the match down into the valley at the east end of the course. The heat was just too much.

Jane Hynes, 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Hynes, followed her mother every step of the way and was among the first to congratulate Mrs. Hill on her victory. Asked what she thought of the match, Jane remarked: 'I don't think."

A camera man clicking his shutter disturbed Mrs. Hill when she was putting on the fifth green in the afternoon. She had the putt lined up but when the camera clicked she stepped away from her ball and started all over again.

Mrs. Hill likes the new ball. She says she drives it just as well as she did the old ball but can't putt it quite so well. She thinks the new ball has better results for a real good putter, however, for she contends that a good putter strikes the ball firmly and sends it on its way, while a poor putter doesn't hit the ball just right and the new ball gets off line more quickly than did the smaller and heavier sphere.

The champion plans to play in the women's Western tournament and also in the women's national this year.

Mrs. Hill won the qualifying round in the tournament also, scoring a 76. She played six complete rounds of the course altogether, and on three of them she broke 80. She had 76 twice and a record-breaking 72 in the semifinal match Besides that she had an 80 and an 82.

During the tournament she defeated Mrs. Stanley Alexander, Little Rock; Mrs. R. C. Greenlease, Kansas City; Mrs. R. J. Kohn, North Hills; Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., Country Club, and Mrs. Hynes.

Mrs. Hynes had a rocky road to her final match. She won from Mrs. R. I. Caughey, Triple A.; Betty Bruen, young Kansas City star; Lucille Robinson, sensational Des Moines (Ia.) youngster, and Mrs. J. Walter Beyer, Oklahoma women's champion.

Mrs. S. G. Hopkins, Texarkana, Tex., defeated Mrs. R. J. Bullard, Springfield, Ill., to win the championship consolation, 3 and 2.

By the Associated Press.

WOODMERE, N. Y., June 20.—Army's polo four won the intercollegiate handicap tournament today by whipping Harvard in the final round, 6 to 5.

The Cadets, lowest handicapped team in the tournament, were given a 2-goal handicap but Harvard opened the game with a rush and quickly moved into a 4—3 lead.

Army pulled itself together after the third period, however, and forged ahead on fourth-period goals by Beebe and Cusack. Army's ace performer, Lieut. Rogers, gave the Cadets a 6—4 lead with a spectacular goal in the fifth period and this advantage was maintained until the final minute of play when Crispin Cooke started a late Harvard rally.

AMERICANS WIN SIXTEEN FIRSTS FROM CANADIANS IN TRACK MEET

MONTREAL, Canada, June 20.—American athletes went over big here today, when they completely dominated the Jubilee track meet of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, today. Americans finished first in 16 events and among the winners Barney Berlinger stood out, winning four firsts—the shotput, the javelin throw, the discus throw and the high jump. Berlinger put the shot 47 feet 3 inches, threw the javelin 178 feet 4 inches, hurled the discus 122 feet 7 inches and high-jumped an even six feet. He thus won four of the five events in which he competed.

Clark Chamberlain of Michigan and W. C. McCormick of Notre Dame each won two firsts. Chamberlain taking the two mile and the mile runs, while McCormick won the two sprints.

Miss Stella Walsh of Cleveland, also shone in the women's events in which she took two firsts, the 100 and 200 meter races. Miss Walsh stepped the 100 meters in 12 3-5 seconds and the 200 meters in 26 seconds.

Other American winners were Lee Sentman, Illinois U., 120-yard hurdles; Thomas H. Coulter, Carnegie Tech., 440-yard hurdles; Phil Edwards, New York University, half-mile run; Ralph Johnston, Notre Dame pole vault; and the United States half mile relay team, consisting of Alex Wilson, Notre Dame; K. Pearcy, St. Lawrence, Coulter and McCormick, which defeated a Canadian team in 1:30.

Coulter placed third behind two Montreal contestants, L. Hutton and H. Crabtree, in the broad jump. Hutton won the event with a leap of 22 feet 6½ inches.

Sport Salad

By L. C. DAVIS.

Ode to a Ball-Hawk.

THOUGH our ball-hawk no longer
Will soar as a Redbird
The Reds will be stronger
As he is no dead bird.

The fans have been trying
For years to say "Douthit,"
And where he's now hieing,

Than whom none are fleeter,
Can cover an acre,
Eight rods and a meter.

Upon his keen eyeballs
We'll bet our last dollar;
He's a great judge of fly-balls,
A gent and a scholar.

That's So.

Taylor may not have got much of a break in being shifted to Cincinnati but the Cards weren't so hot either when he first joined the organization.

With four clubs battling for last place the American League race promises to be one of the hottest on record. First place has been practically conceded to the White Elephants who ought to win by about 10 trunk lengths.

Just to show Hack Wilson that there was no ill feeling, Rogers Hornsby benched himself when he took a nose dive into a batting slump. Strategy we calls it.

See where Pete Donohue has landed with the Cleveland Indians which is the logical place for a former Red.

The man in the sand trap says as far as he can see the new golf ball hasn't cut down the holes-in-one to any appreciable extent.

"Nathan Says 'Talkies' Will Fail in Five Years."

AND then the moving picture stars
Must carry on with fewer cars;
And we'll return to flesh and blood
When "talkies" have become a dud.

Eddie Collins who was placed on the retired list on June 15 will, we presume, become chairman of the board of strategy.

When interviewed, Eddie, who is 44 years old, attributed his extreme age to the fact that he always took plenty of outdoor exercise and never crowded the plate.

Although not on the active list, Edward Trowbridge will remain with the A's in the capacity of guide, philosopher and friend and may on occasion be rolled out to third base in his wheel chair and lend a hand at coaching.

"Cincinnati Hopes to Get Out of Cellar."

With Harvey Hendrick swatting flys where they ain't and Taylor Douthit catching 'em where they are, their ambition may be realized.

Don't know whether Dan Howley is using the needle or not, but that boy Hendrick certainly did come to life after joining out with the Reds.

Harvey wasn't so hot as a Redbreast, but as a Redleg he is hitting on everything but the rims.

"Pros May Decide for Smaller Ball."

WRAY'S Column

diamond into a scintillating one. Tough or not, he hasn't had the experience and has not the defense to keep a hard hitter like Stribling from massaging his maxillary.

However, the many facets to the Stribling-Schmeling controversy serve only to make it more interesting. Its many possibilities have started discussions and arguments such as build up interest in fights.

Too Much Safety-First.

THE drawback that has caused the public to hold back its endorsement of the affair is that Stribling, when the question was put to him, in three or more "big shots" during his career, showed a lack of that dash or daring which electrifies spectators and brings them up standing. Over-caution has just about destroyed the popularity of this otherwise wonderful young fellow—a real ace as a man, a double ace as a fighter, if he would only see his chance.

Apparently Stribling invites the enemy to take a poke at him; but if the unwary foe does, it's just too bad, for that left can come up like a kangaroo's kick or his right can crash over for a kill, according to the lead of his opponent. In this position Stribling is set to advance or back away and a lot of his tactics call for this backward shuffling to bring his foe in on the run.

Stribling's nature is that of the counter fighter, who waits for mistakes of his opponent and then plugs him. Against inferiors he takes the aggressive and he is a genuine killer then.

Stribling's right hand is his chief weapon and there is no fighter of his weight who can hit harder than he. His right is every bit as good as Georges Carpentier's was when that boxer was in his heydey and it is faster.

A la Jack Dempsey.

SCHMELING is a stylist of another sort. He has aped the stance of Jack Dempsey whom he resembles facially. He stands with his feet apart, almost on a line, with both hands "cocked" ready to shoot with either. He is of the "walk-in" type, assumes the aggressive from the start and keeps after his foe even when knocked back on his heels.

He has an indifferent left which is not figured as a serious threat and a right hand which all but wrecked that solid piece of near-granite, Paulino Uzcudun. His forte is supposed to be his ability to "take it" and still come on to win, like the famous Battling Nelson.

What will happen when his combination of fighting styles tangles in Cleveland is now just conjecture. If Stribling adds another complex by resorting to his well-known holding and wrestling tactics, the mystery will deepen—and so will the "blues" that have enveloped the heavyweight boxing game.

How the "Toy" Has Grown.

MICKEY WALKER, the "toy bulldog" of yesterday has lost a championship without lifting a hand to defend it. Old Man Avoirdupois surged over him and put him down for the count. And so today Mickey concedes the victory.

Because he no longer desired to struggle against his appetites or wrestle with his too, too solid flesh, Walker has surrendered his middleweight fight title, score Fleshpots 2, Mickey 0.

It is, in fact, the second time that Mickey has gone down before Old Man Obesity. The first time was several years ago, when Mickey was welterweight champion. Pete Latzo took the crown away from Mickey and Joe Dundee knocked him out later, because Mickey could not keep under the 147-pound weight limit without weakening himself. Now it has happened again. Walker has outgrown the middleweights.

Henceforth, Mickey will hurdle the light heavyweight class and go into the broad field of heavyweights, in which he can expand his waist line to his heart's content. There is no limit to a heavyweight, although some of them are the limit.

Look Out, Mr. Sharkey.

There is neither profit nor glory in fighting Maxie. He's a joke as a fighter—to everybody but the man he faces. Mickey says there's nothing in it for him to beat Rosenbloom; and we believe that too. He probably couldn't.

Mickey and Jack Sharkey would draw a whale of a house and it might be a whale of a fight. Although Sharkey would have 20 pounds weight advantage, there are many who believe that Mickey would climb up to the eye and whip the sailor.

There is a feeling that Sharkey doesn't like being looked in the orb.

In any case, Mickey will be something new in heavyweight circles and, after seeing his fight Johnny Risko, we are inclined to believe that he will be a help not a hindrance, in his new sphere.

STRIBLING DOES ALL HIS BOXING FOR SCHMELING FIGHT AT NIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., June 20.—A couple of young business men, with a million dollars or so at stake, are busily preparing to give the midwest in general and Ohio in particular the biggest fistic thrill that has wandered out this way since Jack Dempsey battered the Giant Jess Willard into subjection at Toledo in 1919.

On the shores of Conneaut Lake in Pennsylvania, almost 100 miles away, Max Schmeling is clouting sparring partners daily, while just on the fringe of the city, at Geauga Lake, Bill Stribling trains at night in gentler fashion. And in less than two weeks, these two will battle 15 rounds for the heavyweight championship, in Cleveland's new Municipal Stadium, on the night of July 3, one day short of the twelfth anniversary of Dempsey's sensational rise to title heights at Toledo.

Another Dempsey?

Schmeling, the champion, sunblackened and aggressive, looks more and more like the young Dempsey of 1919 as he shifts, weaves and whips short punches from either side into the heads and bodies of his helpers. He seems stronger, livelier now than he did a year ago in training for his fiasco with Jack Sharkey in New York, when he won the heavyweight title on a foul. He could step into the ring with Stribling tomorrow, if it were necessary, so fine is his present condition.

The youthful Georgian, old in the fight game but young in years, is equally fit, with the aid of "Pa" Stribling, the father-manager, Bill has figured it out that fighting at night calls for training at night, if he is to keep in perfect tune with conditions as they will be on the night of July 3. As a result the Stribling camp scarcely stirs during the day, but the coming of darkness brings out the sparring partners and the paraphernalia. Stribling goes into the training ring at 9 p. m., the exact time he believes he will be called out to face Schmeling the night before the fourth. Today Bill is close to the 188 pounds he expects to weigh for the title test.

Stadium Seats 100,000.

For both of these youngsters the 15-round duel on the shores of Lake Erie, in the magnificent municipal horseshoe Cleveland had built to hold 100,000 sports fans, spells opportunity in capital letters. Schmeling has never been accepted without reservation as champion because of his failure to give Sharkey a return shot at the title.

The New York State Athletic Commission holds that the crown has no owner and will not have one until Sharkey is disposed of. A decisive victory of the German will at least strengthen the Schmeling case, with the faithful who pay the freight.

Stribling barely lost the decision to Sharkey in Miami, Fla., over two years ago, and since that time has won recognition as the stiffest puncher in the division. He belted out Otto von Porat in Chicago and went to London to flatten Phil Scott when the Englishman was the despair of the heavyweights who could not hit him above the waist.

CO-LEADERS IN COUNTY JUNIOR LEGION BASEBALL DEFEATED

The two leaders in county legion junior baseball play were upset in games played yesterday afternoon. The Webster Groves nine was downed after a hard battle with Overland by a score of 12 to 11. A triple by Hamilton knocked in the winning run. University City, the other co-pace-setter, was beaten by the Carondelet team, which scored one in the final frame to win, 5-4.

The teams still are in a tie for first place. Tomorrow afternoon they will meet in a postponed game, which will virtually decide the winner.

QUESTIONNAIRE BEATS ST. BRIDEAUX IN BROOKLYN HANDICAP

BUTLER STAR IS CLOSE TO TRACK RECORD; SCORES BY ONE LENGTH

By the Associated Press.

AQUEDUCT RACE TRACK, June 20.—Questionnaire, the big train of the handicap division, atoned for his recent defeat by turning in a sparkling effort to win the forty-third running of the Brooklyn Handicap here this afternoon. The pride of James Butler's racing establishment completed the mile and a furlong trip a length in front of the Greentree Stable's smart 3-year-old, St. Brideaux, covering the distance in the fast time of 1:49 under 127 pounds. A. Bartelstein's Sidney Grant finished third, another 10 lengths away.

Frisius, Reveille Boy, an added starter, and Sandy Ford wound up in the wake of the three leaders. Questionnaire's time was only two-fifths of a second away from the track mark made by Peanuts, under 114 pounds, in 1926. The Butler star conceded 11½ pounds to St. Brideaux by the scale, the latter toting 103½. The race was worth $10,900 to the winner, a favorite at 9 to 10.

Sonny Workman broke the choice well on his toes but rated the son of Sting in second position, while Frisius made the pace nearly two lengths clear along the back stretch. Reveille Boy, which won a race yesterday, and was sent right back, was close up, while Kurtsinger had St. Brideaux, Twenty Grand's stable Mate, fourth and within striking distance.

Around the bend, Workman sent Questionnaire up fast around Frisius and when they hit the stretch the favorite was beginnnig to draw clear gradually. Kurtsinger and St. Brideaux then loomed up as the combination to beat and a long drive found St. Brideaux making up some ground, but Questionnaire held him safe under smooth handling. Sidney Grant was an easy third.

HELLRUNGS AGAIN TO HAVE BASEBALL TEAM IN U. CITY LEAGUE

Hellrung & Grimm, for several years in the University City League, returns to the league today after being out the first five games of the season.

Hellrung & Grimm won the championship in the University City League in 1928 and 1929 and ran a strong race last year. Most of last year's team is now associated with the Wellston Chamber of Commerce—leaders to date in the league. However, Hellrung & Grimm promises a strong team under the leadership of "Dutch" Ollerman.

The newcomers will meet the second-place Knapp team today at 2:30 o'clock, in Heman Park on grounds No. 1. The league-leading Wellston Chamber of Commerce nine will meet the St. John's Business Men's Club on diamond No. 2.

TWO ROWING RACES SCHEDULED TODAY ON MISSISSIPPI RIVER

The North End Rowing Club will hold their forty-fifth annual regatta this afternoon. There are two races on the program. The first will be for junior eight-oar shells at 3:30 p. m., distance 1½ miles, downstream. The other event is a junior six-oar barge race at one mile downstream, to start at 5 o'clock.

Western and Central have each won an eight race and a barge race, so they are equal favorites to win, while North End has an outside chance.

TWENTY GRAND AND JAMESTOWN LIKELY TO MEET IN JULY 4 RACE

NEW YORK, June 20.—Although beaten by many lengths in the Belmont Stakes, George D. Widener's Jamestown probably will get another crack at Twenty Grand in the Dwyer, down for decision at Aqueduct July 4. Trainer Andrew Jackson Joyner is at a loss to define the poor showing made by the son of St. James, while there are many horsemen who contend that Jamestown did not run his race. Very few of the number, however, venture to say that Jamestown can defeat Twenty Grand over the mile and one-half—the distance at which the Dwyer will be decided.

Upon Jamestown's showing in the Dwyer depends whether he will be shipped West for the $70,000 classic at Arlington Park on the following Saturday. In the Belmont he did not appear to be the sharp colt that romped away with the Withers and swept six of his seven juvenile engagements last year. A few weeks ago Joyner, the dean of the modern day trainers, held a strong hand for the Arlington Park classic in Jamestown, Hi-Jack and Jack High, but the fortune of racing has left him with only Hi-Jack as an outstanding contender for the handicap events.

It is still early in the racing year, but already three of the most promising of the three-year-old division have been thrown out of training—Insco, Sweep All and Equipoise. The first two probably will not face the barrier again this year, and it is doubtful if Insco ever again will be seen under the colors of Griffin Watkins. Equipoise may be brought around in time for the fall stakes, but it is doubtful.

KNOST TO MEET HOOT BURGER IN BATTERY FIGHT TOMORROW NIGHT

Five six-round bouts have been lined up by Promoter Jack Tippett for his weekly outdoor card tomorrow night at Battery A, featuring Dave Knost, St. Louis heavy, and Roy "Hoot" Burger, Kansas heavyweight, who came to St. Louis last week as sparring partner for Angus Snyder.

Other bouts on Tippett's card: Chick Rains, Oklahoma City, vs. Tom Pivac, St. Louis, heavyweights; Steve Marre, St. Louis, vs. Chief Stanley, Wichita, light heavyweights; Allen Matthews, St. Louis, vs. K. O. Peters, St. Louis, Negro welterweights, and Peewee Terry, St. Louis, vs. Dave Berry, Springfield, Ill., bantamweights.

Burger, Knost's opponent in the feature, went like a prairie fire down in Kansas two or three years ago, but he suffered a serious ailment which kept him out of action for two years. He recently started to beat back by serving as sparring partner for Angus Snyder, who says that Burger has one of the best right hand punches he has ever brought his face against.

Herbie Hahn to Box On Kirkwood Program.

A three-round bout between Herbie Hahn of Kirkwood, welterweight champion of the Western A. A. U., and Eddie Steel of Northwestern University will be the feature of an amateur boxing carnival to be put on by the Kirkwood Lions Club, Saturday night, in the outdoor stadium of Kirkwood High School. Hahn has been defeated only once in four years, his colors being lowered by Eddie Flynn, St. Louis boy attending Loyola University, New Orleans, at Madison Square Garden, where the two were paired in the finals for the national championship.

The semifinal will be between Joie Parks, 135-pound champion of the Western A. A. U., and "Tex" Saunders of East St. Louis. Eddie Batz, former Western A. A. U. middleweight champion of St. Louis, and "Soldier" Taylor, from Jefferson Barracks, have been matched to go three rounds.

R. H. BOOTH, DIPLOMAT AND EDITOR, DIES

U. S. Minister to Denmark Succumbs to Heart Ailment in Vienna Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, June 20.—Ralph Ha mon Booth, 57 years old, United States Minister to Denmark, and editor and publisher, died today at the Kaiserhof Hotel at Bad Gastein, Czecho-Slovakia. The United States Consul-General at Vienna has taken charge of the body.

Booth went to Bad Gastein several weeks ago to undergo treatment for a heart ailment. There he was joined by Mrs. Booth, his daughter, Mrs. Virginia Dickerman Vogel, and his son, John Lord Booth. He had been in ill health since last December when he suffered an attack of influenza. Direct cause of death was said to be kidney trouble.

Business Interests Centered in Newspapers Since 1891.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., June 20.—Ralph Harmon Booth, newspaper editor and publisher and art connoisseur, was born in Toronto, Ontario, Sept. 29, 1873. When he was eight years old his parents moved to Detroit, the city with which his life and business interests have largely been connected.

Booth's early schooling, obtained in public schools of Canada and Detroit, terminated technically when he left school at the age of 15 to enter a bank.

Booth's business interests had been centered in the newspaper field since 1891, when, after three years with the Detroit National Bank, he became cashier of the Detroit Tribune. Three years later he was business manager of that paper. In 1895 he went to Chicago as secretary and business manager of the Chicago Journal, then owned by George G. Booth and James E. Scripps. At the age of 28 he became editor and manager of that newspaper.

Sold the Chicago Journal.

In 1904 the Chicago Journal was sold and Booth returned to Detroit to become editor and publisher of the Detroit Tribune. When that paper was merged with the Detroit News, Booth, in association with his brother, George G. Booth, who owned controlling interest in the Grand Rapids Press, the Muskegon Chronicle and Bay City Times, and other leaders, had visions of building up a group of associated community newspapers.

The syndicate acquired the following eight daily Michigan newspapers: The Grand Rapids Press, the Flint Journal, the Saginaw News, the Kalamazoo Gazette, the Jackson Citizen Patriot, the Bay City Times, the Muskegon Chronicle and the Ann Arbor News, all owned by the Booth Newspapers, Inc., of which he was president up to the time of his death.

Group of Michigan Papers.

In his connections with this group of Michigan papers, Booth held firmly to the opinion that "the modern independent newspaper publisher should look to the people to decide important questions for themselves. With this recognition and of broader and more constructive policies, the newspaper has become more of a social service institution holding 'tacit franchise from the people.' "

He was a director of the Guardian Detroit Bank from its inception, a leader of art affairs in Detroit and a trustee and president of the old Detroit Museum of Art since that institution passed under municipal control in 1919. He also was a director of the Detroit Symphony Society.

President Says Booth's Death Is Loss to Country.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Hoover said today that the death of Ralph Herman Booth, Minister to Denmark, "deprives the public service of an able and devoted man." Earlier Secretary Stimson expressed "deep regret." "Appointed to the post in January, 1930, after a distinguished career in American journalism he had already rendered valuable diplomatic service," President Hoover said. "His death is a loss to the country."

AKRON, Ohio.

IF THE Telephone building in St. Louis were suddenly to turn over on its side and float off into space, it might very well serve as a sister ship to the United States Navy Zeppelin Akron which is rapidly nearing completion here. The capacity in cubic feet of St. Louis' tallest skyscraper and of the world's largest Zeppelin compare very closely.

The content of the Telephone building is 8,270,000 cubic feet. The content of the Akron is approximately 8,000,000 cubic feet. The Zeppelin, of course, is much "taller." It is 785 feet long, as compared with the 369 feet which the Telephone building measures from the penthouse to sub-basement.

The Akron's outer fabric is all but in place. Extra shifts of workmen are carrying out the final tasks. It will be only a short time until this newest and greatest silver whale floats in the air. The builders, the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, will not even guess the exact date of the first trial flight. They are making every effort to complete the Government contract well within the allotted time.

The new Zeppelin might possibly fit into the great hangar at Scott Field, but it would certainly be a tight squeeze. That great structure, as most motorists know, looms like a young mountain against the sky east of Belleville. The clear space inside is 150 feet in height and the Akron is 146.5 feet high, which would allow a margin of only three and a half feet from the top of the hangar, requiring some pretty close maneuvering. It would be a relatively close fit to close the doors of the hangar, too, with a margin of only 25 feet.

Looking up at the Zeppelin in the Goodyear-Zeppelin dock—dock instead of hangar in deference to the navy—all sense of scale and proportion are lost. It might almost be a great toy made by a child from a metal erecting set. So vast is the dock—the largest in the world, so large that sudden atmospheric changes on the outside have been known to produce clouds and rain within the hangar—that it is impossible to gain any idea of the size of the airship.

Only as the shift of workers changes is it plain what an enormous task the building of this monster has been.

The electric siren shrills through the hangar. At once there is life where apparently there was no life before. From far up on the girders inside the ship men begin to scramble down. They scurry from the dozen or more ladders that are built into the steel scaffolding which supports the ship. High up along the curving sides men begin to leave the 8, 10 and 12-tiered suspended scaffolds on which they have been standing to spray aluminum paint onto the fabric. The men call these scaffolds, operated by electric winches, pie racks. The stream of workers grows into a young army, 350 strong. Each at his job, or working in small groups, they had been lost in the immensity of the Akron, so that the eye failed to see them.

Inspectors for the Goodyear company and for the navy follow the last shift of workers. They climb like agile apes, apparently without fear, minutely examining the latest work that has been done. They flatten out stiff blueprints and go over the last work to be installed, piece for piece, rivet for rivet.

THE Akron, for all its bulk, was designed with as much precision and care as the works of a watch. The design, embodying so many radical departures from earlier Zeppelin construction, came, in the last analysis, from the brain of one man, Dr. Karl Arnstein. Dr. Arnstein is chief designer for, and a vice president of, the Zeppelin corporation. For many years he was associated with Count Zeppelin in Germany, and before and during the war planned the construction of more than 70 dirigibles. When the Inter-Allied Air Commission squelched Germany's thriving Zeppelin industry in 1924, America gained not only Dr. Arnstein but 14 other technical experts, most of whom came to the Goodyear company and have been here in Akron ever since. Dr. Arnstein heads a large staff. In designing the Akron he delegated to various of his experts a special department of the ship. With the aid of numerous draftsmen, they made 20,000 blueprints before the work of assembling the rigid structure of duralumin began.

On competitive bids with American and German firms the Goodyear company was awarded a contract for two ZRS type Zeppelins in 1928. The first one will cost the navy $5,500,000, the second one $2,500,000, the difference in price representing the cost of experimentation that has necessarily gone into the Akron.

Beginning with the primary units, gas cells that will contain 6,500,000 cubic feet of gas and occupy the greater part of the interior of the ship, experimentation has pointed the way to the use of new materials and methods. Hitherto the gas bags have been fabricated from goldbeaters skins, supposedly the only practical material that would prevent slow seeping away of the gas. Goldbeaters skin is derived from a small portion of the intestine of a cow. Its name comes from the fact that it has been used for centuries by goldsmiths. Gold, when beaten to a certain thinness, sticks to the goldsmith's hammer. To get it to tissue paper thinness the goldsmith wraps the sheet in two pieces of goldbeaters skin and he can then hammer it out.

To have made the fabric for the gas cells of the Akron it would have taken 1,500,000 goldbeaters skins—the particular section from the intestines of that many cattle. After these had been cured and dressed it would have been necessary to have glued them, with a special kind of glue, to the 12 acres of cotton fabric required for the gas cells. And the result would have been, so far as the eye of the amateur observer could determine, a fabric that looks like the material of which yellow collegiate slickers are made.

In comparison, the new method is simple. Successive layer after layer of a rubber and gelatine mixture is placed upon the cotton fabric. So thin are these layers that the resulting material is scarcely thicker than a sheet of paper, but a long series of tests has proved that it is as satisfactory as goldbeaters skin for containing gas under pressure. The details of the new secret process are being most carefully guarded by the navy. No visitors were allowed in the plant in which the material was made.

As the 12 gas cells were completed they were tested in the Goodyear dock, filled with helium gas and then valved at intervals to determine whether or not there were any leaks. The largest cell, the central one, holds 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The valves are at the top of the cells. This is a new precaution, taken to avoid a calamity similar to that which is believed to have caused the crash of the British dirigible R-101. In the R-101 the valves were in the side, and it is the theory that in the heavy storm which the ill-fated ship went through, the valves became loosened. Large quantities of gas were lost from several cells, unbeknownst to the officers in charge, with the result that the nose dipped considerably and struck upon a comparatively low hill. The valves of the gas cells on the Akron, being on top, will not have a smiilar tendency to become loosened under unusual stress, it is maintained.

The gas bags will not be fixed within the dirigible. They will float in 12 sections called bays. These bays are separated one from the other within the hull by webs of wire, woven like a circular spider's web. These wire webs absorb no tensile strain, serving merely the purpose of keeping each gas cell in its proper bay. And this is necessary, because should one cell be seriously damaged in warfare and collapse, the others, without the wire, would jam into the empty space and seriously impair the balance of the big ship. As evidence of the extreme precaution being taken throughout, whenever the gas cells are liable to rub against the joints in the duralumin girders, a special sheathing has been used to cover the joints.

Ample provision has been made, of course, for expansion of the gas cells when the Akron goes to high altitudes. Zeppelins during the war were successfully navigated at over 18,000 feet. At such a height the helium in the Akron's 12 cells would occupy considerably more space than the nominal capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet. Above a certain pressure-height, gas will be automatically released through emergency valves. Before this happens an alarm bell will sound in the control car and the commander can then decide whether he wants to keep the ship climbing with a consequent loss of helium or whether he will hold it below this pressure-height.

BUT the ceiling of the Akron—the altitude limit beyond which it will be unsafe to fly—has not been statistically determined. That must be discovered in the long series of test flights that will precede the Akron's first long cruise.

Dr. Arnstein, Lieutenant T. G. W. Settle, chief naval inspector, and others in active charge of work on the Akron, laugh at the notion, more or less popularly held, that one good marksman with a high-powered rifle or machine gun in an airplane could bring down this giant of the skies. They point to a number of safety factors—in the first place, the great size of the ship and the fact that there are 12 gas cells, nine, or even eight, of which would keep her in the air.

But most important of all, say the experts, is the fact that there is virtually no point within the ship that will be inaccessible at any time. Thus, repairs may be made in normal flight, either to damaged gas cells or dam-

Will Dyson.

THE dry point etchings reproduced on this page are examples of the work of Will Dyson, eminent Australian caricaturist and etcher, whose barbed comment on business, religion, the movies, psycho-analysis, modern art and a variety of other topics has distinguished him as a philosopher and critic as well as an artist. These are selected from a set of 40 or more of his etchings now on view at the Noonan-Kocian art galleries.

Born in 1880, the son of an Australian miner, Dyson has been a sort of firebrand in English art and literary circles ever since he forsook his native continent for London in the early nineteen hundreds. He first attracted notice as a cartoonist and lithographer and was frequently in the public eye as an exponent of the younger intellectual and political revolt. All his work sought industrial and social renovation with such vehemence that the late Lord Balfour characterized him as "A probably dangerous young man, but at once too subtle and too violent to be greatly feared."

When the war began in 1914 Dyson took rank as the leading British propagandist. Two years later he joined the Australians in France, was wounded twice and was then made official artist. He remained in France in this capacity until the end of the war. Full sets of his war lithographs are to be seen in Kensington and in the Government museums of several European countries and Japan and in a special gallery at Canberra, the Australian capital.

After the war Dyson returned to Australia, spent seven years in newspaper work and then, fortified with his remarkable artistic and satiric talents, started on a tour around the world by way of Hollywood and New York. His etchings are said to have been an American discovery. Exhibitions of them in New York stirred considerable excitement and brought unqualified praise from such are critics as Frank Crowninshield and F. Newlin Price, who claimed for Dyson a "definite and unique niche among modern etchers."

"He obtains an etching ability combined with a mordant critical spirit," wrote Price. "He is litterateur, critic and philosopher turned etcher. He achieves an irony that is biting, but not bitter, and that is deep in human understanding. Even his victims smile at these epigrammatic etchings, used as they are for vehicles for art critical."

Writing for the New York Evening Post, Louis Sherwin declared Dyson "etched on T. N. T. with a stick of dynamite."

"But the skillful part of the performance," wrote Sherwin, "is that he contrives to put you in the seat beside him. You may be the fellow he is laughing at, but you don't get angry about it. You don't, in fact, realize it. 'There,' you say, 'is Cousin Ephraim. I wonder if he will recognize himself.' 'There,' says Cousin Ephraim, 'is Cousin Jeremiah. What a joke on him.' "

The book, "The White Queen," is related rather closely to his own life. The scene of the story is South Africa, where Grunewald spent several years and there are two or three very strong passages descriptive of the African land that came obviously from his personal experience. The White Queen of the story, a Russian woman who fled after the revolution, presides over a Utopia lost in the heart of Africa. Most of the remainder of the story is given over to the disintegration of the White Queen's Utopia as a result of her infatuation for Paul and his violent love for her.

IT WAS plainly the author's intention to show that it was human passion which wrecked the ideal state of the White Queen. Just so in his own life it seems clear that his uncontrollable passions and tempers have wrecked all his hopes and ambitions. He is the Paul of the story and Jean Zick is the White Queen. He has said that it was because of his hopeless love for her that he wrote the book.

SHOT the HEROINE of HIS BOOK

The Strange Case of Walter Grunewald, Who Tried to Make Fiction Like Life and Life Like Fiction.

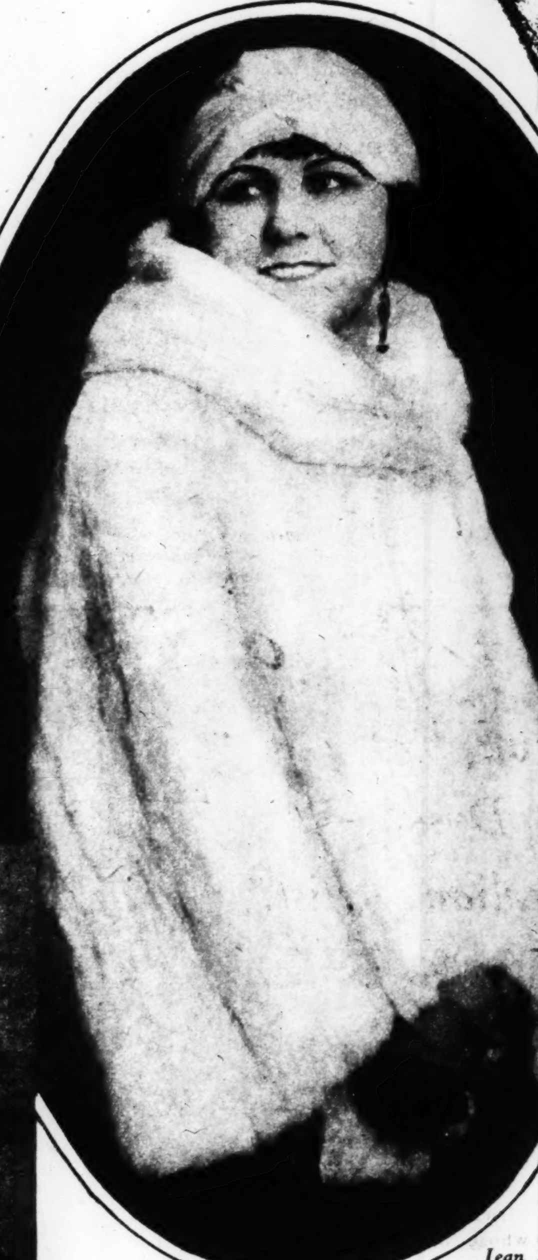
Softly he tried the latch on the screen door.



Jean Zick.

WAUSAU, Wisconsin.

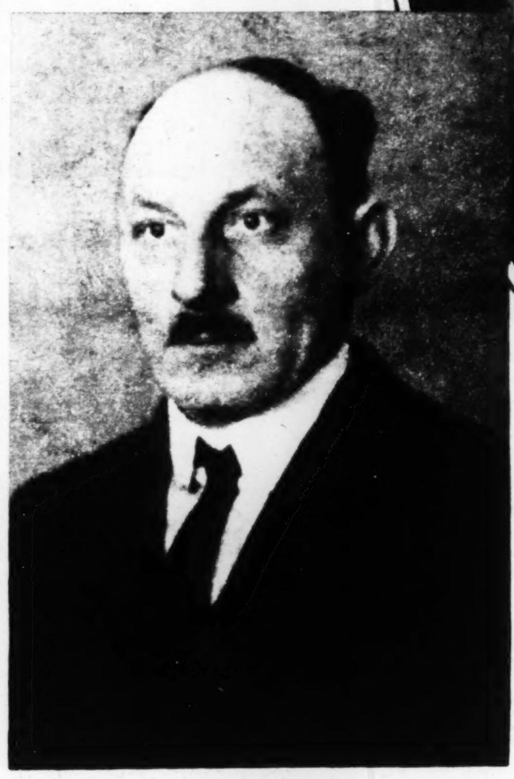
IT was over in a second. Walter Grunewald had waited on the lawn for nearly two hours for the light in the kitchen to announce her return. He had waited in the hot, still darkness for her homecoming.

She stood under the glare of the unshaded light bulb, washing the supper dishes. From the darkness he could see so plainly the familiar movements of her hands. Softly he tried the latch on the screen door. The slight sound warned her. There was an instant of startled recognition. Then without a word he fired and in the same instant turned and fled. The girl, Jean Zick, fell to the floor.

Walter Grunewald had at last brought himself to the moment of drama toward which the course of his strange, troubled life had so long been moving. There followed swiftly enough the recognition from his fellow townsmen that he long felt had been unjustly denied him. For a few days he was the central figure on the stage, he was hero, or martyr, or villain, as gossip construed the story. But at any rate the people of his adopted town saw at last that he was a man to be reckoned with, a person of importance, and that was something that in all his wanderings over the face of the earth he had never before known. The flash of fame was very brief. Less than 24 hours after he had shot the woman who would not marry him, he was on his way to the bleak obscurity of the State penitentiary at Waupun where he must remain for at least ten years.

It is, perhaps, a toss-up whether Grunewald is a genius or a madman, a genius who could never find an adequate means of expression, or a fumbling, erratic crackbrain. Grunewald, himself, holds very strongly to the former view, while the town rather inclines to the latter belief. They shake their heads over the ideas of this stubborn, violent-tempered German and smile knowingly. "Bolshevik" is one of the mildest epithets they apply to him.

Grunewald is arrogant, certain of his ultimate destiny even now that he is in prison. He was erratic certainly. In practical matters he was almost childlike. Most of his views are in direct variance with those held by this peaceful, respectable community. Moods of gloomy despair and unreasoning, exalted faith in his own powers and talents governed him alternately.



Walter Grunewald.

There are passages, whole sections, of the last book which Grunewald published at his own expense, or rather at the expense of the local printer, that seem powerful and original enough to have been the work of a remarkable and brilliant mind. And although the work as a whole is confused and fumbling as the author's life has been, the concept, the central theme, is most unusual.

IT WAS plainly the author's intention to show that it was human passion which wrecked the ideal state of the White Queen. Just so in his own life it seems clear that his uncontrollable passions and tempers have wrecked all his hopes and ambitions. He is the Paul of the story and Jean Zick is the White Queen. He has said that it was because of his hopeless love for her that he wrote the book.

Grunewald came to Wausau from Germany in 1922. Most of the period of the World War he had spent as a prisoner in the Germany colony in South Africa. A younger son of a good Berlin family, he had been sent out to Africa with high hopes. Freed at the close of the war, he returned considerably disillusioned, losing, as a result of Germany's loss, he claims, property worth $50,000. In April of 1920 he was married to Dora Meisner. He was 37, she was 26. Deciding after several luckless ventures in Berlin that America was still the land of opportunity, they came to Wausau, the presence of distant relatives attracting them here.

It appears that for a time things did not go too badly. Grunewald discovered not long after his arrival that he would have to be content to start very modestly. With the small capital he had brought with him, he entered into partnership in the tire and radiator repair business with Walter Buzinski who taught Grunewald the trade of auto mechanic.

But the latter was not long contented with this humble lot. He was destined for greater things. There was never a doubt of this in his mind. It was merely that people in America failed to understand him. As a young man in shool, he had been strongly under the influence of Tolstoi's Christian socialism and later this was supplanted by the more arbitrary doctrines of Karl Marx. Grunewald was convinced that the capitalist system was unjust, that it was inhuman, and cruel. With a fanatical impatience he went about among the good folk of Wausau, denouncing their creeds and beliefs, their folkways and their business practices.

And Wausau, quite naturally, did not take kindly to this. It was whispered about that he was an atheist, a Bolshevik, a little bit off in the head. And very soon there was the open laughter of derision.

Grunewald was a striking figure in the town. Built massively and with piercing, intent eyes, he strode about the streets, often muttering to himself. On the slightest invitation he would speak in public on his favorite thesis, the damnable iniquities of the capitalist system and the inevitable damnation of all concerned with it.

This was not particularly good for the tire business. Buzinski, a simple, patient man, often remonstrated with his partner about his crazy ideas and about the absurd futility of writing books, which bad habit had already come upon Grunewald. The latter would respond with newer and more elaborate theories about the state of society. And some day, he always added, his books would make him famous and rich. Had he not already published articles in many Berlin magazines? Look what this German, Remarque, made out of "All Quiet on the Western Front" and that just a novel with no philosophic background. Some day even Wausau would recognize what a great man was in its midst.

NOR did Grunewald find sympathy at home. His wife, Dora, was a practical soul. When she would remonstrate with him because there was scarcely enough money to buy food and pay the rent, he would grow furiously angry and often in his rages he beat her. In 1926 she could stand it no longer and secured a divorce which her husband did not bother to contest. Since that time she has earned the rewards that come from a practical, frugal way of life, having saved enough as a dressmaker to pay her way back to Germany for a summer-long vacation.

Those who have known him best here in the town trace Grunewald's disintegration from his divorce, from his separation from the calm, practical Dora. He had been a well-kept, not unattractive figure, proud of his great physical strength, proud even of the fact that on a jesting dare he had downed three professional wrestlers at a street carnival here. Now he began to be careless about his appearance and drank immoderately.

In 1927 he published his first book, "Diamond Fever." Into a somewhat lurid fictional structure, he inserted many of his own experiences in the African diamond mines. As in the second book, there are many vivid passages, notably the description of a storm that sweeps down upon a camp of tents. Grunewald knew nothing about publishing methods in America. He went to a printer here, paid $150 in cash and promised the rest when the edition had been sold. He was disheartened but not altogether discouraged when only a few copies were sold through local bookstores to people in the immediate community.

As with all authors, hope springs eternal. He would write another book. It was just as he had begun to write his second novel that he met Miss Zick. She is the only daughter of German-born parents, good, hard-working people, who christened her Ardina. When at 18 she changed her name to the more American, more modern Jean, it was symbolic of the gulf that separated her from her parents.

For seven years she lived in Minneapolis, a girl on her own, learning to know all the ways of the world. Inevitably there was gossip back in the home town and Jean says, with her candid smile, that she did just about everything during those years to get by. She learned among other things how to dress and make up to show off to best advantage her type, the rather odd pointed face with the high cheekbones, the narrow eyes with their black, sharply curling eyelashes, and the wide, thin mouth with the strong white teeth.

Grunewald was fascinated from the first, and was so impulsive and fierce that Jean scarcely knew what to think of him. She agreed to help him with the book, correcting, from her experience as a typist, his often faulty English. And he would pay her for this service. Jean was glad to get the money, for the depression had driven her back from Minneapolis to the shelter of the family.

But, she says now, she began to be afraid of him. He pleaded with her again and again to marry him. He sent her several threatening letters. He would kill her if she married anyone else. The Zick family came to distrust Grunewald very heartily. Night after night he called, and they felt they could not close the door in his face.

To Jean he talked more and more wildly. He spoke of his enemies in the town. There were four. Some day he would rise to the crisis and kill one or all of them. Jean tried to avoid him, she says, but she was afraid. Once, alone together in his car, he held her by the shoulders, as though in a vise of steel, his intense, staring eyes fixed upon her. In her frenzy to escape him she clawed at his face with her fingernails, tore disfiguring ribbons of flesh before he would release her. The episode is realistically described in "The White Queen."

That was the breaking point. She wouldn't endure his jealousy, she wouldn't see him again. Grunewald went to E. D. Widmer, head of the local business college, and got his help in finishing the book. He was wildly impatient to see it off the press and when finally the printer would not advance funds for binding the printed copies, Grunewald went to the little town of Marathon where the job was being done and bound them crudely by hand. Wasn't the world waiting for this book, wasn't it to make his fame almost immediately?

But the copies stood untouched in the bookstores. Slowly it was impressed upon the author that "The White Queen" was to meet the same indifference as "Diamond Fever."

HE LEARNED at this time that Jean had warned several people against him. In his agitation it appeared that she was responsible for all his troubles. The woman he had loved, the woman he still loved, the woman he would marry in a moment, had done this to him.

On the night of the shooting his partner Buzinski saw him in one room of the shop, pacing back and forth in the darkness, like some great caged animal, his head down, his hands behind his back. He went from the shop to the Zick home.

Grunewald says now he did not intend to kill her. Miss Zick, slowly recovering from a serious bullet wound, insists that he did intend murder. "If I hadn't heard the latch, I'd be dead now," she says. "He wanted to shoot me in the back."

A little after midnight Grunewald walked into the police station and surrendered. The next morning he pleaded guilty to the charge of assault, while armed, with intent to kill. Judge A. H. Reid sentenced him to from 10 to 25 years in the penitentiary at Waupun.

The writer talked to him there. In the brown denim uniform of the prison he looked curiously dwarfed and misshapen, his eyes deepset and melancholy, three deeply creased wrinkles across the high dome of his forehead. He spoke of his third book, which he has recently completed, written in German this time, the title, "August Kuchenbacker's Deutschland Reise." It deals, he explained, with the terrible privation endured by the lower and middle classes in Germany during and immediately after the war. It is realistic, grimly so, rather than romantic.

But again and again in the brief talk that we had in the warden's office, he came back to the persecutions that drove him to the last desperate act. He has been, he insists, the victim of a plot that has converged slowly, slowly, slowly, to the end that he might be put in prison.

Already the officials at Waupun have written him down in the records as a psychopathic case.

Putting the Murderous Chlorine Gas to Useful Work

Victor Wolfgang von Hagen, Etcher and Bookbinder, Has Discovered a Way to Restore Stained and Illegible Manuscripts—An Important St. Louis Document Is Among Those He Has Rehabilitated.

IT'S quite a comedown for a killer—like making Atilla embroider doilies. Chlorine gas, which carried lung-torturing death across World War battlefields, has been set at the mild and beneficent task of cleaning manuscripts. The destroyer has become the restorer.

For several weeks the lethal fluid has been working peacefully in St. Louis. In the libraries of the Missouri Historical Society, Shaw's Garden and St. Louis University one of most dreaded weapons of warfare has been sedately washing the grime from elderly books and papers.

A young man from New York, Victor Wolfgang von Hagen, has been directing the monster in its benign labor. It's rather a pet of his. He discovered it could do this work, and is said to be the only person so employing it. He has been spending part of his vacation in St. Louis, restoring valuable books and manuscripts by the use of chlorine gas and other materials, making no charge for his services.

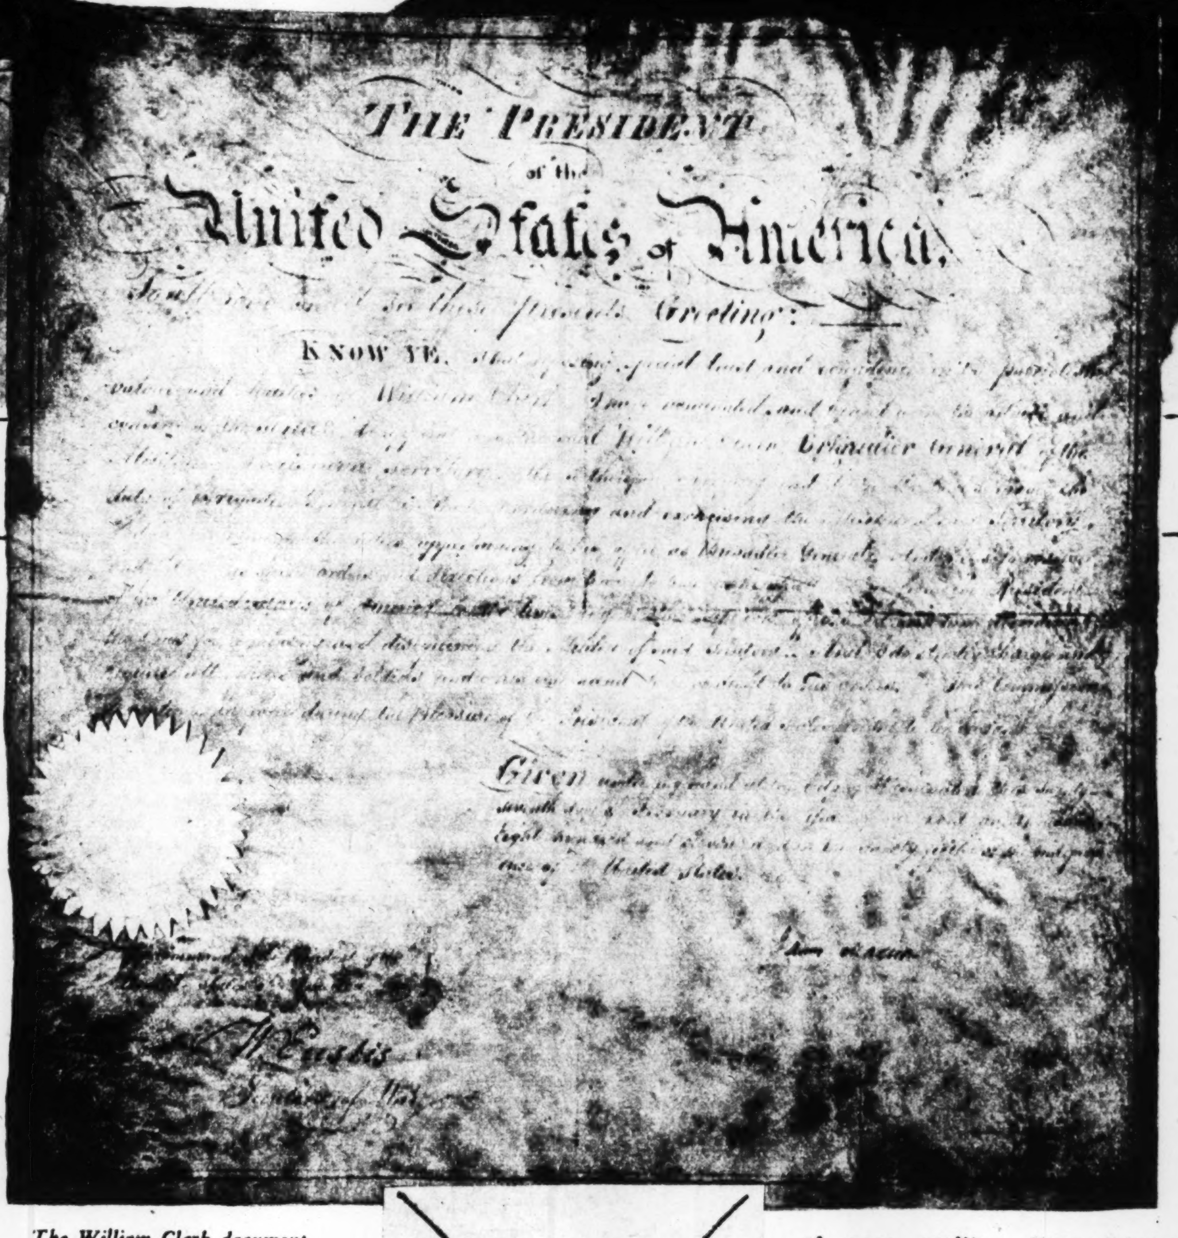
Von Hagen is a bookbinder, whose plant in New York is devoted to making fine bindings, chiefly for books in private collections. He is also an etcher of insects. And he engages professionally in the restoring of printed and written matter. Interested in books since childhood, he served as an apprentice to bookbinders in the United States and Germany for three years, and supplemented this practical training with studies at New York and Columbia universities and much individual research. Two years ago he perfected his gas bath for stained papers, and since then has used it in much of his restoration work. Last year, among the material which received this treatment, were some rare medical books, printed before 1600, owned by Northwestern University; a fourteenth century Arabian manuscript belonging to the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, and some stained pages in a Gutenberg Bible in a private collection in Chicago.



THE PRESIDENT
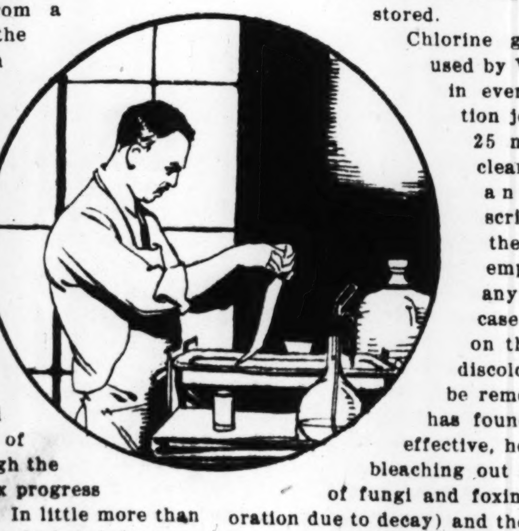
Greeting:
KNOW YE,

The William Clark document partly restored.

Von Hagen demonstrated, recently, his beauty treatment for manuscripts in his improvised laboratory in the basement of the Jefferson Memorial, where he did his work for the Missouri Historical Society. He picked up a piece of paper about 12 by 10 inches in size, bearing an official looking seal. Large brown and reddish blotches obscured much of the writing. "Water stains and fungi," Von Hagen explained. Even in clear spaces most of the words could not be deciphered because the ink had faded. There was a signature at the bottom, but the name could not be made out. It was known, however, that the document announced the appointment of William Clark as Brigadier-General of the Louisiana Militia, and that it was signed by President James Madison.

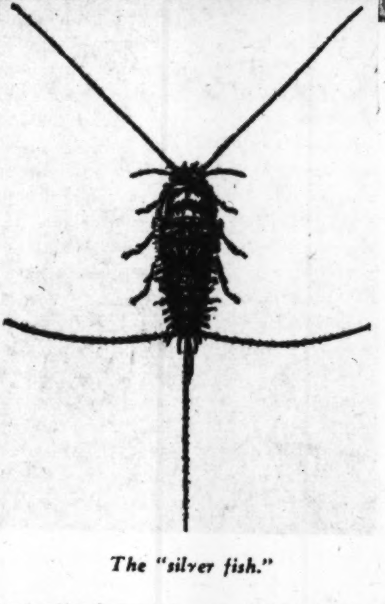


In a small cabinet with a glass top and a glass back, the document was hung over a cord, like a sheet on a clothesline. The cabinet was closed, airtight, and steam was turned into it from a small boiler on the bench beside it. In a few minutes the steam had thoroughly moistened the paper, making it pervious to chlorine gas, which then was turned into the chamber from a tank beside the boiler. The paper slowly bleached under the attack of the gas—for through the glass top of the box progress could be observed. In little more than an hour the stains had faded away, and the paper was removed, after gas and steam had been drained from the cabinet through a pipe in the bottom.

But the writing had grown dimmer than ever during the steam and gas bath, for ink as well as stains had yielded to the action of the chlorine. The next step, then, was to restore the writing. The document was placed in a pan of colorless liquid, a chemical compound whose formula has not been made public by Von Hagen. Slowly this soaking "brought back" the ink by depositing carbon on the lines of iron salts created by the original writing and left in the paper when the ink had faded. As a final treatment, another liquid was applied with a brush to give the paper a new surface and make it waterproof. The photograph of the Madison document on this page shows it after the cleaning had been done, but when only half had been completely restored.

Chlorine gas is not used by Von Hagen in every restoration job. He has 25 methods of cleaning books and manuscripts, and the method employed in any particular case depends on the kind of discoloration to be removed. He has found the gas effective, however, in bleaching out the stains of fungi and foxing (discoloration due to decay) and those caused by water, mold and contact with leather.

Fungus, one gathers from Von Hagen, is one of the principal things that keep books from growing old gracefully. "It's a parasitic plant organism of the same type that causes wheat rust," he explains. "Sometimes it gets into books through spores being blown about in the air. Sometimes, we think, insects carry the spores among the pages. But in a large proportion of the cases the fungus undoubtedly was in the book when it was made. The organism exists in certain wood fibers and often survives the process of turning wood into paper. It may lie dormant in the paper for hundreds of years before dampness causes it to become active, putting out spores and eventually forming a mold. The first visible effect of its activity is pigmentation; the paper becomes discolored. If its development isn't halted, holes appear in the paper.



The "silver fish."

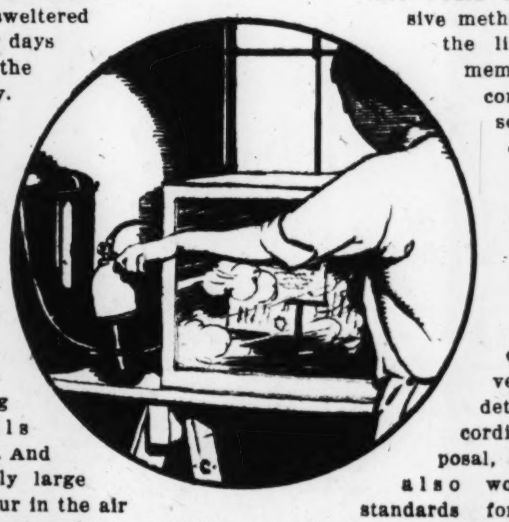
"Most Americana is threatened with ruin from this cause, as so much of the paper made in America has been of poor quality, laden with fungi from the beginning."

One of the problems confronting persons interested in the preservation of fine and rare books, he adds, is that of devising a protective surface for paper, so that after it has been rid of fungi, new spores cannot establish themselves in it. Von Hagen is working on this problem, and also trying to determine what part insects play in the spread of this scourge of bookdom.

Among the insects which damage books, the one of chief concern in the Mississippi Valley, according to Von Hagen, is Lepisma domestica, commonly known as "silver fish."

This insect, whose body, usually less than an inch long, is covered with silvery scales, has a decided fondness for damp places and a taste for the glue in bookbindings and the glaze on paper. It doesn't mind eating through the covers of a book to get to some succulent glue. Von Hagen exhibited a little book, about an inch thick, which evidently had been a silver fish restaurant; part of the back had been eaten away, and a hole, roughly funnel-shaped and more than an inch in diameter at the wider end, had been gnawed through the pages. The silver fish is an elusive rascal, capable of amazing speed when pursued, but can be destroyed with pyrethrum powder.

Several other conditions inimical to the preservation of fine books in the St. Louis neighborhood are mentioned by the restoration expert. One—strange as it may seem to persons who remember how they have sweltered here on summer days and nights—is the lack of humidity. The average humidity of this region isn't sufficient to keep leather bindings in good condition without artificial aid. Dust also is hard on bindings, absorbing the natural oils from the leather. And the comparatively large amount of sulphur in the air makes leather crack and paper brittle.



In the month or so he has been working here, Von Hagen has restored a dozen valuable botanical books at Shaw's Garden, a few books at the Art Museum, a number of rare ecclesiastical volumes in the library of St. Louis University, and about 200 books and 30 manuscripts belonging to the Missouri Historical Society. Among the tomes he treated at St. Louis University were four volumes comprising an account of the life of St. Chrystotom. They were printed in the sixteenth century by Frobin of Basle, Switzerland, and contain a preface by Erasmus. The restored books of the historical society included Herndon's "Life of Lincoln," a three-volume work which was suppressed because it offended Lincoln's family. The 30 manuscripts included the Stoddard, Valle and Chouteau papers.

When the gas method is used in restoring books, the pages to be cleaned are taken out of the volumes and hung in the bleaching cabinet. Enough racks can be placed in the cabinet for 100 or more pages to be treated simultaneously. Von Hagen is trying to work out a method by which an entire book can be placed in the cabinet and the leaves will be exposed to the gas, one at a time, by some vacuum device.

Other methods of restoring manuscripts and books involve the use of chemical solutions, such as hydrochloric acid, chloride of lime, potassium permanganate and sulphurous acid. An expert of the British Museum a few years ago devised a way of cleaning prints by the use of hydrogen peroxide vapor.

Restoration work is not confined to removal of discolorations and the rejuvenation of faded ink. Loose bindings are tightened, leather covers are cleaned and freshened, damaged cover boards are repaired. Sometimes tears must be mended and holes filled. In repairing a tear, the fibers of the paper at the torn edges are combed out and fitted together, then cemented with a cellulose substance that is essentially the same material as the paper itself. Holes are filled with the same kind of material, which varies according to the paper it must match.

Time alone, of course, can completely prove the value of restoration work; that is, whether the improvements made are lasting. If ink fades again after a few years, for instance, the restoration can scarcely be considered successful. Von Hagen says he has been able to test his results to the extent of 10 years; that he has compressed into six months deteriorating influences that ordinarily would not be encountered in less than 10 years, and that restored papers which he has submitted to these influences have come through unscathed.

Von Hagen is spending some of his time here consulting with librarians concerning a proposal to establish an institute of bibliopegy as a joint enterprise of the libraries of St. Louis—bibliopegy being the art of binding books. It would be, as far as he knows, the only one of its kind in America. The project would embrace virtually all the mechanical processes except printing concerned in the making and preservation of books. There would be a scientific bindery which would make fine bindings for the valuable books of its member libraries and which would restore their damaged volumes. Training in bookbinding and in restoration would be given at the plant to persons who wished to make such work their vocation. The institute would devise inexpensive methods of keeping the libraries of its members in good condition. Research would be carried out with the purpose of finding out new things about the making and handling of books the causes and prevention of their deterioration. According to the proposal, the institute also would establish standards for the books bought by its libraries; while it would do no publishing, it would require the publishers from whom its members bought to furnish a certain quality of paper, typography, binding, etc., in their products.

Von Hagen thinks there are enough fine books in the libraries of St. Louis to make such an institution successful.

Back in Zlin, Bata began to apply his new knowledge in his own plant. But before the business had progressed to anything approaching world importance the European war began. The factory was then employing about 2000 workers. It was taken over by the Austrian government and devoted to making army shoes. Production was increased to about 10,000 pairs a day during this period, but the growth of its owner into an industrial and commercial giant was arrested.

After the war was over the factory was turned back to Bata's control and he was left facing the task of finding a way through the economic troubles that beset business in Central Europe. He managed it, re-organized the enterprise in 1922 and 1923, adopted drastic production and marketing measures, and surged forward rapidly toward his present position—a position which has been described as leadership in the industrial Americanization of Europe.

One of his spectacular moves was to reduce the prices of his shoes one half. To do that, he had to cut the wages of his employes almost as much. But he took a good deal of the sting out of the wage-reduction by making his workers' money buy much more than it had before. Using his own resources for quantity buying of necessaries of life, he offered these necessaries to his people virtually at cost, so that despite reduced pay they could live about as well as they had before. In connection with this move he got out a poster which became a familiar sight throughout the country.

Today finds Bata the largest shoemaker in Europe, doing a business in excess of $35,000,000 a year. And it is a one-man business, in the sense that one man owns it. The name is T. & A. Bata, but Anton Bata is dead; Thomas Bata is now the firm.

The Czecho-Slovakian Peasant Who Built a Feudal Shoe Kingdom

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia.

THOMAS BATA has taken his recipe for success from both the Old World and the New. His methods of production and marketing he adapted from the modern industrialism of America. In the handling of his army of employes he went back to feudalism. The combination has worked exceedingly well for him. The man whose youth was spent in poverty is reputed to be worth $50,000,000 now. He is called the shoe king of the world. He employs 17,000 persons. And his business is perhaps the most remarkable enterprise in the shoe-making industry.

The gigantic factory Bata has built up at Zlin, Moravia, is turning out some 130,000 pairs of shoes a day, and doing it so cheaply that shoe manufacturers of other nations, whose home markets have been invaded successfully, have turned to their governments for protection and tariff walls have been erected against him. The Moravian peasant has become something of an international problem.

Bata was a small town boy who didn't find it necessary to go to the city to make good. He stayed at home and converted his home town into an industrial city—and has had the satisfaction of becoming mayor of it.

Born in Zlin in 1876, Bata was the son of a shoemaker whose shop was small and far from prosperous. When the boy grew big enough, he went to work in his father's shop, and learned to make shoes by hand. Sometimes he went to other towns to sell a few pairs of samples and to solicit orders.

On the death of his father, Thomas, with his brother Anton and a sister, continued the business and expanded it. For some time the small factory continued making shoes by hand, then some machinery was bought in Germany. Those early years were filled with financial difficulty. But Thomas studied accounting and was able to systematize the business until it was on a sound footing. But it was not of a size to worry many competitors.

Then Bata decided to see if there was anything to this American manufacturing efficiency of which he had heard. So in 1904 he and some of his workmen came to the United States and got jobs in shoe factories in Lynn, Massachusetts. They spent a year or so in such labor, learning the quantity production methods that had made the American plants famous. On their way home, they stopped in England and Germany to learn what they could in the factories of those countries.

Back in Zlin, Bata began to apply his new knowledge in his own plant. But before the business had progressed to anything approaching world importance the European war began. The factory was then employing about 2000 workers. It was taken over by the Austrian government and devoted to making army shoes. Production was increased to about 10,000 pairs a day during this period, but the growth of its owner into an industrial and commercial giant was arrested.

After the war was over the factory was turned back to Bata's control and he was left facing the task of finding a way through the economic troubles that beset business in Central Europe. He managed it, re-organized the enterprise in 1922 and 1923, adopted drastic production and marketing measures, and surged forward rapidly toward his present position—a position which has been described as leadership in the industrial Americanization of Europe.

One of his spectacular moves was to reduce the prices of his shoes one half. To do that, he had to cut the wages of his employes almost as much. But he took a good deal of the sting out of the wage-reduction by making his workers' money buy much more than it had before. Using his own resources for quantity buying of necessaries of life, he offered these necessaries to his people virtually at cost, so that despite reduced pay they could live about as well as they had before. In connection with this move he got out a poster which became a familiar sight throughout the country.

Today finds Bata the largest shoemaker in Europe, doing a business in excess of $35,000,000 a year. And it is a one-man business, in the sense that one man owns it. The name is T. & A. Bata, but Anton Bata is dead; Thomas Bata is now the firm.

The plant at Zlin is one of the show places of Europe—for persons interested in seeing how well Europeans can follow the industrial path blazed by America. The setting seems incongruous. Zlin is in an agricultural region, remote from a coal supply, and having only a branch line of a railroad for shipping facilities. But there is a plentiful supply of cheap labor at hand, and this is one of the basic factors in the development of the Bata enterprise. And the town itself, as a result of the factory's development, has grown from a quiet place of 4500 population to a modern little city of more than 20,000.

There are 40 factory buildings in the plant. There is also a clubhouse for the workers, a hospital, dormitories, playgrounds, swimming pools. There are many houses around the factory which Bata owns and rents to his employes. There is a big general store where the employes may buy all kinds of supplies from their employer.

IN the factory mass production is carried out with great effectiveness. The conveyor system is used, the individual worker contributing his bit to the making of a pair of shoes as they are carried past, each worker doing the same thing, making the same motions, all day long. It is the system that enabled Henry Ford to turn out automobiles in large quantity and at small cost in America. They call Bata the European Ford. He makes shoes in great quantities and at low cost, and sells them cheap. It is said that so efficient is his manufacturing process, so little time and energy wasted, that when a pair of shoes is finished, 80 per cent of their cost is represented by the raw materials they contain.

Shoes are not the only thing Bata makes, although the other products are manufactured merely to aid in the shoe business. The leather that goes into Bata shoes is tanned in his own plant, the boxes in which they are shipped are made there, and the paper in which they are wrapped. Bata prints his own catalogues—in 20 different languages—and owns the forests from which wood for heels, packing cases and structural work comes.

In line with this self-sufficiency, the Bata organization itself puts most of its shoes into the hands and on the feet of ultimate purchasers, without dealing with intermediaries. Bata has some 2000 retail stores—in which, incidentally, he offers repair service at very low prices and the services of a chiropodist free. In addition to the hundreds in Czecho-Slovakia, his retail shops are in Germany, Holland, Switzerland, France, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, Poland, Great Britain, Egypt and the United States.

The same completeness characterizes Bata's handling of his employes. He regulates not only their work, but to a large extent their lives—at least that part of their lives spent in his employ. He creates a little Bata world for them in which they may spend all their leisure as well as their working hours.

In the Bata store, the workers can buy just about anything they have any need of, from a suit of clothes to a loaf of bread. In the Bata school workers can add to their knowledge and their children can receive an ordinary education. A workman with a family can establish a home in one of the Bata houses, and single men and women can live in the Bata dormitories. They can get their meals in the Bata restaurants, receive surgical attention in the Bata hospital, find recreation in the Bata motion picture theater, clubhouse and playgrounds.

No smoking is permitted at work. No drink of liquor—even of beer—is allowed on Bata property. All the employes have to save money. Those who live in the dormitories must get up at 5:30 in the morning, take certain physical exercises, and spend part of their leisure in improving themselves according to Bata's ideas. They have to be in their dormitories by 9 p. m. in winter and 10 p. m. in summer.

Despite these regulations and restrictions on their freedom of action, this virtual vassalage imposed by Bata, plenty of people seem to be glad to work for him.

COMING from the surrounding countryside, as most of them do, they are not accustomed to urban amusements; the inexpensive entertainment of movies, concerts and athletics that Bata offers is a good deal more attractive than anything of the kind they could get at home. Besides, the pay is better than they could command in most other jobs open to them in that region.

Not that the pay is high. As said before, one of the main ingredients in Bata's success is the use of cheap labor. But Bata has made it possible for his employes to live with some comfort and put something aside for a rainy day even on low wages.

The wages range from about $3.60 a week for a young girl to $12 or $13 for skilled men. But there is, in addition, a bonus, paid every two weeks. Sometimes it amounts to almost as much as the wage. An individual's bonus depends on the type of work he does and the success of his group's labor for the period covered. Profit sharing is, therefore, part of the Bata system.

A worker does not get all his earnings on pay day. Half of his bonus is withheld as involuntary savings, on which Bata pays a high rate of interest. The employe can draw his savings after a certain period, subject to conditions; that is, a married man cannot withdraw his savings without his wife's consent, a person who leaves Bata's employ must wait six months before he can get this part of his earnings, and if he goes to work for a rival factory he forfeits it.

An essential part of the Bata system is the competition within itself. The plant at Zlin is divided into 250 departments, each of which is treated as an independent unit and expected to show a profit in its own right. Even the hospital must make something for its owner. If one unit makes an advantageous showing through getting the better of another unit in some transaction, the manager of the former receives credit accordingly from the overlord of all. Bata insists on making money from all his business operations, even those of selling goods and service to his employes at cut rates.

There is no doubt that Bata makes living expenses low for those who work for him. One of his houses—he has more than 2000—can be rented for less than $1 a week. It is true they all look alike, are as standardized as the operations in making one of his shoes, but they are sound, two-story affairs of brick, with modern conveniences, in which most of the workers live more comfortably than they ever did before. A dweller in a dormitory pays only about 25 cents a week for lodging. An excellent meal can be bought in the plant restaurants for 10 cents, and admission to the movies costs only 2 cents. The supplies sold in the big general store are correspondingly cheap. It is said that any of the employes can get along nicely on two-thirds of his earnings.

THE plant not long ago changed from an eight-hour to a nine-hour day, but also adopted a five-day week, so that 45 hours constitutes a week's work. It is reported that Bata offers no objections to his employes' joining labor unions but few of them do because his pay is above the union scale and he provides better working and living conditions than are required. Various safeguards for labor, such as placing the minimum age for employment at 14 years, are established by law in Czecho-Slovakia.

There has been a good deal of criticism of Bata since his rise to power, and some of it has concerned his treatment of his workers. One story was that workers were jailed for failing to do the amount of work laid out for them. The answer on behalf of Bata is that this—and worse things—happened when the factory was under the control of military officers during the war. The International Labor Bureau at Geneva made a study of Bata's dealings with his employes and last year published a report favorable to him.

Other criticism of Bata concerns the charge that he is threatening the shoe markets of other nations. His exports to America were a factor in the shoe tariff created by the last Congress of the United States. Germany erected a tariff wall against him.

It was estimated recently that half the cheap shoes for women in Great Britain were of his manufacture. One of his factories at Zlin makes women's shoes for the United States. The shoes retail for less than $4.

Bata is a stocky man, slightly above middle height, with an intelligent, aggressive face. He is married and has a son about 17. His command of the details of his business astonishes observers. He exercises a personal supervision over all phases of it. On his desk is an array of light signals by which he can be called to any building in his plant. His traveling about Europe he does by air, for he has his own planes and pilots.

aged outer fabric, during storm or combat. There is a ladder in each triangular main ring of the rigid structure of the ship and there are catwalks (a 14-inch strip of duralumin reinforced by a light planking) at the very top, one along the center of the lower surface and two to each side, as shown in the accompanying diagram. Moreover, apart from these catwalks, the crew will move with complete freedom, in soft-soled shoes, over the whole rigid structure, since the inner surface of the duralumin girders is exposed. Cat-like, the men will be able to skin up any one of the thousands of crossing and inter-crossing supports. It is said that though navy regulations require the use of the catwalk, save in emergencies, the crew of the dirigible Los Angeles travels over the whole interior by means of the girders.

On the Akron even the movable fins at the stern will be accessible. It will be possible to climb out into the flippers, used for controlling direction and altitude, and repair any wind damaged surface. It will be recalled that during the trans-Atlantic crossing of the British ship R-100 ripping of the fabric on one fin seriously handicapped the dirigible, and the Graf Zeppelin met with a similar accident. Repairs were difficult, well-nigh impossible, on these smaller craft. The fins are, of course, about the size of the average city lot. In the lower vertical fin, fixed immovably to the ship, will be an emergency control system from which all the movements of the craft may be directed should the forward control car be disabled or the officers in charge there put out of service.

GOODYEAR officials cite their experience with small non-rigid blimps, possibly not one-hundredth as large as the Akron, to prove the contention that it will take at least a sizeable bomb, or several perfectly aimed bombs, to disable the ship. Frequently the blimps are flown from Akron to testing and training bases maintained by Goodyear in Florida. Crossing over the Kentucky and Tennessee mountains, someone, probably moonshiners, almost invariably takes a shot at the silvery bag with a rifle. It is from two to three hours before the pilot is able to notice any difference in the handling of the blimp from the leakage of gas. And this, it is pointed out, in a type of craft in which the gas is not contained in an inner cell, but in the main bag itself, with no rigid supporting structure. It will be much easier for the Akron, with its three-fold construction, to withstand loss of gas as a result of machine-gun fire, or even from bombs.

The gas cells are the first layer in the three-ply construction. They fit inside the second, the rigid duralumin frame, riveted together, numbered girder by numbered girder. On the outside of this framework goes the third layer, the outer fabric. They are just now finishing this final job, one that required seven acres of cotton fabric. The fabric was all cut to specification in panels averaging 60 by 10 feet. These panels were laced on, one to the other, just as a shoe is laced up. Twice they were relaced, with intervals of a day between each lacing, so that they could be got as tight as possible. Then they were covered with a coating of cellulose acetate "dope," which serves several purposes, among them to tighten the fabric even more. The "dope" is painted on by hand. Next a coat of orange paint is sprayed on as a base for the two coats of aluminum paint, which serve to metalize the bag, causing it to reflect heat and light.

THE Akron will be the first dirigible to carry scouting planes in its hold. In a compartment 60 by 70 feet, between the forward control room and the first pair of motors, there will be eventually five tracks, from which will be suspended five scouting planes. At the touch of a lever these will slide, pilot in place, motor started, one at a time along these tracks. At a focal point in the center of the compartment the plane will be automatically transferred to a trapeze-like device. With the plane attached, this will swing downward through a T-shaped opening in the floor of the dirigible. Another lever will release the plane as it hangs from the trapeze, 20 feet below, as the diagram on this page shows. The trapeze will swing outside the dirigible until the planes have finished their scouting operations. Returning, the pilot must hook on by the big eyelet in the top wing and the plane is swung back onto its trolley. It sounds impossible, but it isn't, since several pilots have already demonstrated the hook-on possibility on the Los Angeles. After considerable practice they have been able to hook on and to disengage again without any special hazard. The navy is very secretive about the details of this device, too.

In the method of installing motors the Akron departs radically from all its predecessors. The German Maybach motors, eight of them, are to be housed inside the dirigible instead of in motor gondolas suspended from the side of the ship as hitherto. First, it will greatly lessen resistance to the air, being one of the reasons why the Akron will have a maximum speed of 83.8 miles an hour to the Graf Zeppelin's 80, and it must be remembered that the Graf, though nearly as long as the Akron, has a much smaller diameter and a little more than half the cubic foot capacity.

The motor compartments are built of sheets of duralumin and are large enough to house a crew of three men, working on navy shifts, four hours on and eight off. A crew will be constantly on duty in each of the eight compartments. Hitherto all dirigibles have been constructed to use hydrogen gas and it has been unwise to build the motors into the hull because of the grave danger of explosion. The motor gondolas on the Los Angeles and the Graf are approached precariously by means of ladders.

If fire should break out in a motor compartment on the Akron the crew would leave the room immediately, close the duralumin door and merely open a valve attached to a tank fixed to the roof of the compartment. This would release into the motor room carbon dioxide gas, which, tests have shown, will put out fire in less than a minute. The impairment of one motor will not be serious, since the Akron will be able to maintain a fairly high speed with only five motors running.

A connecting shaft will lead from the motor in the inside compartment to the propeller on the outside of the dirigible. By turning a lever it will be possible to alter the position of the propeller from the vertical to the horizontal, so that instead of driving the big ship forward it will either push it up from the ground or suck it down, depending on the direction in which the blades are moving. This, also, is a radical departure. In actual practice the propellers will not be used to raise or lower the ship except in emergency. Hot air from around the exhaust manifolds of the eight motors will be drawn off to heat the quarters of crew and officers, messroom, galley and airplane compartments. The exhaust gas from the motors is led into a series of cooling pipes contained in a V-shaped metal structure that will project somewhat from the side of the Zeppelin. By means of this cooling system water for ballast will be evaporated equivalent in weight to more than the weight of the gasoline that is burned. All ballast tanks are so inter-connected that water can be moved about to any part of the ship by means of motor driven pumps, when, for purposes of adjusting balance, it becomes necessary to shift ballast from one part of the 785-foot ship to another. Similarly, the gasoline tanks, which are placed in series of threes throughout the Zeppelin, have been interconnected so that gasoline can be shifted about as ballast.

THE Akron, in short, is not one machine, but a series of complex machines, so inter-related that the great floating skyscraper will respond as swiftly and as delicately to the word of the commander as a thoroughbred race horse.

Two systems of communication, telephone and marine telegraph, will link the units of the ship together. When Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl gives a general order one of the 15 under-officers will in turn pass on specific instructions to those members of the crew of 60 in charge of the particular operation called for. The marine telegraph will operate much as it does on ocean liners and battleships. The commander moves the lever on the indicator to "Full Speed Ahead," for example, and the telegraph system automatically flashes the signal to each of the eight motor compartments.

In building the Akron it would seem that Goodyear and navy experts have taken into account every possible mishap. The Shenandoah disaster? The Shenandoah, it is pointed out, was literally broken in two by a line squall. (A line squall consists of a sharply descending and a sharply ascending column of air. It was on the almost knife-edge line where the one touches the other than the Shenandoah came to grief.) According to a report of Lieutenant C. R. Bacu, an officer on the Shenandoah, the Graf Zeppelin, on one of its eastward crossings, went safely through a much more severe line squall than that which demolished the American Navy dirigible. The effect, he said in his report of his flight on the Graf, was like that when an enormous wave strikes an ocean liner. Everything and everyone pitched violently forward, but after the first shock, the Graf straightened out without difficulty. And they contend here that through improved construction, notably the use of reinforced main-ring girders, the Akron will be stronger than the Graf.

Lightning? A bolt of lightning might do some slight damage at the point at which it strikes, but the charge would be harmlessly dissipated in the maze of metal of which the rigid structure consists. And there is the safety factor of the non-explosive, non-inflammable helium.

DAVID S. INGALLS, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in charge of aviation, is very enthusiastic over the possibilities of the lighter than air craft. The Akron will be, he explained in a talk here the other day, not a combat ship but a scouting weapon. In the event of combat, however, it will be fairly well equipped to take care of itself, since it will bristle from every point of vantage with .50-caliber machine guns. According to Ingalls, it is extremely difficult to bomb a target moving over the sea, even as large a target as the Akron will be. The Assistant Secretary was aboard the Los Angeles during the recent maneuvers over Panama, and he said that although the dirigible was theoretically shot down in the mimic warfare, yet it had proved its value as a scouting craft many times over. He pointed to numerous advantages that the dirigible has over the cruiser in scouting, including a much wider range, and not to mention an initial average cost of $4,000,000 for the ZRS type Zeppelin as contrasted with $18,000,000 for the cruiser.

The primary interest of the Goodyear company is not in building fighting aircraft. Officials of the company are convinced that within five years there will be trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific dirigible service, and they are determined that Akron shall be the great dirigible building port of America, comparable to Bath, Maine, as a ship-building town. The company has stock in a corporation organized not long ago for a dirigible passenger route over the Atlantic and stock in a similar corporation to fly the Pacific. In addition, Goodyear has put millions of dollars into equipment here and into experimental stations scattered over the country. Heads of the company are hoping now that the Parker-McNary bill will pass at the next session of Congress. This provides that mail may be carried in lighter than air craft as well as heavier than air.

IT would permit the postal authorities to assign mail contracts to the new trans-oceanic dirigible lines, the first step in financing a mail-passenger route. Having made the two greatest dirigibles in the world, Goodyear will feel confident to go ahead and build passenger carrying ships.

There is a certain tension here already looking to the day that will come very soon now when the great silver cigar will be slowly hauled out of the hangar by the snub-nosed motorized mooring mast. A nonstop flight from either New York or Chicago to Tokio, Japan, is early on the schedule of the Akron. But before that will come the test flights—seven successful ones before the navy accepts the ship and before the contract for the second identical dirigible becomes binding on the Government. That will be a momentous day in Akron. It will come perhaps in the middle of August. The police are making plans for a crowd of a half-million, this estimate being base on visitors totaling between 60,000 and 75,000.

On the day of the first test no one will be allowed on the air field. Cautiously, the Akron will be nudged out of the hanger on a day of perfect weather, to glide about in the air for a time. The real test comes later, when there is no crowd, over lonely ocean wastes, under the violent impact of the line squall.

MR. MURGATROYD HAS HIS CHEST LIFTED

IF IT hadn't been for the wife's hounding I'd never have signed on for the health farm skit, even though my chest had slipped until it was abaft the belt buckle. As it is, I finds myself at a renovating retreat a-top an Adirondack, run by a sweet-scented geranium named Ruffy McGuire.

"What," I asks, "can you do for me in a week and for how much?"

"Well," he returns, "in that length of time I might show you over the place for which I wouldn't charge you anything seeing that"——

"This is a health farm, isn't it?" I cuts in.

"That's the talk," says Ruffy, "but if you've the idea we have wonder workers on the payroll here that can wish off 20 years of fat in 20 minutes you've got enough thinks coming to keep you in splitting headaches the rest of your life. Just what do you expect to have done to you around here?"

"All in a week, eh?" grunts McGuire. "How'd you like a new head of hair and a couple of dimples thrown in?"

"How long," I inquires, "do you figure it'll take to whip me into shape?"

"Depends on your taste in shapes," says Ruffy. "Right now you favor a ball. If you want to look like a bat I might be able to start the bat a-rolling in about two months."

"Two months!" I yelps. "I'm here for a work-out; not a career. I might stretch it to two weeks"——

"STRETCH some more," suggests McGuire. "It's a good way to begin exercising. Sign on for a month, Buddie. Then if you don't like it"——

"Oh, all right," I agrees. "When do we go to work?"

"Maybe, never," says Ruffy. "There's nothing stirring till the bonesetter takes a look at you. You might have angina pectoris or fatty generations or some of those other trick stunts the matter with your pump and the first thing I know I'll be finding out what a grand husband and father you were, if any."

"When do I see the doc?" I asks.

"This afternoon," he returns.

"Very well," I tells him, and starts to leave.

"As you go out," remarks McGuire, "can the cubanola. We don't allow smoking in this fat factory."

"Try and make me," I barks. "The sawbones hasn't turned me over to you yet. I may be lucky enough to have angina."

Such, however, is not the case, and I'm passed as being O. K. for the grind—and there's plenty of grind that afternoon. When I'm called for dinner I'm hungry enough to clean up on a corrugated iron roof.

"Eat hearty," grins McGuire. "The spinach is great and that there egg came from a hen"——

"That all I get to eat?" I yelps.

"All!" exclaims Ruffy. "That's a big meal for this place. We're letting you taper off."

"Some taper!" I growls. "If I'm down to a sprig of sanded cow fodder and an egg now, where'll I be in a couple of weeks? Besides, there are only two things I hate worse than spinach and eggs, and that's eggs and spinach."

"Excelsior!" shouts McGuire.

"What's that?" I asks. "The dessert?"

"That," explains Ruffy, "is an Italian word, meaning, 'I got the combination.' Pretty good, isn't it, finding out the first crack out of the box the stuff that's good for you?"

"How do you know the stuff's good for me?" I comes back, grouchy.

"Because you don't like it," returns McGuire. "That's the only test when it comes to diet."

After three or four days of the health camp I'm about ready to pass out—all work and no food making Jack a deuce-spot.

"I thought," I remarks to Ruffy, "you folks always started off easy?"

"We do," he replies. "You haven't seen anything yet. Ready to eat?"

"Spinach and egg?" I asks.

"Yeah," says McGuire, "but not nearly as much as you've been getting. The egg, of course, is the same size"——

"Tough luck," I cuts in. "You should raise hummingbirds. What's the system here—the more you work the less you eat?"

"Our motto," says Ruffy, "is—'anything to cause pain.' Let's go to the table."

"If you insist," says I, "but you'd save yourself a set-up and a lot of trouble just by bringing up my fodder in a nose bag. I give up. This business of doing eight horses' work on one canary's ration is too much for me. I guess I'm getting old."

"Forget it, youngster," chirps McGuire. "You're just in your hay days and just to show I'm a good fellow I'm going to do something big for you tomorrow night."

"What?" I asks. "Let me sit up for the bed-time tale."

"I've decided," says Ruffy, importantly, "to let you have a lamb chop all to yourself for dinner."

"A WHOLE one?" I cuts in eagerly. "With the bone and everything?"

"Yep," he returns. "Of course, it won't be a real big one, but what there is, is yours, without the house taking a cut. The other babies may get jealous and you may have to fight to hold it, but"——

"Let 'em try," I snarls. "They'll think I'm a tigress defending her whelps if they start anything with me."

"Wait," says McGuire, "I've got another surprise for you."

"I can guess it," I returns. "You're going to have nice tissue paper panties on the end of the chop."

"I'm going to let you smoke a cigar," he announces.

"You'll do nothing of the sort," says I, working up indignation. "I came here to take a certain treatment and I refuse to compromise with it. How dare you"——

"What's that?" splutters Ruffy.

"You heard me," I tell him, coldly, "and I'm getting out tomorrow. Wait until my wife hears the kind of a place this is. She won't blame me for leaving."

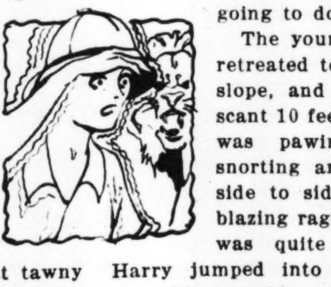
THE BONNYBROOK BOYS IN AFRICA

AS THE safari halted, the leaders realized that they were ending their last day in the jungle. They realized this with a pang—that is, there was a pang all around; one for each of the three Merton brothers, one for kindly old Professor Ginch and one, also, for their chief guide and interpreter, the loyal B'nana B'lah, or, as the boys called him, George.

The quintet headed their lengthy column of native helpers. Immediately behind them were two porters bearing a pole to which a lion was appended by the ankles. They had not shot this lion. Desiring a nice rug, they had bought it from a Tamali warrior for a sack of salt.

The tents were pitched on the brink of a 10-foot embankment that lined a muddy stream. B'nana B'lah and all the other natives went out to round up some supper and Tom, Dick and the Professor busied themselves a hundred yards from camp collecting wood.

Harry went to the edge of the embankment and dropped over a hook and line, hoping to catch some perch. But there was a commotion in the water and he was horrified to discover that it was all cluttered up with crocodiles. The beasts craned their necks and scrutinized him, slyly rolling their eyes and licking their chops.



As Harry withdrew precipitately there came an awful roar that made the earth tremble. Harry nearly jumped out of his skin, and so did the other Mertons and the Professor.

"Animals!" exclaimed Dick.

"My word!" said Dick. "An African ant!"

"Oh, nonsense!" said the Professor. "It's a lion. Isn't it exactly like that thing we have on the pole?"

"How do you figure?" asked Dick. "George told us the lion country was 60 miles north of here. Besides, I have often read that the African ant is an extremely large grade of ant."

"No, it's a lion," said Tom, decisively. "Ants don't growl."

"The thing is," said the professor, "what are we going to do about it? Or, to be more precise, what is Harry going to do about it?"

The youngest Merton had retreated to the edge of the slope, and the lion, now a scant 10 feet away from him, was pawing the ground, snorting and swaying from side to side, its great eyes blazing rage and defiance. It was quite a dilemma. If Harry jumped into the stream, the crocodiles would eat him; and if he didn't jump into the stream, the lion would eat him. Escape seemed utterly impossible.

The Professor wore a revolver and was the only one of the trio that was armed, the others having left their weapons in the tents. Tom snatched the revolver out of its holster and leveled it. Just as the lion sprang, he pulled the trigger and the great beast of the jungle toppled over dead.

Professor Ginch and the two Mertons rushed up to congratulate Harry and inspect the fallen jungle king. But out of some nearby bushes there popped a stranger—a stranger with a star on his chest—who held up a restraining hand.

"The game warden!" gasped the Professor.

"Correct," said the stranger. "You all know as well as I do that it's against the law to bag more than one lion per day." He drew a pamphlet from his coat pocket, unfolded it and read: "'Hunting parties are allowed daily quotas of big game as follows: wildebeest, nine; wart hogs, seven; ant eaters, six; leopards, three; Cape buffalo, three; gorillas, no limit, and lions, one.'"

"But we didn't bag that other lion," protested the Professor. "We bought it."

"A likely story," scoffed the game warden. "I ought to run you all in, but I think I'll give you a break and let you off with a warning. However, I'll have to appropriate this here second lion."

Dick, who had been studying the warden closely, suddenly grabbed the man's moustache, and to everyone's amazement, the adornment came off.

"'Beef' Bascom, the scourge of Bonnybrook!" cried Tom angrily. "So! I thought it was about time for you to show up! Still up to your despicable tricks, eh? Some day, Mr. Bascom, I'm going to lose my temper and wallop you! I'll give you just 10 seconds to clear out of this camp and hit the trail back to your own expedition!"

As the red-faced Bascom quickly slunk away, Harry seized Tom's hand and warmly pressed it.

"And now," said Harry, "let me thank you for saving my life. That was certainly a marvelous shot. Peculiar thing, though, I heard no report. Was I too distracted or has a silencer been attached to that weapon?"

"Of course, you didn't hear any shot," said Tom. "There wasn't any." As Harry's mouth fell agape, the eldest Merton continued: "That lion apparently succumbed to old age. As you know, Professor Ginch is an absent-minded professor, and look—the cylinder of his revolver is stuffed with pipe tobacco instead of cartridges."

Heinz Rice Flakes not only furnish all the energy and body-building elements of rice, but they supply an essential substance found in no other rice flakes. This substance is cereal-cellulose—one of the gentlest, mildest, and most effective correctives known to man.

H. J. Heinz Company spent eight years in perfecting the exclusive process by which cereal-cellulose is added to Heinz Rice Flakes.

During these eight years, and since then, careful tests have been made. These tests prove conclusively that Heinz Rice Flakes have the same natural corrective quality that Nature gives to some fruits and vegetables. It costs much more to make Heinz Rice Flakes this way. But it costs you no more.

DON'T CHEAT YOUR CANARY

The many hours of cheerful song and entertainment your canary provides are poorly rewarded unless you give him food that thrills and nourishes him. His happiness and health mean too much to you to risk losing them by feeding cheap, inferior foods when the finest natural balanced food costs so very little more. One can feeds one canary 70 days at a cost of less than ⅓ of one cent per day.

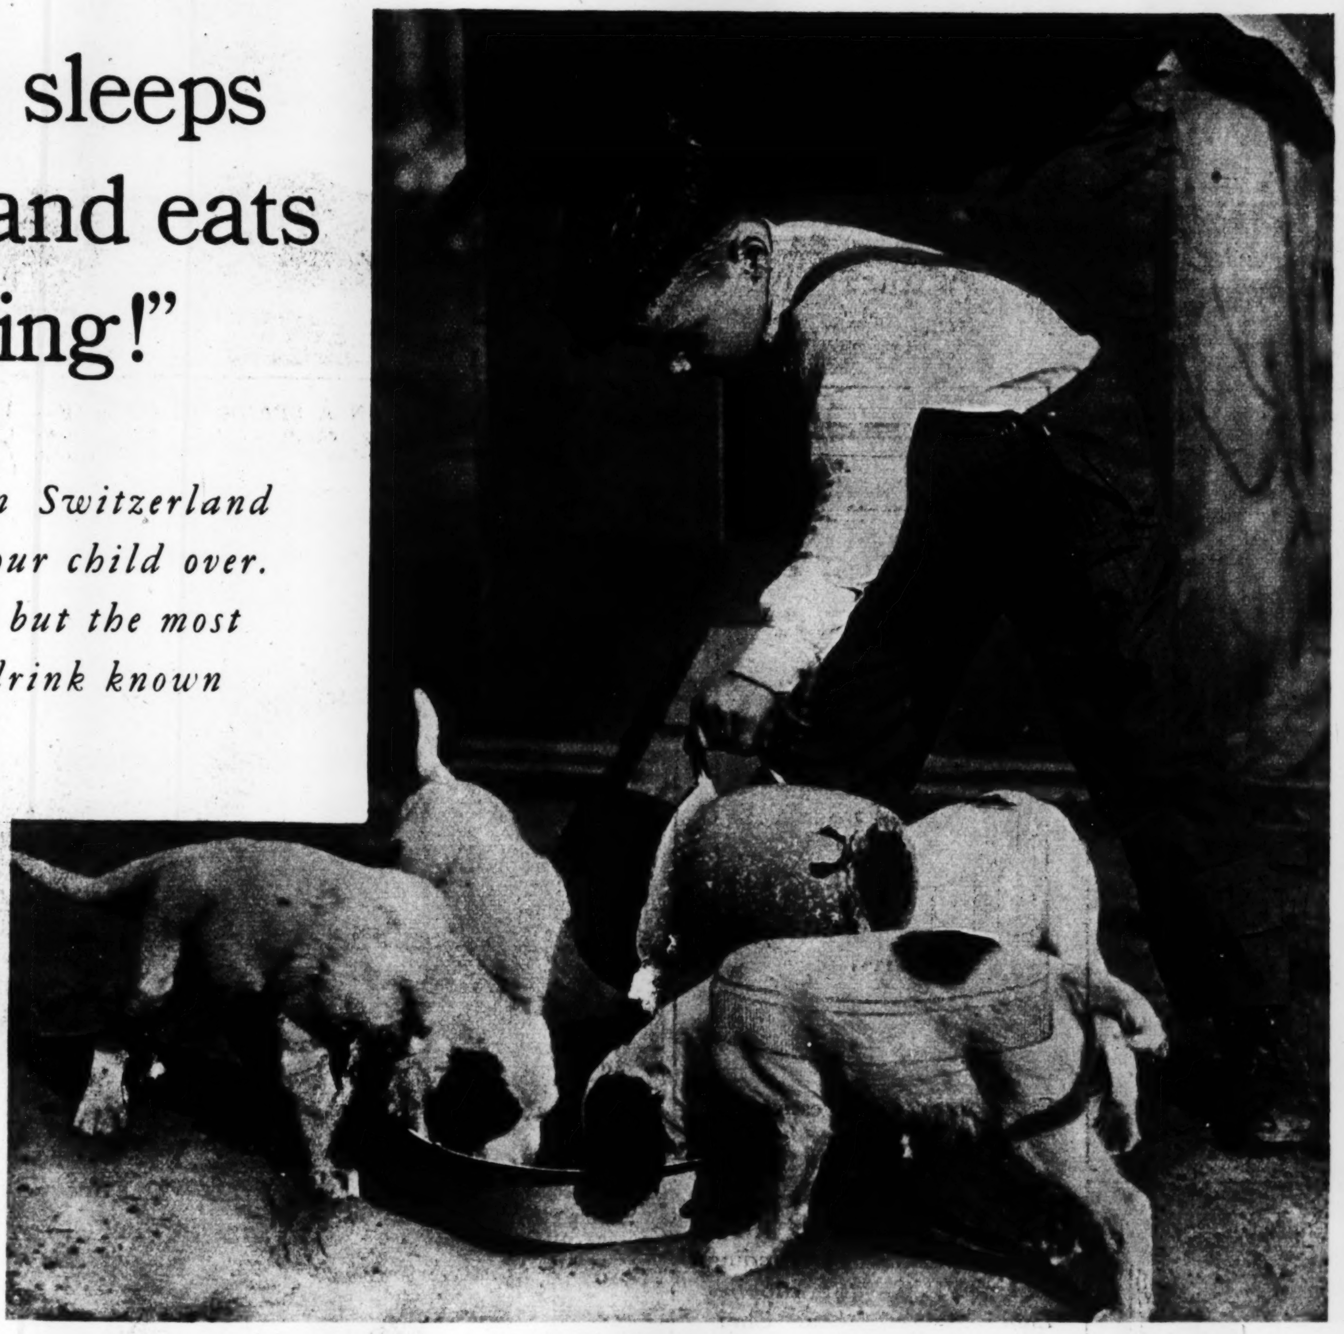
"My boy was terribly underweight

. . . . so nervous that he couldn't sleep

Now he sleeps all night and eats anything!"

A Discovery from Switzerland that may make your child over. Not a medicine, but the most delicious food-drink known



"I am delighted with what Ovaltine has done for my boy. He was terribly underweight, so nervous that he couldn't sleep at night and his appetite was poor. Since using Ovaltine his nervous condition has improved remarkably and he has steadily gained in weight. He sleeps soundly all night now and his appetite has improved so he eats most anything without the slightest trouble. I'd never be without Ovaltine again."

Mrs. B. G. Taylor, Lawrenceburg, Ky.

SUMMER should be used to build up your child's weight. Don't believe loss of weight during the summer months is "natural" to your child.

You can build your child's weight a pound or more a week all during vacation if you will; curb any nervous conditions and actually improve his appetite. You can do this in a way the average child delights in and without a drop of medicine.

You give a food-drink that comes from Switzerland, the nation which has achieved so many great things for children. New to America, but used for years in Europe, over 20,000 doctors are advising it.

The coupon below offers you a 3-day supply. For your child's sake, please accept it.

What It Is—How It Acts

Thirty-eight years ago a food-chemist in Switzerland developed an unusual method of processing certain natural foods. A process that gave these foods certain values which none of them have when taken alone or in an ordinary mixture. It created world comment then, for it solved the problem of feeding invalids. It is called Ovaltine and today its use has spread all over the world and it is solving the problem of child feeding for modern mothers.

Ovaltine is made by a unique process—it is prepared under vacuum, thus preserving all vitamins and enzymes. Further, it is processed in such a way that it digests almost at once, without effort. It will digest when nothing else seems to "agree." And constitutes in itself a complete food.

You mix it with milk and drink it as a beverage. And when mixed with milk it will break down the curds and make the milk digest twice as easily. (For milk alone, as you know, turns to solid curds in the stomach.)

Children drink twice as much milk, when it's mixed with Ovaltine, because they like the taste.

It also contains a natural but vital property called "lecithin," which is the important part of nerve and brain tissue. A few days' use of Ovaltine usually curbs nervousness noticeably.

Increased Appetite

Ovaltine has a high content of the appetite-producing Vitamin B. But of greatest importance is its high proportion of the remarkable food element known as "diastase." (A substance that gives one food the power to digest the starch content of other foods in your stomach.)

Ovaltine is so processed that it contains enough diastase to digest from 4 to 5 times its own weight of other foods! It is this digestive power which chiefly distinguishes Ovaltine from any other health food in the world, and is the main reason why Ovaltine actually stimulates appetite.

Quick Digestion

By breaking down the curds in the milk, by digesting the starches in the stomach, Ovaltine speeds up digestion and empties the stomach sooner. This makes a child hungry. For the sensation of hunger is caused by the walls of an empty stomach pressing together, and hunger is the basis of appetite. Child specialists will tell you that usually when a child refuses to eat, it is because he hasn't fully digested his previous meal—"poor eaters" invariably have slow digestion.

World-Wide Use

Ovaltine today is used in thousands of hospitals and sanitariums. It is prescribed by over 20,000 doctors. It was used as a standard ration by the Red Cross during the World War, for nerve-shattered, shell-shocked soldiers. In short, it is time-tested.

For the sake of your child we urge you to try it. Results will surprise you. Note the almost immediate difference in your child's weight and nerve poise, and in greater strength, energy and appetite.

Ovaltine is delicious, hot or cold—it makes a novel and enticing cold shake-up drink for warm summer days.

Give it at breakfast always. At meals and between meals. You can get Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store. Or, send the coupon for a 3-day test.

(Note) Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine, on physicians' advice, to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also widely recommended for sleeplessness, nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

Eats Better and Gaining Weight She Seems Like a Different Child

I want to tell you about my experience with Ovaltine. Little Nancy is just three, and growing very fast. Lately her color has not been good, her appetite poor, and she grew awfully thin. I heard about Ovaltine and decided to try some. Nancy liked Ovaltine so well she drank three cups the first day and I have been giving it to her regularly since. Her cheeks are rosy and her eyes bright. She seems like a different child. She eats so much better, too, and is gaining weight.

Mrs. R. F. Olson, 133 Center Cross St., Sycamore, Ill.

Unbelievably Quick Gain in Strength and Weight After Illness

Having a boy sick in bed with scarlet fever, who needed immediate strength, I decided to try Ovaltine, having already sent for it, one time when I happened to see your offer. I find it to do everything your ad says it will. Deane gained strength and weight much quicker than I could ever believe he could after being so sick, and he loves it. I also give it to my other two children who will not drink enough milk.

Mrs. Fred Jackson, 14530 Strathmore Ave., E. Cleveland, Ohio

OATMEAL TEST

Put 3 teaspoonfuls of Ovaltine into a full glass or cereal dish of cooked, warm oatmeal. Stir a few times to mix. Then watch and you will see the oatmeal liquefy before your eyes. You will see how a small amount of Ovaltine digests the entire starch content of the oatmeal in the same way that your own digestive organs should. It is a perfect demonstration of how Ovaltine, if taken with a meal, digests the starch content of other foods in your stomach. And why it speeds up digestion and creates the sensation of hunger.
